THE EMPORIA STATE Research Studies

THE GRADUATE PUBLICATION OF THE KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE, EMPORIA

A Selected, Annotated Bibliography of Sources in the Kansas State Historical Society Pertaining to Kansas in the Civil War

Quantrill's Raid on Lawrence, August 21, 1863 (Kansas State Historical Society)

By Eugene Donald Decker

WHITE LIBRARY ESU EMPORIA

The Emporia State Research Studies

KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE EMPORIA, KANSAS

A Selected, Annotated Bibliography of Sources in the Kansas State Historical Society Pertaining to Kansas in the Civil War

By Eugene Donald Decker

VOLUME 9

JUNE 1961

NUMBER 4

THE EMPORIA STATE RESEARCH STUDIES is published in September, December, March and June of each year by the Graduate Division of the Kansas State Teachers College, 1200 Commercial St., Emporia, Kansas. Entered as second-class matter September 16, 1952, at the post office at Emporia, Kansas, under the act of August 24, 1912. Postage paid at Emporia, Kansas.

973. TA

KANSAS STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE EMPORIA · KANSAS

JOHN E. KING

President of the College

THE GRADUATE DIVISION

LAURENCE C. BOYLAN, Dean

EDITORIAL BOARD

TED F. Andrews, Professor of Biology and Head of Department
WILLIAM H. SEILER, Professor of Social Science and Chairman of Division
CHARLES E. WALTON, Professor of English
GREEN D. WYRICK, Associate Professor of English

Editor of this issue: WILLIAM H. SEILER

This publication is a continuation of Studies in Education published by the Graduate Division from 1930 to 1945.

Papers published in this periodical are written by faculty members of the Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia and by either undergraduate or graduate students whose studies are conducted in residence under the supervision of a faculty member of the college.

431994

DATA PHOCESSING

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The writer wishes to acknowledge his appreciation to Dr. William H. Seiler, Professor of History and Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences at Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia, for his assistance in the preparation of this study and for serving as editor.

The writer also wishes to acknowledge his thanks for the interest and helpful suggestions given to him by Nyle H. Miller, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, and the following members of the staff, Robert H. Richmond, State Archivist, Mrs. George Hawley of the library, and Forrest R. Blackburn, research director. Credit for the illustrations goes to Jack L. Casner of the Society's staff.

Last, but by no means least, a special thanks goes to my wife Carolyn for her help in typing and proofreading the manuscript.

E. D. D.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia, President King and Dean Boylan, the Graduate Division which sponsors this publication, and the members of the editorial board of the Emporia State Research Studies are very pleased to have this opportunity to offer Mr. Decker's study during this Kansas centennial year.

We are all aware that the Kansas State Historical Society is the major service center for the study of Kansas history. Through the years its contribution to the Kansas heritage has been widely recognized, and its resources continue to be dedicated to the perpetuation of that heritage. We are most appreciative to Mr. Nyle H. Miller, secretary, for making this study available to the members of the Society, in addition to those on our regular mailing list.

It is our hope that this bibliography of materials in the Kansas State Historical Society pertaining to the early years of Kansas statehood will be of value to many persons, now and in the future.

W. H. S.

CONTENTS

I.	Introduction	•	•	7
II.	Annotated Bibliography of Major Primary and Secondary Sources			10
III.	Annotated Bibliography of Minor Primary and Secondary Sources		•	23
IV.	Miscellaneous Sources		•	57
	Novels, Plays, Poems and Songs		•	57
	Clippings, Scrapbooks, Addresses,
	Broadsides, Reunions, Rosters and other
	Miscellaneous Memorabilia	•		60
v.	Primary Source Material-Manuscripts			67
	Correspondence			67
	Diaries	•		82
	Miscellaneous Manuscripts			83
	Quantrill's Raid		•	87
	Military Records	•	•	89
	•
VI.	. Civil War Newspapers			93

A Selected, Annotated Bibliography of Sources in the Kansas State Historical Society Pertaining to Kansas in the Civil War

by

Eugene Donald Decker*

I

INTRODUCTION

Bibliography is said to be but the handmaiden of history. Yet the service it renders is one of fundamental importance. The adage that a stream cannot rise higher than its source is never more appropriate than when applied to the sources of the stream of history. These sources it is the task of bibliography to identify and to assist in the historian's task of evaluation

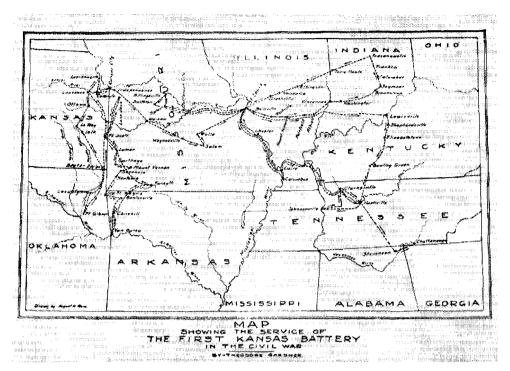

[John B. White, Nebraska State Historical Society, 1956.]

The Civil War centennial and the centennial of Kansas statehood are commemorated in 1961. This bibliography of major, minor and miscellaneous materials in the Kansas State Historical Society collections is offered to assist in the study of Kansas for the years 1861-1865.

Kansas had been admitted to the Union only a few months when the call to arms sounded. She was not a state to shirk her duty. Quickly Senator James H. Lane organized the Kansas office-seekers in Washington, D. C., into the Frontier Guard and tendered their services to President Lincoln. During the course of the Civil War 20,000 men, both white and Negro, were mustered from the state into federal service. Only once was Kansas forced to use conscription in order to meet her quota. Casualties to Kansas troops exceeded 8,000 and her mortality was the highest proportionally of any state in the Union. Altogether she supplied twenty-three regiments, four batteries and several units of state militia to the war effort.

In analyzing the sources of Kansas war history for the years 1861-1865, a formidable task came to me; time and other restrictive factors necessitated limiting the available material. To some, the Civil War might have begun May 30, 1854, when Kansas first became a territory, while to others it may have begun during the lusty era of old John Brown, and still other dates and events have been cited. For the purpose of this paper it actually commenced on April 12, 1861, with the firing on Fort Sumter, and ended not during reconstruction but with General Grant's acceptance of Lee's sword at Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865.

^eMr. Decker is a member of the staff of the Kansas State Historical Society. This study was originally submitted by the author as a Research Project in partial fulfillment of his Master's degree program in the Social Sciences at Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia.

A map showing the service of the First Kansas Battery in the Civil War. (Kansas State Historical Society.)

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

Three departments of the Kansas State Historical Society were consulted for material: the library, the archives and manuscripts department, and the newspaper and census department. The library was consulted thoroughly and source materials are listed in Chapters II, III and IV. Compiling these chapters proved to be an arduous undertaking, but the catalogues, other bibliographical sources, and the librarians provided me with extensive published and unpublished reference material. As the compiler of this bibliography, I reserved the right to discriminate in selecting only those items I thought embraced the subject sufficiently to be worthy of their allocation here.

Complete collections, such as the Official Records of the Civil War, are listed as one work, rather than presenting the various subdivisions that are pertinent to Kansas. The library also has Adjutant General's Reports, regimental histories and monographs relative to service rendered by the several states that participated in the Civil War. No special analysis of these sources was made. This would have been too great an undertaking at this time. Several are included because of some general reference. It is undoubtedly true that careful examination would reveal some items of value concerning Kansas.

Clippings and the like are classified together in the volumes in which they are to be found, and no attempt was made to list each entry separately, for to do so would result in confusion. These entries are found in Chapter IV. When specific clippings are of intense value, they may be mentioned independently. Most of these are in Chapter III.

Most items herein contained were personally examined; however, a number of entries reported to be in the library were not located due to inadvertent misplacement, theft, or other forms of loss in past years.

Letters, diaries and other memorabilia were scrutinized and included in the manuscripts section, Chapter V. Small collections are presented individually, while others, numbering several hundred items, are presented collectively. Several of the larger collections are edited and published in the Kansas Historical Quarterly. Two examples are the Joseph Trego and the Daniel R. Anthony letters. In such cases of publication, these entries are made in either Chapter II or Chapter III and also as manuscript entries in Chapter V.

The newspaper section of this project proved to be the least difficult. From William E. Connelley's History of Kansas Newspapers and American Newspapers, 1821-1936, edited by Winifred Gregory, the names and dates of publication were extracted. As Connelley's work, published in 1916, lists the papers that the Society had available to that date, it was necessary to check the accession records for the period 1917-1960 to ascertain any new receipts of Civil War era newspapers. None of the publications has been scanned for war articles, but it is quite likely that much pertinent data would be discovered. In most of the journals that I have had an opportunity to view, there are editorials, direct reporting and reprints which give an insight and understanding to the war situation as it affected Kansas. Newspapers published outside the perimeter of Kansas constitute a source that is largely untapped and must be left to some other investigator.

VALIDATION OF THE STUDY

It is a truism, of course, that no bibliography is ever complete. This one is no exception. To strive for completeness would postpone the use of this paper until the centennial years are long past and the purpose for which it was prepared minimized. The terminal date for this paper was January, 1960, and already new materials have been received by the library and division of manuscripts.

The content of these materials must be carefully examined, of course. The recollections and the reminiscences particularly should be checked against recognized, authenticated documents. Writing several decades after the occurrence of an event, the author tends to subscribe to what is heard and what is "wanted to be seen," and not to what was actually seen and known. Outstanding examples of this type of presentation found in in this paper are the memoirs of the survivors of the Quantrill raid. As a result of remembrances, a structural weakness in historical writing occurs, as each successive account goes back only as far as its immediate predecessor, rather than to the original and ultimate source. But it is necessary to retain them for what they are worth, for no adequate history of Kansas during this epoch—or for that matter, any other period—could be written without them, as some aspects of war history are so insufficiently represented that there is no other source available.

It is hoped that this bibliography will be helpful to the researcher, and that any additions or corrections will be brought to the attention of those responsible for its preparation or to those in charge of the departments from which the material was obtained.

II

ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF MAJOR PRIMARY AND SECONDARY SOURCES

The fundamental purpose of the present chapter is to list certain primary and secondary materials of major consequence. An attempt has been made to separate the more important sources from those of subordinate value. Saying one item has major worth while another has less value is subjective and, therefore, arbitrary. The designation of minor and miscellaneous sources for the listings following this chapter do not imply a poor record or one lacking in subject matter. Actually the works found in Chapters III and IV, when used collectively, can divulge a wealth of information, particularly when applied to a specific topic. However, as individual items pertaining to Kansas, they do not have the major consequence of the items noted in this chapter.

Edited, primary source materials, such as diaries, letters, manuscripts, etc., that have been published in the Kansas Historical Quarterly and other scholarly journals are included in this section. Likewise, monographs that deal exclusively with Kansas Civil War activities, i.e., Albert Castel's A Frontier State at War: Kansas, 1861-1865, or a portion of a book that represents a segment of the war, e.g., Dudley Cornish's The Sable Arm are presented. Certain standard histories of Kansas have been included, because they furnish a basic outline of the events that have transpired. Other general histories, which mention briefly the Civil War period, have been placed in Chapter III. In addition, biographical studies of leading military figures and local statesmen are recorded, when it has been determined that enough material can be gleaned from their use. Official reports of a primary or an authoritative nature are also placed in this category.

The works presented in Chapters II, III and IV can be obtained in the Society's library.

Abel, Annie H. The American Indian as a Participant in the Civil War. Cleveland: The Arthur H. Clark Company, 1919. 403 pp. portraits, map.

An excellent work on the employment of Indians as a fighting force exploited by the Union and Confederate governments.

Battles in the Indian Territory [Oklahoma] in which Kansas troops participated are mentioned.

land: The Arthur H. Clark Company, 1915. 394 pp. portraits, map.

A preliminary work which should be used as an introductory study for The American Indian as a Participant in the Civil War.

Good description of the Indian Territory and the Border States on the eve of the Civil War, and of methods used in persuading the Indians to side with the Confederacy rather than the Union.

Andreas, Alfred T. History of the State of Kansas; Containing a Full Account of its Growth from an Uninhabited Territory to a Wealthy and Important State; of its Early Settlements; its Rapid Increase in Population, and the Marvelous Development of its Great Natural Resources. Also, a Supplementary History and Description of its Counties, Cities, Towns, and Villages . . . Biographical Sketches 2 vols. Chicago: The Western Historical Company, 1883. folded maps.

A section, pp. 179-211, is devoted to military history. Contains rosters of Kansas regiments, orders, casualty lists and synopses of battles.

Barton, O. S. Three Years With Quantrell; A True Story Told By His Scout John McCorkle. Armstrong, Missouri: Armstrong Herald Printing Plant, 1914. 157 pp. portraits.

Written on the golden anniversary of the raid and somewhat tarnished, it is a biographical study of Quantrill and his men as told by his chief scout.

Baxter, William. Pea Ridge and Prairie Grove; or, Scenes and Incidents of the War in Arkansas. Cincinnati: Poe and Hitchcock, 1864. 262 pp.

A different approach to the two campaigns by the Reverend Baxter who, due to his calling, was able to note details that eluded the combatants. Kansas troops participated at Prairie Grove only.

Blackmar, Frank W. Kansas: A Cyclopedia of State History 2 vols. Chicago: Standard Publishing Company, 1912.

Alphabetical listing of names, places, events and people in Kansas Civil War history.

Kansas. Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1902. 438 pp. photographs.

A portion of this monograph deals with Robinson's experiences as the state's first wartime governor.

Blunt, James G. "General Blunt's Account of His Civil War Experiences," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 1: 211-265, May, 1932.

Written sometime after the Civil War, it remained hidden from the public for many years. It probably is the most authentic work on Blunt's military career.

A synopsis of Blunt's activities as requested by Colonel T. G. Anderson, Adjutant General of Kansas. It deals with the Arkansas campaigns, General Sterling Price's invasion of Missouri and Kansas, and Blunt's forays into the Indian Territory.

The Battle of Cane Hill; Official Report. [n.p] [n.n.] [n.d.] unpaged.

A reprint taken from official records as found in The War of Rebellion; a Compilation of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies . . . as made to Major General Samuel Curtis, Commanding General of the Department of the West, December 3, 1862, giving facts and statistics.

Bondi, August. Autobiography of August Bondi, 1833-1907. Galesburg, Illinois: Wagoner Printing Company, 1910. 178 pp. illustrations.

Chapters VI-IX contain a chronological diary-like report of his war experiences with Co. K, Fifth Kansas regiment in Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas. The original is found in the Society's manuscript collection.

Brayer, Herbert O. (ed.). To Form a More Perfect Union; The Lives of Charles Francis and Mary Clarke from Their Letters, 1847-1871. Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press, 1941. 233 pp. portraits.

A collection of letters written by Mrs. Clarke to her mother in England mentioning the Civil War in Kansas.

Captain Clarke served with the Sixth Kansas Volunteer regiment; he died of scarlet fever in Tennessee.

Breihan, Carl W. Quantrill and His Civil War Guerrillas. Denver: Alan Swallow, 1959. 174 pp. illustrations.

A well-rounded survey of Quantrill's activities in Missouri and Kansas. Contains a roster of men who served under the "Black Flag."

Bright, John D. (ed.). Kansas: The First Century. 4 vols. New York: Lewis Historical Publishing Company, 1956. maps, photographs.

Chapter VIII, "Kansas at War," written by William F. Zornow presents an excellent coverage, although not detailed, of the war. It is basically the same material as presented by Dr. Zornow in his Kansas; A History of the Jayhawk State. See last entry of this chapter.

Britton, Wiley. The Civil War on the Border; A Narrative of Operations in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and the Indian Territory During the Years 1861-62, Based on the Official Reports of the Federal Commanders Lyon, Sigel, Sturgis, Fremont, Halleck, Curtis, Schofield, Blunt, Herron and Totten and of the Confederate Commanders McCulloch, Price, Van Dorn, Hindman, Marmaduke and Shelby. Third edition, revised. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1899. 465 pp. portraits, maps.

Having fought in many of the battles, the author compares his reminiscences with the official reports published by the United States War Department. Where no official documentation was available, he drew on information supplied him by observers and participants.

An outstanding secondary source for material on the war in the West.

The Civil War on the Border. A Narrative of Military Operations in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and the Indian Territory, During the Years 1863-1865, Based upon Official Reports and Observations of the Author. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1904, 546 pp. maps, illustrations.

Nearly fifteen years after the publication of Vol. I of The Civil War on the Border, Britton deemed it necessary to write Vol. II of this monumental work. Again he used similar sources for study in the preparation of the second volume.

Like Vol. I it is an excellent study of the western Civil War, handicapped only by the lack of a suitable index.

Memoirs of the Rebellion on the Border, 1863. Chicago: Cushing, Thomas & Company, 1882. 458 pp.

Using his diary, authorities he deemed reliable, and official reports, the author produced an unbiased monograph of an eventful year in the West, 1863.

The Union Indian Brigade in the Civil War. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson Publishing Company, 1922. 474 pp. portraits.

Relying upon much the same sources as for his previous works, Britton elaborates on the use of the Indians in the Civil War. Particularly good study of the war in the Indian Territory where Kansas troops took a very active part.

The Aftermath of the Civil War, Based on Investigation of War Claims. Kansas City: Smith-Grieves Company, 1924. 312 pp.

An investigation of war claims made by Kansans and others, based on loss of life and property. The author states that the investigation of every war claim had some relation to military operations and afforded an opportunity for discussion of every phase of the war.

Burch, John P. Charles W. Quantrell: A True History of his Guerrilla warfare on the Missouri and Kansas Border During the Civil War of 1861-1865. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson Press, 1923. 266 pp. illustrations.

Biographical study of Harrison Trow's service with Quantrill's marauders. This narrative was written by Burch as Trow told it to him.

Burke, William S. (comp.). Official Military History of Kansas Regiments

During the War for the Suppression of the Great Rebellion. Leavenworth, Kansas: W. S. Burke, 1870. 464 pp.

Short histories of Kansas Volunteer regiments, including reports, casualties and general orders.

It can also be found in Vol. II, Report of the Adjutant General of the State of Kansas, 1861-'65, or the one volume reprint edition.

Caldwell, Martha B. (ed.). "Some Notes on the Eighth Kansas Infantry and the Battle of Chickamauga," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 13: 139-145, May, 1944.

Miss Caldwell edits several letters written by Colonel John A. Martin, commanding officer of the Eighth Kansas infantry regiment, to John J. Ingalls commenting on the activities of his regiment and the battle of Chickamauga.

Castel, Albert. A Frontier State at War: Kansas, 1861-1865. Ithaca, New York: Cornell University Press, 1958. 251 pp. maps, photographs.

A comprehensive, one-volume study of Kansas' military and political events during the war years. This monograph stays well within the limits of the Kansas borders, the near-by Missouri counties, and Indian Territory. Little effort is devoted to the role that Kansas regiments played in the war outside the West.

Castel's dissertation is liberally covered with footnotes, although he makes many statements without citing authority or acknowledging indebtedness. However, a reasonably complete bibliography gives this work evidence of validity.

"War and Politics: The Price Raid of 1864," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 24: 129-143, Summer, 1958.

Castel delves into the only attempted raid of Kansas during the Civil War and the military tactics and political chicanery that hobbled the attempt to repel it. Battles of the Little and Big Blue, Westport and Mine Creek are depicted.

"Civil War Diary of John Howard Kitts," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 318-332, 1915-1918.

A diary spanning the period, August 23, 1862-October 16, 1864, listing military movements and war events in Arkansas.

Connelley, William E. A Standard History of Kansas and Kansans. 5 vols. Chicago: Lewis Publishing Company, 1918. portraits, maps.

Scattered throughout the first two volumes of this work can be found Civil War material, including maps, photographs, tables and correspondence. A very adequate coverage and summary of the war with enough detail to satisfy the critical reader.

The last three volumes are devoted to biography and should be consulted as needed.

This excellent history text was written by the late secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society and has been reprinted several times.

Kansas: Crane and Company, 1899. 126 pp.

A short, but complete, biography of General Lane. It is made up in part of a series of essays that deal with his wartime activities.

Quantrill and the Border Wars. Cedar Rapids, Iowa: The Torch Press, 1910. 542 pp. portraits, illustrations and maps.

Not essentially a biography, but an account of the incidents comprising border warfare, of which Quantrill was an instigator.

The best reference work on Quantrill and border warfare written to date in the estimation of many.

The Life of Preston B. Plumb, 1837-1891. Chicago: Browne and Howell Company, 1913. 475 pp. maps, portraits.

Approximately one-fourth of this work is devoted to Colonel Plumb's military career in the Eleventh Kansas Volunteer regiment.

Conway, Alan. "The Sacking of Lawrence," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 24: 144-150, Summer, 1958.

This article in the main, is a letter supposedly written by Samuel Roberts, a Welsh Congregational minister, and published in the Merthyr [Wales] Telegraph, October 3, 1863; it undoubtedly had considerable influence on the attitude of many Welshmen towards the Civil War.

Vividly described in this letter is the horrible carnage that took place in Lawrence when Southern guerrillas rode under the "Black Flag."

Conway, a lecturer in American history at the University College of Wales, disputes the authorship of the letter, but believes the contents noted by Samuel Roberts to be authentic.

Cornish, Dudley T. The Sable Arm; Negro Troops in the Union Army, 1861-1865. New York: Longmans, Green and Company, 1956. 337 pp.

Professor Cornish of Kansas State College of Pittsburg mentions that Kansas was one of the first states to use Negro troops to good advantage during the Civil War.

Comprehensive treatise covering a minimized element that was put to good use during the conflict.

"Kansas Negro Regiments in the Civil War," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 20: 417-429, May, 1953.

Using material taken from newspapers, manuscripts and official records, Dr. Cornish treats with due respect a subject which has been sorely neglected.

Kansas put four Negro military organizations into the field and two of them proved their mettle by compiling sterling records in several encounters, most notably at Honey Springs, Oklahoma and Poison Springs, Arkansas.

Cory, Charles E. "The Sixth Kansas Cavalry and its Commander," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 217-238, 1909-1910.

A lengthy, but sketchy, history of the Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment. Numerous quotations from official documents outline General Lane's military service.

A small map of the battleground at Cane Hill, Arkansas, is included.

Crawford, Samuel J. Kansas in the Sixties. Chicago: A. C. McClurg and Company, 1911. 441 pp. photographs.

Memoirs of a "war governor" of Kansas who served in the Second Kansas infantry and cavalry regiments and the Second Kansas Colored regiment. In this enchiridion Crawford personalized several campaigns with emphasis on the purported Price invasion of Kansas which was attempted during his tenure in office.

Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 9: 368-371, 1905-1906.

First draft of a letter written by Governor Crawford to General James Fry, Provost Marshal, Washington, D.C., February 10, 1865.

In this letter Crawford maintained that Kansas should be exempt from the provisions of the Draft Act. Included are statistics comparing the number of volunteers furnished by Kansas to that of the several states.

Crittenden, Henry H. The Battle of Westport and National Memorial Park. Kansas City: The Lowell Press, 1938. 202 pp. photographs.

A short sketch pertaining to the battle of Westport, fought near Kansas City, Missouri, October 21-22, 1864, and the effort made by the author to have the federal government establish a national military park on the site of the battlefield.

Cunningham, Frank. General Stand Watie's Confederate Indians. San Antonio: The Naylor Company, 1959. 242 pp. photographs.

A recent work on the use of Indians in Kansas, Arkansas and the Indian Territory during the Civil War.

Written from the Confederate viewpoint, this deals with the activities of a general of the Confederate Indians and is of immense value to Kansas and Oklahoma historians.

Dale, Edward E., and Gaston Litton. Cherokee Cavaliers; Forty Years of Cherokee History as Told in Correspondence of the Ridge-Watie-Boudinot Family. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1939. 319 pp. illustrations, map.

The correspondence of General Stand Watie, Cherokee Confederate general, March 7, 1832,-October 22, 1872, contains certain letters in reference to Kansas military movements in the Indian Territory.

Dalton, Kit. Under the Black Flag. Memphis: Lockard Publishing Company, [n.d] 252 pp. portraits.

Autobiography of one of Quantrill's henchmen who took part in border warfare.

Dyer, Fredrick. (comp.). A Compendium of the War of the Rebellion Des Moines: Dyer Publishing Company, 1908. 1796 pp.

Part I. Number and organization of armies of the United States.

Part II. Chronological record of campaigns, engagements, actions, skirmishes and sieges in the United States, 1861-1865.

Part III. Regimental histories. See index for Kansas entries.

Edwards, John N. Noted Guerrillas, or the Warfare of the Border St. Louis: Bryan, Brand and Company, 1877. 488 pp.

General summary of guerrilla warfare in Kansas and Missouri with particular stress on the activities of Quantrill.

Shelby and His Men; or, the War in the West. Cincinnati: Miami Printing and Publishing Company, 1867. 551 pp. map.

A well written one-volume work on one of the Confederacy's more capable generals whose activities, centered in the West, are erringly unheralded. Although somewhat biased, it re-examines the war in Missouri and Arkansas, as Shelby and his command were continually in conflict with Kansas regiments—particularly as he moved west with Sterling Price in a final attempt to swing Missouri to the Confederacy and neutralize any advantage posed by Kansas.

The author served in one of Shelby's regiments, and the book was written when the events were fresh; therefore, the possibility of accuracy and authenticity is noteworthy.

Eldridge, Shalor W. Recollections of Early Days in Kansas. Vol. II of Publications of the Kansas State Historical Society. Topeka, Kansas: The Kansas State Printing Plant, 1920. 225 pp.

Several chapters of this extended recollection deal with the war years, mostly with the Lawrence massacre, which he witnessed.

Farlow, Joyce and Louise Barry (eds.). "Vincent B. Osborne's Civil War Experiences," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 20: 108-133, May, 1952, and 20: 187-223, August, 1952.

Private Osborne divides his manuscript into four installments:

Part I deals with the early campaigns in Missouri, particularly the battle of Wilson's Creek, August 10, 1861.

Part II covers his enlistment in the Second Kansas cavalry regiment and a tour of duty in Kansas and New Mexico.

Part III is an expanded account of his unit's activities in Missouri and Arkansas.

Part IV tells of Osborne's war injury and hospitalization at Clarksville, Arkansas.

Fox, Simeon M. "The Early History of the Seventh Kansas Cavalry," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 238-253, 1909-1910.

A history of the Seventh Kansas cavalry, 1861-1862, written by Mr. Fox to refute derogatory statements made about the regiment by Captain Henry Palmer in his Black-Flag Character of the War on the Border.

"The Story of the Seventh Kansas," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 13-49, 1903-1904.

Fox, who was Adjutant General, presented this paper on the Seventh Kansas cavalry before the annual meeting of the Kansas State Historical Society, 1902. He stated that ". . . the story of the Seventh will never be written—can never be written. The story of a few battles—not a tenth told; a sketch of many skirmishes" In spite of its purported deficiencies the article contains many anecdotes, both humorous and sad, which could never be found in a formal regimental history.

The Seventh Kansas Cavalry; Its Service in the Civil War. Topeka, Kansas: The Kansas State Printing Plant, 1908. 59 pp.

Reprinted from Vol. VIII, Kansas Historical Collections, with added footnotes by Secretary George W. Martin.

Gaeddert, G. Raymond. The Birth of Kansas. Topeka, Kansas: The Kansas State Printing Plant, 1940. 232 pp.

An authentic study of the formative years of Kansas by a former employee of the Kansas State Historical Society. Several of the later chapters deal with the military and political entanglements of an infant state preparing for war.

Gardner, Theodore. "The First Kansas Battery," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 235-282, 1915-1918. maps, photographs.

A historical sketch of the First Kansas battery, with reminiscences by the author. It contains several letters and general orders.

Greene, Albert R. "Campaigning in the Army of the Frontier," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 283-310, 1915-1918.

Reminiscences of an officer who served with the Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment in southeastern Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

Much of the article is taken from Greene's diary, which lends to its veracity. Conditions of the countryside and daily routine are mentioned. He described Emporia as a forlorn hamlet which he viewed as the regiment moved south from Fort Leavenworth.

"On the Battle of Wilson Creek," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 5: 116-127, 1889-1896.

Written by a man who took part in the battle, it is a paper telling of the baptismal firing received and the heavy casualties suffered by the First Kansas infantry regiment. This battle took place near Springfield, Missouri, August 10, 1861.

Herklotz, Hildegarde R. "Jayhawkers in Missouri, 1858-1863," Missouri Historical Review, 17: 266-284, April, 1923, 17: 505-513, July, 1923, and 18: 64-101, October, 1923.

A study of bushwhacking and forays made by Kansas guerrillas into Missouri and culminating in the retaliatory destruction of Lawrence, Kansas.

Hinton, Richard J. Rebel Invasion of Missouri and Kansas and the Campaign of the Army of the Border Against General Sterling Price, in October and November, 1864. Chicago: Church and Goodman, 1865. 351 pp. photographs, maps.

A fairly authentic monograph of General Sterling Price's invasion of central Missouri in October and November, 1864, and his expulsion by General James Blunt.

Holcombe, Return I., and ______ Adams. An Account of the Battle of Wilson's Creek, or Oak Hills, Fought Between the Union Troops, Commanded by Gen. N. Lyon, and the Southern, or Confederate Troops, Under Command of Gens. McCulloch and Price, on Saturday, August 10, 1861, in Greene County, Missouri. Springfield, Missouri: Dow and Adams, 1883. 104 pp. photographs.

A general over-all study of the battle of Wilson's Creek with sketches of the various state regiments that participated.

The First and Second Kansas Volunteer regiments were engaged there. Holland, Avis. "Daniel Read Anthony, The Fearless Knight of Journalism." Unpublished term paper, The University of Chicago, Summer, 1938. 34 pp.

This term paper covers the whole of Anthony's life and takes a concise look at his military career, particularly the difficulty in which he was involved in Tennessee.

Public anger was aroused when Anthony, colonel of the Seventh Kansas regiment, threatened to severely punish any man in his command who apprehended or returned any fugitive slave to his owner.

Hull, Myra E. (ed.). "Soldiering on the High Plains, the Diary of Lewis Bryan Hull, 1864-1866." Kansas Historical Quarterly, 7: 3-53, February, 1938.

Edited by Hull's daughter Myra, this diary deals with the Eleventh Ohio regiment's activities in the Wyoming Territory. Part of it is devoted to a description of a march from Cincinnati to Fort Kearney, Nebraska, via Fort Leavenworth, February-March, 1864.

Jenkins, Paul B. The Battle of Westport. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson Publishing Company, 1906. 193 pp. photographs, maps.

Partially breaks down into hours the day of the battle and recounts the events as they transpired on October 23, 1864.

Organization of various commands that took part, including Confederate units.

Klema, Marion. "The Later Career of William A. Phillips." Unpublished Master's thesis, The University of Kansas, 1942. 95 pp.

Taken from Vols. XIII and XXII of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion, a presentation of the war record of Colonel Phillips, who served primarily in the Indian Territory.

Langsdorf, Edgar. "Jim Lane and the Frontier Guard," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 9: 13-25, February, 1940.

An interesting article about an unofficial organization established by the master political manipulator, Senator James H. Lane, to serve as a bodyguard to President Lincoln during the initial phases of the war.

Contains excerpts from leading Kansas and Eastern newspapers.

ty Pioneer," Kansas Historical Quarterly, Parts II and III, 19: 287-309, August, 1951, and 19: 381-400, November, 1951, photographs.

While serving as an officer in the Union army, Dr. Joseph H. Trego wrote this group of letters to his wife at Mound City, Kansas. They delineate both the privation and the fortuitous events of Co. D, Third Kansas cavalry regiment. Also letters written by Mrs. Trego, informing him of activities that took place during his absence.

thony, 1857-1862," Kansas Historical Quarterly, Parts III and IV, 24: 351-370, Autumn, 1958, and 24: 458-475, Winter, 1958, photographs, map.

Part III contains letters written between October 1, 1861, and June 7, 1862, recapitulating the daily events and occurrences of an encamped army. A letter dated November 24, 1861, mentions the battle of Little Blue near Independence, Missouri.

Part IV contains letters concerning the last few months of Anthony's connection with the Seventh Kansas Volunteer regiment and dates from June 20 until September 14, 1862. The most important of the letters deals with Anthony's prohibition of the enforcement of the fugitive slave law by General Order No. 26, a copy of which is reprinted.

This series of letters addressed to his family is written from Mississippi and Tennessee.

"Letter of James Montgomery," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, Vols. I and II, 1875-1880, pp. 232-233.

A letter dated May 8, 1861, from Colonel Montgomery to George L. Stearns, stating the Kansas policy of action at the beginning of the war and discussing conditions in Linn county.

"Letters of John Ferguson, Early Resident of Western Washington County," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 12: 339-348, November, 1943.

A group of unedited letters written to Cephas Brainard in Connecticut telling him of the Indian depredations in Washington county.

Due to the war, not enough troops were left in Kansas to protect the settlers from the infrequent war parties.

"Letters of Julia Louisa Lovejoy, 1856-1864," Kansas Historical Quarterly, Part V, 16: 175-211, May, 1948. photograph.

Mrs. Lovejoy, wife of a Methodist minister, wrote this series of letters from Vermont, Kansas, and Cornith, Mississippi. She was in the last two places with her husband, who was a chaplain with a Kansas regiment.

The Vermont and Kansas letters deal with wartime thought, while the ones from the South picture battles and conditions.

"Letters of Samuel James Reader, 1861-1863," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 9: 26-57, February, 1940, and 9: 141-174, May, 1940, photographs.

These letters were written from Indianola, which was northwest of Topeka, to Reader's half-brother Frank, his half-sisters Mary Ellen and Martha, and other relatives in Illinois and his Indianola friends at the front.

These letters cover an era from January, 1861, to March, 1863, as he gave his views of a nation in a state of chaos.

Reader later served with the Kansas Militia in repelling General Price's invasion and became a foremost artist of Kansas Civil War scenes.

Lowman, Hovey E. "Narrative of the Lawrence Massacre," [Lawrence, Kansas: State Journal Steam Press, 1864.] 130 pp. typed copy.

A vivid description of the Lawrence massacre. Several of the early chapters deal with the rational of the massacre and with the conditions that followed.

The late Society secretary William Connelley said that this manuscript is reliable, fair in statement and the most elaborate on the subject.

The Society does not possess an original copy of this pamphlet.

Martin, John A. Military History of the Eighth Kansas Veteran Volunteer Infantry. Leavenworth, Kansas: Daily Bulletin Steam Book and Job Printing House, 1869. 112 pp.

A historical sketch of the Eighth regiment's activities in the Civil War by its commanding officer.

Masterson, Vincent V. The Katy Railroad and the Last Frontier. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1952. 312 pp. photographs, map.

See pages 48-49 for a letter dated Lawrence, Kansas, August 23, 1863, concerning the Quantrill raid. It was written by Robert Stevens, who was later to become president of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad.

Monaghan, Jay. Civil War on the Western Border, 1854-1865. Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1955. 454 pp.

A comprehensive study of Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas military history, emphasizing their leaders and the battles that were fought within their borders. The area on the eve of the war is adequately covered.

"A Nathaniel Lyon Letter," Mississippi Valley Historical Review, 9: 139-144, September, 1922.

In a letter dated St. Louis, March 7, 1861, General Lyon wrote to a Dr. Scott in Leavenworth telling of military life and giving a picture of the area. He also asked about his friends in Kansas.

General Lyon had been ordered from Fort Riley to St. Louis early in 1861 when it became known that the secessionists planned to capture it.

Philips, John F. "The Diary of Acting Brig. Genl. Jno. F. Philips," Annals of Kansas City, 1: 267-274, December, 1923.

This diary, covering the period from Tuesday, October 18, through Saturday, October 29, 1864, gives an account of the battle of the Blue and the retreat southward of a defeated army with emphasis on privations suffered.

Prentis, Noble L. History of Kansas. Revised edition. Topeka, Kansas: Caroline E. Prentis, 1904. 412 pp.

Using short articles, Prentis presents a concise, but complete summation of the war. See pp. 96-122.

Quarles, Benjamin. The Negro in the Civil War. Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1953. 379 pp. illustrations.

Deals with the Negro soldier as utilized by the North. No one chapter is devoted to Kansas, but references are made throughout the text.

Rea, Ralph R. Sterling Price. The Lee of the West. Little Rock: Pioneer Press, 1959. 229 pp. maps, photographs, tables.

A biographical study of General Price by the grandson of an aide, with nearly as many references to Kansas as to Price himself.

Report of the Adjutant General of the State of Kansas, 1861-'65. Reprint edition. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas State Printing Plant, 1896. 948 pp.

The printed record of Kansas volunteer soldiers who were mustered into federal service, giving rank, date of enlistment, commissioning date, mustering date and other pertinent data. A military history of each regiment is included. (See W. S. Burke) Also contains much correspondence and reports.

The original report was published in two volumes by the Leavenworth Bulletin Co-operative Printing Company in 1867. All but a few copies of the original printing were destroyed by fire. This reprint edition has been indexed by the staff for use by library patrons.

Report of the Adjutant General of the State of Kansas for the Year 1864. Leavenworth, Kansas: P. H. Hubbell and Company, 1865. 714 pp.

A report made to Governor Thomas Carney, concerning the activities of the Kansas State Militia and Volunteer regiments for 1864. It contains rosters, reports and casualty lists.

Robinson, Charles. The Kansas Conflict. Lawrence, Kansas: Journal Publishing Company, 1898. 478 pp.

Chapter XVIII deals with the Civil War. The chapter contains correspondence relating to the contention between Governor Charles Robinson and Senator James H. Lane.

Speer, John I. "The Burning of Osceola, Mo., by Lane and the Quantrill Massacre Contrasted," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 305-312, 1897-1900.

A striking comparison of the destruction of Osceola, Missouri, and Lawrence, Kansas, showing the aboveboard method of Lane's attack in contrast to the cowardliness displayed by Quantrill.

A superior article that refutes some of the legends about the two raids.

Life of Gen. James H. Lane. Second edition. Garden City, Kansas: John Speer, 1897. 353 pp. photographs.

A broad study of Lane's over-all career with some mention of his Civil War entanglements.

Spring, Leverett W. Kansas: The Prelude to the War for the Union. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin and Company, 1885. 334 pp.

Pages 268-305 deal with the Civil War in Kansas. It is often used as source material for other works on Kansas.

Steele, James W. The Battle of the Blue of the Second Regiment, K. S. M., October 22, 1864. The Fight, the Captivity, the Escape, as Remembered by Survivors and Commemorated by the Gage Monument at Topeka, Kansas. Chicago: D. H. Christophel, 1896, 157 pp. photographs.

Writing thirty-two years after the battle of the Blue which took place near Lexington, Missouri, the author tells of adversities, the taking of prisoners, and the lack of sound military tactics as exercised by the Union high command.

Contains a roster of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia and list of casualties.

Stephenson, Wendell H. The Political Career of General James H. Lane. Vol. III of Publications of the Kansas State Historical Society. Topeka, Kansas: The State Printing Plant, 1930. 196 pp. photographs, map.

This publication encompasses Stephenson's master's thesis and doctoral dissertation, as presented to the Universities of Indiana and Michigan.

Part II deals with Lane's political and military activities in Kansas in the 1860's. It might be considered the most authentic work on Lane's life to date.

Tuttle, Charles R. A New Centennial History of the State of Kansas: Being a Full and Complete Civil, Political and Military History of the State from its Earliest Settlement to the Present Time. Madison, Wisconsin: Inter-State Book Company, 1876. 708 pp. portraits.

Pages 448-513 of this general history text cover the military affairs for the period 1861-1865.

U. S. Congress, 37th, 2nd Sess. House. House Report no. 132. "Relief to Indian Refugees in Southern Kansas." (Serial 1138)

Letters written to William P. Dole, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, from government officials, regarding the plight of loyal Indians near Le-Roy, Kansas.

U. S. Congress, 37th, 3rd Sess. Senate. Senate Report no. 108. "Report of the Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War." (Serial 1152)

Pages 3-279 of Part III, Department of the West, deal with testimony given about the conduct of the war in Missouri and the West from the beginning until 1863.

Brief mention of Kansas participation in the war, including a report of the battle of Wilson's Creek. U. S. Congress, 38th, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Miscellaneous Document no. 47. (Serial 1177)

Copy of a letter dated July 22, 1862, appointing the honorable James H. Lane as commissioner of recruiting for the department of Kansas.

=

U. S. War Records Office. The War of the Rebellion; a Compilation of the Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies 70 vols., in 4 series and 128 books. Washington: Government Printing Office, 1899-1901.

The official records as compiled from reports submitted by the commanding officers of the several regiments that took part in the Civil War.

The general index will guide the inquirer to Kansas references; each volume has a detailed index of its own contents.

Weer, William. Official Report, Headquarters 2nd Brigade, 1st Division Army of the Frontier, Camp at Cane Hill, Washington County, Arkansas, December 12, 1862. [n.p.] [n.d.] 4 pp.

This report lists casualties; also mentioned are tactics and strategy of the battle of Cane Hill.

Wilder, Daniel W. The Annals of Kansas, 1541-1885. Topeka, Kansas: T. Dwight Thacher Publishing House, 1886. 1196. pp.

A chronological enumeration of events that occurred in or affected Kansas. Contains a list of all engagements in which Kansas regiments participated. Also a list of casualties for each battle.

These events were extracted from newspapers and other sources and should be used with extreme caution, for the dates are not too accurate.

Witmer, Edward A. The Battle of Bonnie Wilson. Mission, Kansas: Dudley Atkins III, Publisher, 1941. 66 pp. maps, illustrations.

The author relates the story of the battle of Wilson's Creek to his young grandson. A first person narrative, written informally.

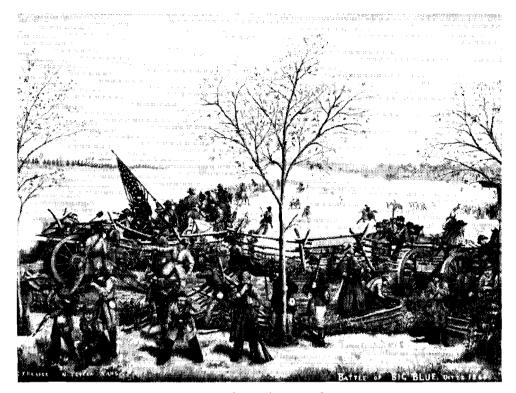

Contains a poem composed by the author.

Zornow, William F. Kansas; A History of the Jayhawk State. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1957. 417 pp. maps, photographs.

Pages 106-117 give a general study of Kansas in the Civil War. It describes the major campaigns in which Kansas troops participated with mention of the principal commanders.

Dr. Zornow also did the chapter entitled, "Kansas at War" in John D. Bright's Kansas: The First Century, using much of the same material as in this work.

A well-written primary outline of the war for beginning students.

The Battle of the Big Blue A copy of an oil painting by Samuel J. Reader, who served with a Topeka militia company at the battle of the Big Blue. (Kansas State Historical Society.)

Ш

ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF MINOR PRIMARY AND SECONDARY SOURCES

It has been previously stated that the appellation minor sources does not imply that the entries are materials of an inferior nature. Individually they disseminate less information on the subject of this bibliography, but collectively they may be of profound importance.

General works on the Civil War and biographical studies of relatively unknown personnel are found in this chapter. These general works consist mainly of the many books, articles and pamphlets written during the war or following its conclusion, e.g., Horace Greeley's survey The American Conflict. Also many new secondary books published in the past several decades have been selected for reference, e.g., Douglas S. Freeman's Lee's Lieutenants, A Study in Command. Published primary source materials such as the Messages of the Governors of Kansas or Jessie A. Marshall's Private and Official Correspondence of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler During the Period of the Civil War are of limited use. Biographical entries are confined to persons whose commentary on the Jayhawk state's war effort is limited, e.g., Edward Bumgardner's Life of Edmund G. Ross or James Peckham's General Nathaniel Lyon and Missouri in 1861. Standard histories of other states and several full length studies of cities, counties and Kansas are enrolled, even though their contributions are negligible. Other articles written on the Kansas war effort and published in journals and periodicals are recorded. Also selected for inclusion in Chapter III are the many reminiscences, recollections and memoirs of those persons who fought, observed and chronicled the proceedings.

Abbott, John S. The History of the Civil War in America. New York: Harper and Brothers, 1863. 507 pp. maps, photographs.

Pages 239-295 deal with activities in Missouri, particularly Wilson's Creek.

Actually a two-volume work; however, the Society's library has only Vol. I.

Abel, Annie H. "The Indians in the Civil War," American Historical Review, 15: 281-296, January, 1910.

Written ten years before her The American Indian as a Participant in the Civil War, this is a concise study of the subject. It is of interest to Kansas, for it pictures General James Lane's attempt to persuade President Lincoln to allow him to use Indians in a proposed expedition into Arkansas.

Abercrombie, Irene A. "The Battle of Prairie Grove," Arkansas Historical Quarterly, 2: 309-315, December, 1943.

Summation of the battles of Prairie Grove and Cane Hill in Arkansas. Kansas troops, commanded by General James G. Blunt, took a very active part.

Admire, Jacob V. Old Army Letters Written Forty-Two Years Ago. Kingfisher, Oklahoma: [n.n.] 1906. unpaged.

Addressed from various places in the South, the author writes of many absorbing sidelights of the war processes.

Although there is some mention of Kansans during the war, there is a doubt as to whether or not Admire is a Kansan.

Admire, William W. "An Early Kansas Pioneer: [Colonel D. R. Anthony]," Magazine of Western History, 10: 688-702, October, 1889.

Lengthy biographical entry on D. R. Anthony, with emphasis on his military career. Contains a copy of his General Order No. 26.

Alford, Susan D. "Quantrill's Raid," St. Nicholas, 59: 15-17, November, 1931. illustrations.

Written primarily for children, it is an eyewitness account of the cunning used by the residents of Lawrence to deceive Quantrill's men.

Allison, Nathaniel T. (ed.). History of Cherokee County Kansas and Representative Citizens. Chicago: Biographical Publishing Company, 1904. 630 pp. portraits.

On pages 154-157 the author quotes Dr. W. H. Warner extensively in recording the narrative of the Baxter Springs massacre.

Anderson, Lorene, and Alan W. Farley. (comp.). "A Bibliography of Town and County Histories of Kansas," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 21: 513-551, Autumn, 1955.

A comprehensive bibliography of local historiography; many of the entries are contained elsewhere in this paper. The publication of this article precludes the necessity for listing all town and county histories found in the Society's library.

Close scrutiny of these local histories will provide the reader with valuable information.

Anderson, Thomas. Rebel Prison Life, 1863-1865 Lawrence, Kansas: Lawrence Journal Press, 1906. 92 pp. photographs.

A graphic story of the capture, imprisonment and escape of a Union soldier. Anderson was a member of Co. C., First Wisconsin regiment, and came to Kansas soon after the conclusion of the war.

Andrews, J. Cutler. The North Reports the Civil War. Pittsburg, Pennsylvania: University of Pittsburg Press, 1955. 813 pp. maps, portraits.

This work records the Civil War battles as seen by newspaper men. A good index lists Kansas affairs.

Appler, Augustus C. The Life, Character and Daring Exploits of the Younger Brothers Also the War Record of Quantrell During the Three Years that Cole and James Younger Were with Him. Chicago: Laird and Lee, 1892. 287 pp. illustrations.

A general synopsis of Quantrill's activities in Kansas, utilizing the assistance of the Younger brothers.

Arnold, Anna E. A History of Kansas. Topeka, Kansas: The Kansas State Printing Plant, 1914. 250 pp. maps, illustrations.

Very brief resumé of Kansas activities in the Civil War. See pages 111-115 for military section.

First printed in 1914 and later reprinted in 1919, this book was used as a public-school textbook.

Asbury, Virginia H. "An Anomaly of Written History," Confederate Veteran. 22: 138, March, 1914.

A paper presented at a meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at Kansas City, Missouri. In this paper she mentioned several works that had been written concerning the Price raid.

Austin, Robert A. "Battle of Wilson's Creek," Missouri Historical Review, 27: 46-49, October, 1932.

Summary of the Wilson's Creek campaign by a chaplain who was an eyewitness.

Bailey, Lawrence D. "Graphic Description of the Quantrell Raid on Lawrence," Early Days in Kansas. Olathe, Kansas: C. R. Green, 1912. pp. 52-85.

Written in 1887 for the Kansas Cultivator, this is an article about Bailey's personal recollections of the great raid on Lawrence.

Contains a list of the fatalities.

Baker, Floyd P. "The Kansas Legislature in 1862," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 3: 101-109, 1883-1885.

Meeting of a wartime state legislature and its accomplishments. Most noted of its activities was the war bond scandal and the impeachment of the Kansas Secretary of State and State Auditor.

Barnes, A. B. "Horrid Times of the War in Kansas," Confederate Veteran, 18: 472-473, October, 1910.

A brief article on Quantrill which refutes the idea that he was killed in Louisville, Kentucky, in 1865, and maintains that he was still living as late as 1910.

Barns, Chaucy R. (ed.). Switzler's Illustrated History of Missouri From 1541-1877. St. Louis: C. R. Barns, 1879. 601 pp. illustrations.

Chapters XXVII-XXXI concern Missouri military history with complete coverage of Price's raid and Wilson's Creek. Contains some reports and proclamations.

The Commonwealth of Missouri. St. Louis: Bryan, Brand and Company, 1877. 936 pp. illustrations.

Chapters XXVIII-XXXII contain the military history of Missouri with emphasis on Wilson's Creek, Price's raid, Jayhawking, etc.

Barr, Elizabeth N. Beginning and Progress of Kansas. [n.p.] [n.n.] 1908. 59 pp. illustrations.

A handbook of Kansas history. Contains a copy of the sketch of the Lawrence raid by Sherman Enderton. Very brief resumé of Kansas Civil War history.

Barrington, Frank H. Kansas Day. Topeka, Kansas: George Crane and Company, 1892. 253 pp. illustrations, maps.

Pages 63-66 touch lightly on Kansas Civil War experiences, notably the Lawrence massacre and Price's raid.

Barry, Louise. "Legal Hangings in Kansas," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 18: 279-301, August, 1950.

Covers the trials and executions of miliary personnel and civilians during the Civil War.

Bartles, William L. "Massacre of Confederates by Osage Indians in 1863," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 62-66, 1903-1904.

Gruesome article on the massacre of twenty Confederate commissioned officers who were slaughtered south of Humboldt, Kansas. They were in the area to organize the Indians into a fighting force against the Union.

Indian behavior is described; i.e., war dances, death services and torture of the victims.

Bassett, J. M. Union Men and Their Sufferings, in North-Western Missouri. New York: Wynkoop, Hallenbeck and Thomas, 1864. 52 pp. illustrations.

Treatment of Loyalists in Missouri by the Secessionists. Mention of guerrilla activity in Kansas and Missouri.

"The Battle of Mine Creek," Kansas Year Book, 1937-1938. Topeka, Kansas: Capper Printing Company, 1938. 396 pp.

A concise report of the battle of Mine Creek can be found on page 196, from the Iola Register, undated.

"Battle of Westport," Confederate Veteran, 34: 380-382, Ocotber, 1926.

A resumé of one of the leading campaigns during Price's attempted invasion of Missouri and Kansas; shows the location of the battlefield in relation to present-day Kansas City.

Battles and Leaders of the Civil War. Peoples Pictorial Edition. New York: The Century Company, 1894. 324 pp. maps, sketches.

More familiarly known as The Century War Book, it narrates several campaigns in which Kansas troops received their baptism of fire. Wilson's Creek can be found on pages 33-34.

Beckman, Peter. "Atchison's First Railroad," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 21: 153-165, Autumn, 1954.

Mention is made of the increase of the freight business during the Civil War, due to the coming of the railroad.

Bell, J. F. "Price's 1861 Missouri Campaign," Confederate Veteran. 22: 416, September, 1914. A short article concerning the battles of Wilson's Creek and Lexington.

Bishop, Albert W. Loyalty on the Frontier, or Sketches of Union Men of the South-West; with Incidents and Adventures in Rebellion on the Border. St. Louis: R. P. Studley and Company, 1863. 228 pp.

The war in Arkansas during 1861-1862 as told by a lieutenant colonel of the First Arkansas Volunteer cavalry regiment. Many interesting references to Kansas.

Blake, William O. (comp.). Pictorial History of the Great Rebellion. 2 vols. Columbus, Ohio: Gilmore and Segner, 1866, illustrations.

Portions of these volumes relate to the war in the West, notably the Arkansas campaigns and Quantrill's raid.

Boder, Bartlett. "His Career Explained," Museum Graphic, 7: 7-9, Autumn, 1955.

A review of Quantrill's activities in Kansas and Missouri, including a letter from Robert S. Stevens dated Lawrence, August 23, 1863, reporting a victim's view of the attack.

Stevens acted as a surgeon throughout the affair.

"Opposite Views of William Clarke Quantrill. Did He . . . or Didn't He?" Museum Graphic, 8: 11, Spring, 1956.

A summarization of agruments on whether or not Quantrill was a well-behaved and studious youth.

"Captain William Clarke Quantrill, Major J. M. Bassett and Their Times of Terror," Museum Graphic, 10: 4-6, Spring, 1958.

Resumé of Quantrill's career of terror, emphasizing that he was not a member of the Confederate army during the sack of Lawrence.

Bonebrake, Parkison I. Recollections of the Second Day's Fight in the Battle of Westport. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 5 pp.

A reminiscence of a member of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia at Westport, Missouri. Bonebrake points out that incompetency and cowardice resulted in the loss of prisoners and precipitated additional deaths.

Borland, William P. "Gen. Jo. O. Shelby," Missouri Historical Review, 7: 10-19, October, 1912.

An address at the unveiling of a monument to the Confederate dead at Union Cemetery, Kansas City, Missouri, October 22, 1911. A review of the career of General Shelby who admirably manipulated Kansas troops at the battles of the Blue and Westport.

Boughton, J. S. The Quantrell Raid. Lawrence, Kansas: J. S. Boughton, 1884. 36 pp.

An account of the burning and pillaging of Lawrence, as told to the author by eyewitnesses Joseph Savage, the Reverend R. Cordley, J. G. Sands and F. W. Read.

Contains a listing by name of those persons who were killed, wounded or missing.

Boyd, J. N. "The Battle of Oak Hills or Wilson's Creek," Confederate Veteran, 19: 9-10, January, 1911.

A brief report on the Wilson's Creek engagement by a participant.

Bracke, William B. Wheat Country. New York: Duell, Sloane and Pearce, 1950, 309 pp. map.

A concise synopsis of the war is found on pages 28-52. Deals for the most part with Quantrill.

Bradley, Glenn D. "The Sack of Lawrence: How Quantrill Wreaked Terrible Vengeance on a Kansas Frontier Town," Santa Fe Magazine, 17: 67-77, January, 1923. illustrations.

General summary of the Lawrence massacre as taken from secondary sources.

Brewster, Samuel W. Incidents of Quantrell's Raid on Lawrence, August 21, 1863. Lawrence, Kansas: Jeffersonian Printing Company, 1898. 17 pp.

Personal experiences of Henry S. Clarke, pertaining to the raid. Written mostly as dialogue.

Britton, Wiley. "A Day with Colonel W. F. Cloud," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 5: 311-321, September, 1927.

Conversation between the author and Colonel Cloud, June 3, 1895, concerning Cloud's military exploits. Included are comments on Britton's book The Civil War on the Border.

Broadhead, James O. "Early Events of the War in Missouri," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Missouri, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Papers and Personal Reminiscences, 1861-1865. St. Louis: Becktold and Company, 1892. 451 pp.

Pages 1-28 deal with the activities of General N. Lyon and early campaigns, particularly Wilson's Creek.

Browne, Junius H. Four Years in Secessia: Adventures Within and Beyond the Union Lines. Hartford: O. D. Case and Company, 1865. 450 pp. prints.

A report of wartime action in Missouri and Arkansas by a correspondent of the New York Tribune.

Brownlee, Richard S. Gray Ghosts of the Confederacy; Guerrilla Warfare in the West, 1861-1865. Baton Rouge: Louisiana State University Press, 1958. 274 pp. maps, photographs.

A basic study of insurrection and military tyranny that degenerated into guerrilla warfare. The author places praise and condemnation at the doorsteps of the deserving, as they created their own history.

Contains an excellent bibliography.

Bryant, Thomas J. "The Capture of General Marmaduke by James Dunlavy an Iowa Private Cavalryman," Iowa Journal of History and Politics, 11: 248-257, April, 1913.

A fresh approach to the battle of Mine Creek, Linn County, Kansas, featuring the surrender of a ranking Confederate general to a sixteen-year old boy.

Bullene, Lathrop. Lathrop Bullene, 1826-1915, [n.p.] [n.n.] 1916. 73 pp.
In part, a Lawrence merchant's recollection of the Civil War in Kansas, notably the Quantrill raid and Price's invasion.

Bumgardner, Edward. The Life of Edmund G. Ross. Kansas City: The Fielding-Turner Press, 1949. 117 pp. illustrations.

A resumé of the military career of Edmund G. Ross, who was later credited with casting the vote that saved President Johnson from conviction on charges of impeachment.

Burt, George S. "The Wabaunsce Militia Company," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 604-607, 1909-1910.

A short history of Co. L., Kansas State Militia, and its limited participation in the war. Burt terms Co. L. a "motley crowd."

"The Campaign in Missouri Against Price," United States Service Magazine. 1: 39-45, January, 1865.

Survey of Price's raid through Missouri and eastern Kansas.

- Campaigns of the Civil War. 13 vols. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1882. See Table of Contents for appropriate chapters on Kansas. Vol. XIII contains statistics on all major and minor battles.
- "Captain Z. W. Leasure Assisted in Making History," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 16: 616-618, 1923-1925.

Mention is made in this article of Co. K., Sixth Kansas militia regiment and atrocities committed by it in Arkansas.

Included is a roster of officers and men for October, 1864.

Carr, Lucien. Missouri, A Bone of Contention. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin and Company, 1888. 377 pp.

Chapters XV and XVI deal with Missouri military history and the difficulties the state encountered with Kansas raiders, General James H. Lane and "The Red Legs."

Case, Theodore S. (ed.). History of Kansas City, Missouri. Syracuse, New York: D. Mason and Co., 1888. 726 pp. portraits.

Pages 70-83 for a resumé of the war in Kansas City, with its ramifications.

Castel, Albert. "The Jayhawkers and Copperheads of Kansas," A Quarterly Journal of Studies in Civil War History, 5: 283-293, September, 1959.

General discussion of the persecution of pro-Southern sympathizers by the anti-slavery element, the jayhawkers.

"Kansas Jayhawking Raids into Western Missouri in 1861," Missouri Historical Review, 54: 1-11, October, 1959. photographs.

Summarization of jayhawking activity in Missouri at the beginning of the war. Strong resemblance to his chapter in A Frontier State at War: Kansas 1861-1865.

Catton, Bruce. This Hallowed Ground, The Story of the Union Side of the Civil War. Garden City, New York: Doubleday and Company, 1956. 437 pp.

Several references to the war in Kansas. The battle of Wilson's Creek is mentioned on pages 48-51.

Clark, J. S. "General Lyon and the Fight for Missouri," The Midland Monthly, 8: 111-120, August, 1897.

Review of Lyon's military career, with mention of Wilson's Creek.

Cloud, William F. "The Kansas Soldiers' Monument Association," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 122-124, 1897-1900.

A report delivered by Colonel Cloud before the annual meeting of the Kansas State Historical Society, January 17, 1899, in retrospect viewing the state's participation in the Civil War.

Verses of several military songs of that era are included.

Cole, Birdie H. "The Battle of Pilot Knob," Confederate Veteran. 22: 417, September, 1914. portrait.

A brief report of the battle of Pilot Knob.

Cone, John P. Told Out of School By One of the Pupils. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 25 pp.

A pamphlet written about 1910 telling of the escapades of Co. E., Twelfth Kansas regiment. Also interjected are the author's philosophies and poems, Connelley, William E. An Appeal to the Record Topeka, Kansas: Wm. E. Connelley, 1903. 130 pp.

Some general mention of the war, Quantrill's raid and the Lane-Robinson controversy.

"The Ride of Pelathe the Shawnee," The Club Member, 7: 3-4, August, 1909.

Taken from Chapter XXVII of Connelley's Quantrill and the Border War, this article tells of an effort by a Shawnee Indian to warn Lawrence of the impending attack, only to find that it had already started.

Wild Bill and His Era. New York: The Press of the Pioneers, 1933. 229 pp. illustrations.

Pages 78-81 deal with the Price raid of 1864, in which the "Prince of Pistoleers" took part. James B. Hickok was a scout for General Alfred Pleasonton.

Interesting article, but one which should be used with reservation.

Conway, Martin F. "The War a Reactionary Agent," Collected Speeches and Pamphlets Kansas Senators and Congressmen, Vol. IX. 15 pp.

Speech before the U.S. House of Representatives, January 27, 1863, on the folly of waging war.

"Shall the War Be for Union and Freedom, or Union and Slavery?" Collected Speeches and Pamphlets Kansas Senators and Congressmen. Vol. IX. 14 pp.

A speech given before the U.S. House of Representatives, December 12, 1861, on the conduct of the war.

Cook, John R. The Border and the Buffalo; An Untold Sstory of the Southwest Plains. Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1907. 351 pp. illustrations.

An autobiography dealing with Cook's life in Kansas. The first chapter tells of Quantrill's raid, the Baxter Springs massacre and general military occurrences.

Copeland, Reverend Jonathan. A Brief Sketch of the Life and Times and Miscellaneous Writings of Rev. J. Copeland. Springfield, Colorado: L. A. Wikoff, Printer, 1894. 44 pp.

A mention of the devastation of Lawrence.

Copley, Josiah. Kansas and the Country Beyond. On the Line of the Union Pacific Railway, Eastern Division, From the Missouri to the Pacific Ocean. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott and Co., 1867. 96 pp.

See pages 47-49 for a letter written to the Pittsburg Gazette describing the Quantrill raid and the new Lawrence that grew out of the ashes.

Cordley, Richard. Pioneer Days in Kansas. Boston: The Pilgrim Press, 1903. 274 pp. photographs.

Recollections of the war in Kansas by a minister of the gospel. The war itself, Quantrill's raid and Price's invasion are described at length from a pastor's viewpoint.

Cordley states that the account of the Lawrence raid was written soon after its occurrence from firsthand information and while events were recent and vivid.

A History of Lawrence, Kansas from the First Settlement to the Close of the Rebellion. Lawrence, Kansas: Lawrence Journal Press, 1895. 269 pp. portraits.

Study of the Civil War in Kansas with emphasis on Quantrill's raid.

Crabtree, John D. "Recollections of the Pea Ridge Campaign, and the Army of the Southwest," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Illinois, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Military Essays and Recollections. Chicago: The Dial Press, 1899. 495 pp.

Of minor importance to Kansas war historians, as it mentions the battle of Wilson's Creek and General Lyon.

See pages 211-227.

Crafton, Allen. Free State Fortress: The First Ten Years of the History of Lawrence, Kansas. Lawrence, Kansas: The World Company, 1954. 226 pp. maps, photographs.

The Civil War in Kansas and Quantrill's raid, as taken from secondary sources.

Crawford, Samuel J. "Governor's Message, 1866," Messages of the Governors of Kansas, Vol. I. 20 pp.

Governor Crawford's message to the Legislature, January 10, 1866, recapitulating the number of men in Kansas regiments, number of men from Kansas who served in other regiments and men from other states who enlisted in Kansas regiments.

Crittenden, Henry H. "Camp Fire Talk—Battle of Wilson's Creek," The Crittenden Memoirs. New York: C. P. Putnam's Sons, 1936. 542 pp. illustrations.

An address made before the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, Springfield, Missouri, May 17, 1928, giving a resumé of the Wilson's Creek engagement.

Crozier, Emmett. Yankee Reporters, 1861-1865. New York: Oxford University Press, 1956. 441 pp. illustrations.

Pages 145-172 are a journalist's report on the battle of Wilson's Creek and the war in Missouri, Cubage, Annie R. "Engagement at Cabin Creek, Indian Territory," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 10: 44-51, March, 1932.

Resumé of a battle between Confederate troops and Indians versus the Ninth Kansas cavalry and the First Kansas Colored regiment.

Culmer, Frederic A. (ed.). "Brigadier Surgeon John W. Trader's Recollections of the Civil War in Missouri," Missouri Historical Review, 46: 323-334, July, 1952. illustrations.

Reminiscences of one who served at the battle of the Blue, Westport and Mine Creek, Dale, Edward E. (ed.). "Letters of General Stand Watie," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 1: 30-59, January, 1921.

Minor edited letters of Stand Watie during his war years. Several Kansas regiments opposed him at various times; however, there is no mention made of Kansas.

Oklahoma, The Story of a State. Evanston, Illinois: Row, Peterson and Company, 1949. 448 pp. illustrations.

Pages 162-176 point out that Kansas troops commanded by Colonel Weer took part in the war in the Oklahoma Territory.

History. Norman, Oklahoma: Peerless Printers, 1924. 58 pp.

Pages 28-29 list those references pertinent to Kansas.

Darr, John. "Price's Raid into Missouri," Confederate Veteran, 11: 359-362, August, 1903. portraits.

A reminiscence of his services during Price's invasion into Missouri by a member of General Cabel's brigade.

Valuable background material of Price's earlier activities in Arkansas. Confederate-slanted approach to the purported invasion of Missouri and Kansas.

Davis, Walter B., and Daniel S. Durrie. An Illustrated History of Missouri . . . St. Louis: A. J. Hall and Co., 1876. 639 pp.

Chapter XVIII deals with Missouri military history and with battles implicating Kansas.

Deatherage, Charles P. Early History of Greater Kansas City, Missouri and Kansas; The Prophetic City at the Mouth of the Kaw. 3 vols. Kansas City: Charles P. Deatherage, 1927. illustrations, maps.

A general survey of the Civil War in and around the twin Kansas Cities is found on pages 627-644.

Debo, Angie. "The Site of the Battle of Round Mountain, 1861," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 27: 187-206, Summer, 1949. maps, photographs.

A battlefield at which loyal Creek Indians were ambushed enroute to Kansas to tender their services to the Union.

University of Oklahoma Press, 1943. 123 pp. illustrations, maps.

Touches on the organization of Indian troops in Kansas.

Denison, William W. "Early Days in Osage County," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 17: 375-383, 1926-1928.

A brief sketch portraying war activities of the men from the Burlingame community.

"Battle of Prairie Grove," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 16: 586-590, 1923-1925.

Short summation of the battle of Prairie Grove. Several excerpts from official sources are included; one, an interesting communication from General Hindman on the subject of military procedure.

Dix-Flinton, Mrs. R. C. "Mrs. R. C. Dix-Flinton and Her Experiences at the Time of Quantrell's Raid Gave Proof of 'the Strength of the Weak'," Lawrence Today and Yesterday. Lawrence, Kansas: Daily Journal-World, December 12, 1913, 123 pp.

Pages 118-119 contain Mrs. Dix-Flinton's report of the heroic action and personal suffering during the raid.

Dodge, Grenville M. The Battle of Atlanta and Other Campaigns, Addresses, etc. Council Bluffs, Iowa: The Monarch Printing Company, 1910. 183 pp. illustrations.

General Dodge commanded troops against the Indians and operated out of Fort Leavenworth in 1864-1865. A report of the campaigns against the Indians for these dates is included.

Dodge, Theodore A. A Birds-eye View of our Civil War. Boston: James R. Osgood and Co., 1883. 346 pp. illustrations, map.

Chronological reporting of minor campaigns in lesser-known areas of the war.

Doerschuk, Albert N. (ed.). "Extracts from War-Time Letters, 1861-1864," Missouri Historical Review, 23: 99-110, October, 1928.

Extracts of letters written by Margaret Hays, wife of rebel leader Upton Hays, to her mother telling of jayhawking activities near Westport, Missouri.

Dolbee, Cora. "The Fourth of July in Early Kansas," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 11: 130-172, May, 1942.

An absorbing essay on how political and military leaders and various cities of Kansas spent Independence Day. A day of speeches, parades, parties and over-all celebration. The date, July 4, 1861.

Donald, Jay. Outlaws of the Border. A Complete and Authentic History of the Lives of Frank and Jesse James, the Younger Brothers and their Robber Companions, Including Quantrell and His Noted Guerrillas Chicago: Coburn and Newman Publishing Co., 1882. 520 pp. illustrations.

Gives an account of the assistance provided by the James and Younger brothers to Quantrill in Missouri and Kansas, including the Lawrence raid.

Doster, Frank. "Eleventh Indians Cavalry in Kansas in 1865," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 15: 524-529, 1919-1922.

Essay of a Hoosier regiment stationed in Kansas to help control the Indians just after the completion of the war. Gives a description of the plains in 1865.

Douglass, Robert S. History of Southeast Missouri 2 vols. Chicago: The Lewis Publishing Company, 1912. illustrations.

Chapters XXVII and XXVIII cover Missouri military history and offer a few regimental histories. Of limited importance to Kansas.

Dowdey, Clifford. Experiment In Rebellion. Garden City, New York: Doubleday and Company, 1946. 455 pp. illustrations, maps.

Brief mention of the war in the West.

Drake, Samuel A. "The Old Army in Kansas," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Massachusetts, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Civil War Papers. Boston: The Commandery, 1900. 327 pp.

Pages 141-154 contain recollections of the state at the commencement of the war and throughout its duration.

Drought, E. S. W. "James Montgomery," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 342-343, 1897-1900.

Personal observations of Colonel James Montgomery's conduct during 1861, by a man who served under him.

Dunn, Byron A. With Lyon in Missouri. Chicago: A. C. McClurg & Co., 1910. 336 pp. illustrations.

Tales of the Civil War from John Brown to Wilson's Creek.

Duyckinck, Evert A. History of the War for the Union, Civil, Military and Naval. 4 vols. New York: Johnson, Fry and Company, 1862.

See Chapter XXXIII for the Wilson's Creek engagement and the index (Vol. IV) for the war in Missouri in 1861.

Emmert, David B. (comp.). Fort Scott City Directory and Business Mirror for 1865-1866. Fort Scott, Kansas: Monitor Book and Job Office, 1865. 78 pp.

Pages 11-23 deal with Price's raid and the role Fort Scott played. Contains a list of officers of local regiments of the Kansas State Militia.

This book is not consistently accurate; however, some pencilled corrections have been made.

Estvan, B. War Pictures from the South. New York: D. Appleton and Company, 1863. 352 pp. photographs.

A confederate colonel's account of the war on the border. Specifically the campaigns in Missouri, notably Wilson's Creek and Lexington. An Eulogium. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 8 pp.

This culogium was delivered in 1889 by an unknown minister at the death of ex-Governor John A. Martin. Brief mention was made of his war service as commanding officer of the Eighth Kansas infantry regiment.

Evans, Clement A. (ed.). Confederate Military History; A Library of Confederate State History in Twelve Volumes, Written by Distinguished Men of the South and Edited by Gen. C. A. Evans of Georgia. 12 vols. Atlanta: Confederate Publishing Company, 1899. illustrations, maps.

Not thoroughly consulted, but articles concerning the state of Kansas appear intermittently throughout this work.

Fairfield, S. H. "The Eleventh Kansas Regiment at Platte Bridge," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 352-363, 1903-1904, illustrations.

This battle was fought at the conclusion of the Civil War; mention is made of the Eleventh's activities in Arkansas and other states prior to their departure for the Wyoming Territory.

Farb, Robert C. "The Military Career of Robert W. Furnas," Nebraska History, 32: 18-41, March, 1951, photographs.

Summary of the military affairs of the organizer of Indian regiments in Kansas, with sketches of campaigns in which they participated.

Farley, Alan W. "Annals of Quindaro: A Kansas Ghost Town," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 22: 305-320. Winter, 1956. Plat.

A description of the Six Mile House which was used as a rendezvous for a notorious gang of jayhawkers. Eventually Kansas troops were used to clean out this nest of marauders.

Fiebeger, Gustave J. Campaigns of the American Civil War. West Point: U. S. Military Academy Printing Office, 1914.

An atlas containing forty-six plate maps of Civil War battles. Pages 32-33 contain maps for Chattanooga and Chickamauga where the Eighth Kansas regiment participated.

Fisher, Hugh D. The Gun and the Gospel. Fourth edition. Kansas City: Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Company, 1902. 347 pp.

Excellent eyewitness account of Quantrill's massacre by a man who was smuggled out of his own burning house wrapped in a carpet, as he was being sought by Quantrill's lieutenants.

Fletcher, Thomas C. "The Battle of Pilot Knob and the Retreat to Leasburg," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Missouri, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Papers and Personal Reminiscences, 1861-1865. St. Louis: Becktold and Company, 1892. 451 pp.

Known as the "Thermopylae of the West," the battle of Pilot's Knob was used by General Thomas Ewing, ex-Chief Justice of the Kansas Supreme Court, to retard the advance of Sterling Price, in order that St. Louis might strengthen its fortifications.

See pages 29-53,

Foote, Shelby. The Civil War, A Narrative. New York: Random House, 1958. 840 pp. map.

A summary of the war in the West. See index for Arkansas and Missouri.

Foreman, Carolyn T. "Col. Jesse Henry Leavenworth," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 13: 14-29, March, 1935.

War time service as commanding officer of Fort Larned, Kansas.

Foreman, Grant. A History of Oklahoma. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1942. 384 pp. photographs, maps.

See pages 100-130 in respect to Kansas' activities in the Indian Territory. This chapter contains information on the formation of the Indian Home Guard, which saw considerable action in the Indian Territory.

"Fort Larned in 1863," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 7: 99-101, February, 1938.

A letter written by Captain A. W. Burton to his brother Isaac. The killing of a Cheyenne Indian and the Independence Day celebration in 1863 are the principal items noted in this letter.

Foster, Eli G. The Civil War by Campaigns. Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1899. 286 pp. maps.

Several chapters deal with the war in Missouri and the battle of Chattanooga.

Francis, John. "An Incident of the War in 1862," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 7: 161-167, 1901-1902.

The author states that this incident was never reported and has never been recorded in the official records of the war. It concerns the escorting of a wagon train of supplies from Rolla, Missouri, to Salem, Arkansas, and the hazards and hardships encountered enroute.

Freeman, Charles R. "The Battle of Honey Springs," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 13: 154-168, June, 1935.

An essay on General Blunt's brigade in the Indian Territory and the battle of Honey Springs, July 17, 1863.

Freeman, Douglas S. Lee's Lieutenants, A Study in Command. 3 vols. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1942. maps, photographs.

A mention of the war in the trans-Mississippi West. See index for topics.

Frick, John H. "Recollections of the Civil War," Missouri Historical Review, 19: 630-654, July, 1925.

Mention of Kansas troops fighting bushwhackers, as written by a Southern sympathizer.

Gallaher, Ruth A. "Samuel Ryan Curtis," Iowa Journal of History and Politics, 25: 331-358, July, 1927.

A brief, but interesting, sketch of Samuel R. Curtis, who became commander of the Department of Kansas in January, 1964.

Gardner, Theodore A. The Old Army and the New. Topeka, Kansas: Clarkson, 1918. 12 pp.

This address was delivered before the Fire Insurance Men's Club on February 18, 1918. Gardner, who was a sergeant in the First Kansas battery, compares the lot of the Civil War soldier with the more fortunate World War I soldier.

"The First Kansas Battery at Prairie Grove, December 7, 1862, with Some Remarks Regarding the World War," Typewritten copy. 8 pp.

This paper was read at the 56th reunion of the battle of Prairie Grove to members of the First Kansas battery at Lawrence.

Gardner's personal recollections, in which he stressed his thesis that the First Kansas battery turned the tide of battle at Prairie Grove. Garfield, Marvin H. "The Military Post as a Factor in the Frontier Defense of Kansas, 1865-1869," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 1: 50-62, November, 1931.

An introduction to Garfield's later article, this states the necessity for the various forts and camps that were founded in Kansas from 1827 until the 1870's and gives their establishment dates.

"Defense of the Kansas Frontier, 1864-'65," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 1: 140-152, February, 1932.

Due to Indian depredations on the western plains, it was imperative to establish forts to protect the settlers of Kansas. These fortifications were also used as a buffer against any Confederate raids from the South.

Garwood, Darrel. Crossroads of America, The Story of Kansas City. New York: W. W. Norton and Company, 1948. 331 pp. illustrations, maps.

Chapters III and IV give a summary of the Civil War in Kansas City; special emphasis is given to border warfare and General Ewing's General Order No. 11.

"George A. Crawford." Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 237-248, 1897-1900.

Memoirs of a politician who observed the progress of the war. He raised a militia company at his own expense and kept southern Kansas free from invasion until troops could be otherwise supplied.

Gleed, Charles S. "Eugene Fitch Ware," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 13: 19-41, 1913-1914.

Military experiences of the poet laureate of Kansas. His itinerary extended from Pea Ridge, Arkansas to the Wyoming Territory. Many incidental illustrations on the progress of the war and Indian policies are expressed.

Goodspeed, Weston A. (ed.). The Province and the States. . . . 7 vols. Madison: Western Historical Association, 1904.

Vol. IV, pages 278-306 covers Kansas from 1861 until 1869. Gives a general resumé of the Civil War.

Gracie, Archibald. The Truth About Chickamauga. New York: Houghton, Mifflin Company, 1911. 462 pp. maps, photographs.

The object of this work is to obliterate falsehoods reported about Federal troops at Chickamauga.

Graves, William W. Life and Times of Mother Bridget Hayden. St. Paul, Kansas: Journal Press, 1938. 324 pp. illustrations.

The chapter entitled "Civil War Brought Still Greater Troubles" briefly states the effect of the war on the Osage Catholic Mission near St. Paul. Not of a military nature, but reveals the divided allegiance that prevailed.

Gray, Patrick L. Gray's Doniphan County History. Bendena, Kansas: Roycroft Press, 1905. 230 pp.

An incident concerning Quantrill as a peddler.

Greeley, Horace. The American Conflict. A History of the Great Rebellion in the United States of America 1860-'65. 2 vols. Hartford: O. D. Case and Company, 1864-1866. illustrations, maps.

Although not entirely accurate, this is a study of the war from beginning to end. Many references to the war in the West and particularly Kansas.

Greene, Albert R. "What I Saw of the Quantrill Raid," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 13: 430-451, 1913-1914.

A personal narration by one who experienced the raid on Lawrence and the pursuit that followed. Greene saw service in Co. A., Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Griffith, George W. E. My 96 Years in the Great West; Indiana, Kansas and California. Los Angeles: [n.n.] 1929. 289 pp. portraits.

A report of Quantrill's raid by one who lived through it.

Grover, George S. "The Shelby Raid, 1863," Missouri Historical Review, 6: 107-126, April, 1912.

General Jo. Shelby, assistant to Sterling Price, made a raid into Johnson county, Missouri, and was pursued to the Arkansas river by troops commanded by General Ewing.

. "Civil War in Missouri," Missouri Historical Review, 8: 1-28, October, 1913.

An address by Captain Grover before the Colonel Grover Post, No. 78, Grand Army of the Republic at Warrensburg, Missouri, November 4, 1893.

A comprehensive view of the Civil War in Missouri, with slight mention of battles in which Kansas regiments participated.

"The Price Campaign, 1864," Missouri Historical Review, 6: 167-181, July, 1912.

An excellent discourse on the Price raid and the battles fought to fore-stall his coming to Kansas.

Hamilton, Clad. "A Colonel of Kansas," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 12: 282-292, 1911-1912. photographs.

A biographical sketch of Henry C. Lindsey, one of the lesser-known ranking officers in the Kansas Volunteer service. It is primarily concerned with the activities of the Eleventh Kansas infantry regiment.

Hammond, William A. "Recollections of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon," Annals of lowa. 4: 415-436, July, 1900.

A study of General Lyon before and during the Civil War, from a personal standpoint and in relationship to his men.

Hannahs, Harrison. War's Cruelty on the Border. An address given at a meeting of the Colorado Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, September 7, 1909. Denver: Paradis Printing Company, 1909. 69 pp.

Major Hannahs describes very vividly the bloodshed, violence and plunderous raids to substantiate Sherman's adage that "war is hell."

"General Thomas Ewing, Jr.," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 12: 276-282, 1911-1912. photographs.

This article is a rehash of the life of General Ewing. One sidelight is his association with General Sherman.

Harwell, Richard B. (ed.). The Confederate Reader. New York: Longmans, Green and Company, 1957. 389 pp. illustrations.

Three general orders announcing victories of General Stand-Watie's troops over Union (Kansas) forces during September and October, 1864. These orders were used as mementoes by the Confederates.

Haskell, Henry C. Jr., and Richard B. Fowler. City of the Future; A Narrative History of Kansas City, 1850-1950. Kansas City: Frank Glenn Publishing Company, 1950. 193 pp. photographs, maps.

Contains a synopsis of the battle of Westport.

Hazelrigg, Clara H. A New History of Kansas. Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1895. 289 pp. illustrations.

Designed as a school textbook; the Civil War receives little reference.

Headly, Joel T. The Great Rebellion. A History of the Civil War in the United States. 2 vols. Hartford: Hurlbut, Williams and Company, 1863. photo engravings.

Vol. I covers the war until June, 1862, and gives mention of the war in the West, the battle of Wilson's Creek.

Heisler, Emanuel F. The Battle of the Big Blue. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 6 pp. map.

A paper read before the Ladies Contingent of the Westport Carnival, September 6, 1912, and reprinted in the Kansas City Sun, September 13, 1912.

Recollections of the charge at Byram's Ford, battle of the Blue, October 22, 1864. Included are several letters of endorsement and illustrations by S. J. Reader.

Hempstead, Fay. A History of the State of Arkansas. New Orleans: F. F. Hansell and Brother, 1889. 236 pp. illustrations, maps.

A school textbook presenting an outline of the Civil War in Arkansas. Mentions the battles of Prairie Grove, Helena, Newtonia, Cane Hill, etc.

Henderson, George D. Address on the Death of General Nathaniel Lyon [n.p] [n.n.] [n.d.] 8 pp.

Henderson, who was a chaplain at Fort Riley, delivered this memorial at Manhattan, September 26, 1861, to General Lyon who had previously served at the fort Herbert, George B. The Poular History of the Civil War in America. New York: F. M. Lupton, 1884, 552 pp.

Minor sketches of the war in Missouri and the West.

Herr, Horace. Harvey Vonore; or, the Making of a Minister; A Story of Old Lecompton and Early Kansas. Fort Meyers, Florida: Geddes Publishing Company, 1934. 204 pp. portraits.

Pages 69-78 contain compiled items about the role ministers played in the Lawrence raid.

Hill, Luther B. A History of the State of Oklahoma. 2 vols. Chicago: The Lewis Publishing Company, 1908. portraits, maps.

Vol. I, pages 85-110 deal with the war in the Indian Territory and the service of Kansas troops under General James Blunt and Colonel William Weer

Vol. II contains biographical material only.

Hill, Ruth E. "Quantrill's Raid," Oread Magazine, 10: 18-19, April 10, 1924.

An account of the Lawrence massacre related by a grandfather to his granddaughter; contains some anecdotes.

•

Hills, Charles S. "The Last Battle of the War-Recollections of the Mobile Campaign," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Missouri, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Papers and Personal Reminiscences, 1861-1865. St. Louis: Becktold and Company, 1892. 451 pp.

Not all Kansas regiments terminated their war service in Arkansas or the Indian Territory, as men of the Tenth Kansas were deployed at the battle of Mobile. This short paper written by Colonel Hills gives an insight into this campaign and can be found on pages 177-190.

History of Greene County, Missouri. St. Louis: Western Historical Company, 1883. 919 pp. portraits.

Pages 284-428 contain a lengthy survey of the Civil War in Missouri and Wilson's Creek. Contains orders, reports and statistics.

Holcombe, Return I. (comp.). History of Vernon County. [Missouri] St. Louis: Brown and Company, 1887. 903 pp.

The Civil War chapters include supplemental information on several battles in which Kansas participated. They range from Drywood to Wilson's Creek.

Honig, Louis O. Westport; Gateway to the Early West. Kansas City: The Industrial Press, 1950. 149 pp. portraits, maps.

An over-all summary of border warfare and the battle of Westport.

Hopkins, Florence M. "Henry Hopkins," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 276-284, 1897-1900.

Memoirs of Colonel Henry Hopkins who saw service with the Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment in southern Kansas, the Indian Territory and Arkansas.

Horton, James C. "Peter D. Ridenour and Harlow W. Baker, Two Pioneer Kansas Merchants," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 10: 589-621, 1907-1908.

Wartime events in Kansas, particularly Quantrill's raid on Lawrence. Interesting business practices prevail throughout the article.

Hough, Emerson. The Story of the Outlaw New York: A. L. Burt Company, 1905. 401 pp. photographs.

Pages 340-348 deal with jayhawking and bushwhacking in Kansas and Missouri.

Howes, Charles C. This Place Called Kansas. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1952. 236 pp. illustrations.

Minor mention of jayhawking in Kansas during the war.

Hubbard, David. "Reminiscences of the Yeager Raid, on the Santa Fe Trail, in 1863," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 168-171, 1903-1904.

A report on the Yeager raid and massacre at Rock Springs [Diamond Springs] and the prevention of destruction to Council Grove.

Hubble, Martin J. (comp.). Personal Reminiscences and Fragments of the Early History of Springfield and Greene County, Missouri. Related by Pioneers and their Descendents. Springfield, Missouri: Inland Printing Company, 1914. 96 pp.

These recollections were presented at the old settlers dinners given at the home of Captain Martin J. Hubble, March 31, 1907-1911.

Pages 91-97 pertain to Wilson's Creek.

Hull, Mrs. Lizzie C. "A Journey Through the Lines, in 1863," Collections of the Missouri Historical Society, 4: 49-62, 1912.

A brief story about troops in southern Missouri and northern Arkansas. Hulston, John K. "West Point and Wilson's Creek," A Quarterly Journal of Studies in Civil War History, 1: 333-354, December, 1955. maps.

A detailed study of the West Point graduates who served at Wilson's Creek.

Hunt, Elvid, and Walter E. Lorence. History of Fort Leavenworth, 1827-1937. Fort Leavenworth: The Command and General Staff School Press, 1937. 301 pp. illustrations.

The chapter on Fort Leavenworth and the Civil War describes the fort proper and many events that transpired there.

There is included a drawing of the fort as it appeared just after the war.

Hunt, Jesse E. Chapters from Kansas History for Children. Kansas City: Hudson Publishing Company, 1907. 98 pp.

The chapters are written as stories to be told to children and make only passing reference to Kansas war participation.

Hutchins, Edward R. (comp.). The War of the 'Sixties. New York: The Neale Publishing Company, 1912. 490 pp.

A report by Confederate scout J. F. Smith on the battle of Wilson's Creek is found on pages 93-97.

See also "A Battle Scene at Helena, Arkansas, July 4, 1863," for a mention of service of the Fifth Kansas regiment.

Isley, Bliss, and Walter M. Richards. Four Centuries in Kansas. Topeka, Kansas: The State Printing Plant, 1937. 344 pp. photographs.

Pages 182-190 of this elementary school textbook are set aside for a general survey of the Civil War as it pertains to Kansas, a sketch of General Lyon and the Lawrence raid.

Revisions were made in 1944 and 1953.

Jenkins, Paul B. "The Battle of Westport," Annals of Kansas City, 1: 243-256, December, 1923.

An address before the Knife and Fork Club of Kansas City, October 23, 1923, concerning the largest land battle fought west of the Mississippi river.

This report may also be found in Senate Report no. 99, pp. 2-8. (Serial 8388)

Jenkins, Wilton A. "A Leaf from Army Life," A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Illinois, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Military Essays and Recollections. Chicago: The Dial Press, 1899. 495 pp.

Pages 437-445 contain this essay on the battle of Helena, Arkansas; the author heaps praise on Colonel Powell Clayton and the men of the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Johnson, Robert U., and Clarence C. Buel (eds.). Battles and Leaders of the Civil War. 4 vols. Grant-Lee Edition. New York: The Century Company, 1884-1887. illustrations, maps.

See the index in Vol. IV for events pertinent to Kansas.

Johnson, William A. "Early Life of Quantrill in Kansas," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 7: 212-229, 1901-1902.

A collection of commentaries by various Kansans pertaining to the early life of Quantrill, 1858-1862. As a whole, they are not complimentary.

There is an endeavor to disprove any collusion between Quantrill and Senator Lane in the destruction of Lawrence.

"Kansas' Greatest Battle," Fort Scott Tribune, May 30, 1942. Anniversary edition.

Report of the battle of Mine Creek, taken from secondary sources. It contains a roster of officers of the Twenty-fourth regiment, Kansas State Militia. See pages 50-56.

Kelso, Isaac. The Stars and Bars; or, The Reign of Terror in Missouri. Boston: A. Williams and Company, 1864. 324 pp.

A narrative of atrocities and violence suffered by loyal Missourians. Many references to jayhawking and Quantrill's raid on Lawrence.

Kettell, Thomas P. History of the Great Rebellion, from its Commencement to its Close Hartford: L. Stebbins, 1865. 778 pp. maps, photographs. See Chapter XLIII for a survey of the Civil War as it pertained to Kansas.

Kremer, Wesley P. 100 Great Battles of the Rebellion Hoboken, New Jersey: W. P. Kremer, 1906, 366 pp. illustrations.

A detailed account of regiments and batteries engaged, casualties and the number of men in action by regiments, in each battle.

See Table of Contents for specific references to Kansas.

Lane, James H. Speech in U. S. Senate, July 18, 1861.

Speech at Springfield, November 18, 1861.

Speech at Boston, November 31, 1861.

Speech in U. S. Senate, December 17, 1861.

Speech in U. S. Senate, February 16, 1864.

Speech at Cooper Institute, New York, March 30, 1864.

These speeches deal with various topics, but mention Kansas and the war. See Vols. IX and XV, Collected Speeches and Pamphlets of Kansas Senators and Congressmen.

Larkin, Lew. Bingham: Fighting Artist. Kansas City: Burton Publishing Company, 1954. 358 pp. photographs.

Biography of Missouri's most famous artist and the severest critic of General Thomas Ewing, Jr., and his General Order No. 11.

A print of the painting entitled "General Order No. 11" is included.

The Last Political Writings of General Nathaniel Lyon, U. S. A. With a Sketch of His Life and Military Services. New York: Rudd and Carleton, 1861. 275 pp.

Of little significance to Kansas. A study of Lyon, his military career and political writings.

Laune, Seigniora Russell. "Avra P. Russell," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 84-88, 1915-1918.

The military career of a Leavenworth merchant. Personal experiences at the battle of Wilson's Creek and campaigns in Arkansas.

"The Lawrence Massacre," Congregational Record. 5: 97-115, September-October, 1863.

A rather thorough statement of the causes and effects of the Lawrence raid by Quantrill. Written shortly after the occurrence, it uncovers some new material on the massacre.

Lecompton Rural High School. "Early History of Lecompton, Kansas and its Vicinity." History and English classes of 1932-1933. Reproduction of typed copy, 1934. 85 pp.

Summary of Quantrill's raid on the neighboring city of Lawrence.

Leftwich, William M. Martyrdom in Missouri St. Louis: Southwestern Book and Publishing Company, 1870. 435 pp.

A study of the religious persecution, seizure of churches and oppression of ministers in the state of Missouri during the war. References made to Kansas.

Lewis, Lloyd. "Propaganda and the Kansas-Missouri War," Missouri Historical Review, 34: 3-17, October, 1939.

A look at the propaganda used during the Civil War, praising Kansas and condemning Missouri for their respective stands.

Lewis, Warner. "Civil War Reminiscences," Missouri Historical Review, 2: 221-232, April, 1908.

A rebel's review of the war in Missouri. Lewis served under General Shelby during Price's invasion.

. "Massacre of Confederate Officers; the Sequel," The Osage Magazine, May, 1910. pp. 68-71.

Colonel Lewis corrects statements made in an earlier article in this same magazine. He gives a reason for their being in the lands of the Osage, the fight and escape.

"Life of Capt. Marcus D. Tenney," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 291-295, 1909-1910.

A number of extracts from official records on the accomplishments of the First Kansas battery commanded by Captain Tenney.

Lively, Morris U. "Break-up of the Notorious Quantrill Gang," Frontier Times, 19: 256-257, April, 1942.

Mention of Lawrence massacre and General Order No. 11.

Lloyd's Battle History of the Great Rebellion. New York: H. H. Lloyd and Company, 1865. 566 pp. maps, photographs.

Contains battle descriptions, sketches, portraits, maps and photographs of several of the engagements in which Kansas regiments participated, with dates and fatalities. See Table of Contents.

Logan, John A. The Great Conspiracy: Its Origin and History. New York: A. R. Hart and Company, 1886. 810 pp. portraits, maps.

See pages 397-398 for Colonel D. R. Anthony's Order No. 26, prohibiting troops under his command from enforcing the fugitive slave law.

Long, E. B., "Pete." "Fremont, Lyon, and Wilson's Creek," The Westerners Brand Book, Chicago Corral. 14: 81-83; 86-88, January, 1958.

A review of the first phase of the Civil War on the Missouri frontier. Special emphasis given to General Lyon and Wilson's Creek.

Lossing, Benson J. The Pictorial Field Book of the Civil War in the United States of America. 3 vols. Hartford: Thomas Belknap, 1874. photographs, plans, etc.

See Table of Contents for the war in the West and pages 608 and 640, Vol. II.

Also published as Pictorial History of the Civil War.

Love, William D. Wisconsin in the War of the Rebellion. A History of All Regiments and Batteries Chicago: Church and Goodman, 1866. 1140 pp. illustrations.

A brief resumé of the Third cavalry and the Ninth infantry in Kansas during 1861 and 1862. Mention is made of the movement to Arkansas and the Cherokee nation. Included is a roster of officers.

Latz, John J. "Quantrell, the Guerilla Chief," Midland Monthly, 7: 509-520, June, 1897. photographs. A report of the Baxter Springs massacre, the Lawrence raid and Quantrill's betrayal of slave raiders into Missouri.

"Lydia S. Thomas. Account of Baxter Springs Massacre and Her Thrilling Adventure, Oct. 6, 1863," The Club Member, 5: 4-5, May, 1907.

Recollections of Quantrill's massacre of General Blunt's wagon train, in which the author was a passenger.

McAllaster, Octavius W. "My Experience in the Lawrence Raid," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 12: 401-404, 1911-1912.

Personal recollection of the Quantrill raid.

McCabe, F. S. "The Churches of Kansas," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 3: 422-426, 1883-1885.

A report presented by Reverend McCabe showing the decline of church attendance during the years 1861-1865.

McClure, William T. "The Fourth Kansas Militia in the Price Raid," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 149-151, 1903-1904.

A short historical sketch of the Fourth Kansas Militia regiment during trying times of October, 1864.

McElroy, John. The Struggle for Missouri. Washington, D.C.: National Tribune Company, 1913. 342 pp. maps, photographs.

A non-fictional narrative of the struggle to keep Missouri from joining the Confederacy. Correspondence, reports and statistics pertinent to Kansas

McGonigle, James. "First Kansas Infantry in the Battle of Wilson's Creek,"

Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 12: 292-295, 1911-1912.

A sketch of the Wilson's Creek engagement by the commanding officer of Co. H. A roster of officers is included.

McLarty, Vivian K. (ed.). "The Civil War Letters of Colonel Bazel F. Lazcar," Missouri Historical Review, 44: 254-273, April, 1950. 44: 378-401, July, 1950. 45: 47-63, October, 1950. illustrations.

Writing to his wife during the war, Colonel Lazear of the Pike county Home Guards tells of his efforts to destroy bushwhackers in and near Kansas City. Also mentions his part in the battle of Westport.

McReynolds, Edwin C. Oklahoma; A History of the Sooner State. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1954. 461 pp. maps, photographs.

Survey of the Civil War in Oklahoma, with reference to Colonel Weer's expedition into the Indian Territory.

Malin, James C. "Theatre in Kansas, 1858-1868; Background for the Coming of the Lord Dramatic Company to Kansas, 1869," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 23: 10-53, Spring, 1957.

Although this article does not concern the military aspect of the Civil War, it is necessary to mention that the civilian population and troops were not denied entertainment. The plays were both comedy and tragedy, and the slavery question was a common theme.

Manning, Edwin C. "A Kansas Soldier," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 10: 421-428, 1907-1908.

A brief summary of the military career of Colonel Samuel Crawford, third governor of Kansas. Also a reprint of a communication which was signed 'A Kansas Soldier' and appeared in the Topeka Daily Capital, March 18, 1908, giving biographical sketches on Powell Clayton, Vincent Osborne and Cyrus Leland, Jr.

Marshall, Jessie A. Private and Official Correspondence of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, During the Period of the Civil War. 5 vols. Norwood, Massachusetts: Plimpton Press, 1917.

See index found in each volume for correspondence relating to Kansas.

Martin, John A. "Kansas in the War," A paper read before the Kansas Commandery of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Talks in Kansas. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson, 1906. 391 pp.

Pages 371-377 give a resumé of the Kansas war effort.

In Memoriam. [n.p.] [n.n] [n.d.] 16 pp.

An address delivered at Wichita, Kansas, May 30, 1886, stressing the character of the men from Kansas regiments who served in his brigade.

Reunion; and to the Kansas National Guard. [n.p.] [n.d.] 11 pp.

An address delivered at Topeka, Kansas, September 29, 1885, and making mention of the war of the rebellion.

"Massacre of Confederates by the Osages," The Osage Magazine, February, 1910, pp. 49-52.

A report of the massacre of Confederate officers in the Osage lands. Indian atrocities are described.

See Warner Lewis' article for additional information.

Meserve, John B. "Chief Opthleyahola," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 9: 439-453, December, 1931. illustrations.

A sketch of a battle between loyal Creek Indians on their way to Kansas and Confederate troops, December 9, 1861. The Creeks wintered in Kansas in 1861.

"Missouri Miniatures; Sterling Price," Missouri Historical Review, 35: 578-587, July, 1941.

A review of General Sterling Price's military career.

Miller, George. Missouri Memorable Decade, 1860-1870. Columbia: E. W. Stephens Press, 1898. 175 pp. portraits.

War and strife in Missouri, with notes on Quantrill, jayhawking and the position of the Presbyterian Church during the war.

Miller, William H. The History of Kansas City Kansas City: Birdsall and Miller, 1881. 264 pp. illustrations.

Chapter X presents a summary of the Civil War, border warfare and Price's raid.

Mitchell, William A. Linn County, Kansas; A History. Kansas City: Campbell-Bates, 1928. 404 pp.

A history of Linn county containing incidents pertinent to the war, i.e., the battle of Mine Creek, James Montgomery, Charles Jennison and jay-hawking.

Monaghan, James. Swamp Fox of the Confederacy Confederate Centennial Studies No. 2. Tuscaloosa, Alabama: Confederate Publishing Company, 1956. 123 pp. illustrations.

The life and military service of Jeff Thompson, C. S. A. It is of interest, as he served at the battle of Westport.

Monks, William. A History of Southern Missouri and Northern Arkansas. West Plains, Missouri: West Plains Journal Company, 1907. 247 pp. photographs.

Pages 40-195 cover the Civil War in Missouri and Arkansas and mention Price's raid, jayhawking, etc.

Moore, James. A Complete History of the Great Rebellion; or, the Civil War in the United States, 1861-1865. Philadelphia: W. S. Burlock and Co., 1880, 552 pp. photographs.

Features the war by months and years. Chapter XXXVII covers Ouantrill.

Moore, Milton. "An Incident of the Upper Arkansas in 1864," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 10: 414-417, 1907-1908.

An attack on a wagon train carrying government stores near present-day Dodge City. Co. H, Eleventh Missouri cavalry, escorted it through Kansas. Good description of wagon train type of protection under Indian attack.

Morehouse, George P. "Diamond Springs, 'The Diamond of the Plains'," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 794-804, 1915-1918.

A note about the May 5, 1863, raid on the Diamond Springs stage station by Dick Yeager, a Quantrill henchman, and the rescue of Council Grove from a similar fate.

Morgan, Perl W. (ed.). History of Wyandotte County, Kansas, and its People. 2 vols. Chicago: The Lewis Publishing Company, 1911. photographs.

Brief histories of Kansas regiments, along with the names and number of Wyandotte county men who served in each. Also described are the battles that occurred in and near Kansas City.

Morrison, William B. Military Posts and Camps in Oklahoma. Oklahoma City: Harlow Publishing Company, 1936. 180 pp. photographs, maps.

Pages 120-136 deal with Civil War fortifications in Kansas.

Morrison, Thomas F. "The Forgotten Hero," [n.d.] Typed copy. 10 pp.

An unpublished manuscript detailing the destruction of the Creek nation by Confederate General Cooper and the evacuation of the Indians to Fort Belmont, Wilson county, Kansas.

Mudd, Joseph A. With Porter in North Missouri; A Chapter in the History of the War between the States. Washington, D.C.: National Publishing Company, 1909. 452 pp. illustrations.

In the chapter "Inhuman Warfare" complaint is made of the manner in which Lane's brigade and other regiments marauded Missouri and destroyed property.

"What I Saw at Wilson's Creek," Missouri Historical Review, 7: 89-105, January, 1913.

A report of Wilson's Creek by a member of the Missouri State Guard.

Musick, John R. Stories of Missouri. New York: American Book Company, 1897. 288 pp. photographs.

Missouri military history includes Wilson's Creek, bushwhacking, General Order No. 11 and Price's raid.

Nettleton, D. C. "A Letter Written to His Sister Dated December 4, 1864," Annals of Kansas City, 1: 272-273, December, 1923.

The text of this letter describes the battles of the Blue and Westport. Nettleton was a sergeant in Co. E., Second Kansas regiment.

Nichols, Alice. Bleeding Kansas. New York: Oxford University Press, 1954. 307 pp.

Minor mention of the war at the end of the book; some errors on Quantrill.

Nixon, Oliver W. "Reminiscences of the First Year of the War in Missouri,"
A paper read before the Commandery of the State of Illinois, Military

Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Military Essays and Recollections. Chicago: The Dial Press, 1899, 493 pp.

Pages 413-436 give mention to General Lane, General Lyon and the battle of Wilson's Creek.

Nye, Wilbur S. Carbine and Lance; The Story of Old Fort Sill. Norman: University of Oklahoma Press, 1937. 441 pp. portraits, maps.

Mention is made of Kansas regiments in Oklahoma Territory.

Omer, George E. "An Army Hospital: From Dragoons to Rough Riders—Fort Riley, 1853-1903," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 23: 337-367, Winter, 1957.

A description of hospital facilities and the services performed by members of the medical department of the United States Army.

Orpen, Adela E. Memories of the Old Emigrant Days in Kansas, 1862-1865. London: William Blackwood and Sons, ltd., 1926. 324 pp. illustrations.

Recollections of the war years in Kansas, emphasizing Quantrill's raid and Price's invasion.

Palmer, Henry E. "The Lawrence Raid," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 317-325, 1897-1900.

An interesting work written by the captain of Co. A., Eleventh Kansas regiment, who pursued Quantrill after his raid on Lawrence. Several skirmishes followed, one of which prevented Federal stores from falling into rebel hands. Copies of general orders from the District Headquarters of the Border pertaining to the curtailing of guerrilla activities.

"Company A, Eleventh Kansas Regiment, in the Price Raid,"
Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 9: 431-443, 1905-1906.
Palmer writes of his personal experiences at the battles of the Blue, Westport, and the encampment at Trading Post.

"The Black-Flag Character of War on the Border," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 9: 455-466, 1905-1906.

Eyewitness accounts of guerrilla warfare along the Kansas border. Palmer tells of events influencing many men to forsake neutrality and join jayhawking bands.

"The Border War-When-Where," A paper read by Companions of the Commandery of the State of Nebraska, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Civil War Sketches and Incidents. Omaha: The Commandery, 1902. 277 pp.

In this narrative Palmer tells how the prevalent attitude of revenge and barbarism spread over the Missouri-Kansas border.

See pages 173-189.

"The Lawrence Raid," A paper read by Companions of the Commandery of the State of Nebraska, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Civil War Sketches and Incidents. Omaha; The Commandery, 1902. 277 pp.

The Lawrence raid was the culmination of border outrages that had gone from bad to worse. This lengthy sketch tells only of the failure to capture the marauders and very little of the details of the raid. General orders for the suppression of further attacks are included.

See pages 190-204.

"An Outing in Arkansas, or Forty Days and a Week in the Wilderness," A paper read by Companions of the Commandery of the State of Nebraska, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, Civil War Sketches and Incidents. Omaha: The Commandery, 1902, 277 pp.

6

In this paper Captain Palmer reconstructs events of a forty-seven day encampment by the Eleventh Kansas regiment in Arkansas, culminating in the battle of Prairie Grove. October-December, 1862.

See pages 213-225.

"Powder River Indian Expedition of 1865. With a Few Incidents Preceding the Same," A paper read by Companions of the Commandery of the State of Nebraska, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Civil War Sketches and Incidents. Omaha: The Commandery, 1902. 277 pp.

While the article as a whole deals with Indian depredations in the West, the "A Few Preceding Incidents" are of particular interest to Civil War historians. It tells of an Indian attack on the Little Blue river in Nebraska Territory, as witnessed by Captain Palmer, a member of the Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment.

See pages 59-109.

Pantle, Alberta. "History of the French-Speaking Settlement in the Cotton-wood Valley," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 19: 12-49, February, 1951.

See page 26 for a copy of an article reprinted from the Emporia News, July 30, 1864, pertaining to an alarm caused by Indians on the upper Cottonwood river. A march by the Eleventh Kansas State Militia is described.

Quarterly. 11: 341-369, November, 1942.

This is a story of Larry Lapsley, a Negro slave who escaped from the South during the war and became a pioneer in Saline county. Lapsley escaped from a Texas slave farm and came to Kansas via the Indian Territory. He describes conditions that prevailed in the Territory from a military and civilian standpoint.

Parrish, William E. "General Nathaniel Lyon, A Portrait," Missouri Historical Review, 49: 1-18, October, 1954, photographs.

Mentions Lyon's service at Fort Riley prior to February, 1861.

Pearce, N. B. "Price's Campaign of 1861," Publications of the Arkansas Historical Association, 4: 332-351, 1917.

Of limited use for Price's campaign in Missouri and at Wilson's Creek.

Peckham, James. Gen. Nathaniel Lyon, and Missouri in 1861. New York: American News Company, 1866. 447 pp. photographs.

Although this monograph concerns events in Missouri, it has a direct bearing on Kansas. General Lyon was sent from Fort Riley to take charge of the arsenal at St. Louis. Several letters were written to old friends in Kansas on the progress of the war. A few pages are devoted to Wilson's Creek and the appendix contains Major Samuel D. Sturgis' report of the battle.

Perkins, J. R. "Jefferson Davis and Gen. Sterling Price," Confederate Veteran, 19: 473-477, October, 1911.

An article that deals with the associations of President Davis of the Confederate States of America and one of his generals. It shows a lack of trust for the leader of the war in the West, because of prejudices formulated during the war with Mexico.

Not essential to a study of Kansas, but interesting personality study.

Phelps, H. Warren. "A Military Campaign. A Campaign Through Arkansas, Missouri and into Kansas, September 2 to October 27, 1864," Journal of History, 17: 257-267, July, 1924.

The diary of Lieutenant Phelps of Co. H., Ninty-Fifth Ohio infantry regiment, records the adversities suffered in trying to halt Price. Secondary accounts of various battles, Phillips, Charles J. "Alvin Wood's Retreat from Prairie Grove," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 7: 170-171, June, 1929. illustrations.

Humorous treatment of the withdrawal of a full-blooded Osage Indian attached to the Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Pollard, Edward. Southern History of the Great Civil War in the United States. Toronto: P. R. Randall, 1863. 383 pp. portraits.

See index for campaigns in the West, flavored by Southern writers.

Pomeroy, Samuel C. Obituary Addresses of Messrs. Pomeroy, Dixon and Foster on the Death of Brigadier General Lyon. Washington, D. C.: Congressional Globe Printing Office, 1861. 8 pp.

Eulogy delivered in the United States Senate, December 20, 1861, by Senator Pomeroy; includes a report of Wilson's Creek.

Prentis, Noble L. Kansas Miscellanies. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas Publishing Company, 1889. 218 pp.

The writer recalls his wartime experiences in Missouri and Arkansas at the battles of Wilson's Creek and Prairie Grove.

Prentiss, Anne J. "Memories of Quantrell's Raid," Kansas Woman's Journal, 5: 1-2, March, 1926.

Reminiscences of the raid by a schoolteacher at Kanwaka.

"Price's Invasion," Congregational Record, 6: 109-117, 121-129, October- November, 1864.

Anonymously written, using secondary material, an interesting and informative sketch of the Price raid into Missouri and Kansas.

Pride, Woodbury F. The History of Fort Riley. [n.p] [n.n.] 1926. 339 pp. illustrations.

Mention is made of the Civil War and its effect on Fort Riley at various times. No one chapter is devoted strictly to the war.

"Quantrill and His Famous Command," Confederate Veteran, 18: 278-279, June, 1910.

Summary of Quantrill's activities; contains a list of his original company.

Ragan, Stephen H. "The Battle of Westport," Annals of Kansas City, 1: 259-266, December, 1923. illustrations.

A paper read before the Daughters of the Confederacy, October 22, 1910, giving the battle of Westport a pro-southern flavor by praising the abilities of Generals Price, Shelby and Marmaduke.

Rascoe, Burton. Belle Starr. The Bandit Queen. New York: Random House, 1941. 336 pp. photographs.

Pages 72-97 mention Kansas jayhawking, Quantrill's cohorts and Stand Watie. The chapter is entitled "Quantrill's Pupils."

Richardson, Albert D. The Secret Service, the Field, the Dungeon and the Escape. Washington, D. C.: The National Tribune, 1897. 512 pp. photographs.

Mention of border warfare in Kansas and pertinent battles in Missouri and Arkansas.

Beyond the Mississippi Hartford: American Publishing Company, 1867. 572 pp. illustrations, maps.

Brief comments on the sacking of Lawrence.

Ridenour, Peter D. Autobiography of Peter D. Ridenour with Genealogies of the Ridenour and Beatty Families. Kansas City: Hudson Press, 1908. 323 pp. portraits.

A merchant of Lawrence relates his views on the war and a description of the massacre.

Riggs, Henry E. Our Pioneer Ancestors. Being a Record of Available Information as to the Riggs, Balridge, Agnew, Earle, Kirkpatrick, Vreeland and Allied Families in the Direct Line of Ancestory of Samuel Agnew Riggs and Catharine Doane Earle Riggs. 2 vols. Ann Arbor, Michigan: Edwards Brothers, Inc., 1942.

Chapter VI, Vol. II gives personal recollections and opinions on Quantrill's raid.

Robinson, Charles. Annual Message to the Gentlemen of the Senate and the House of Representatives. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 7 pp.

This message was delivered January 14, 1862, and contained a report concerning the conduct of the war to date.

Robley, T. F. History of Bourbon County Kansas to the Close of 1865. Fort Scott, Kansas: Monitor Book and Printing Company, 1894. 210 pp. photographs.

A one volume history of Bourbon county, commenting on war emotions, the battle of Dry Creek, battle of Mine Creek and Price's raid.

Roenigk, Adolph. Pioneer History of Kansas. Lincoln, Kansas: A. Roenigk, 1933, 365 pp.

Pages 1-10 present a summary of the Civil War. W. K. Cone wrote Chapter II, dealing with Quantrill.

Russell, Orpha. "Ekvn-Hv'lwuce. Site of Oklahoma's First Civil War Battle," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 29: 401-407, Winter, 1951. maps, photographs.

Additional information of the battle of Round Mountain.

Sandburg, Carl. Storm Over the Land. A Profile of the Civil War.... New York: Harcourt, Brace and Company, 1942. 440 pp. illustrations, maps. Using the same information as in his Abraham Lincoln: The War Years,

Sandburg mentions the Civil War in Kansas and Missouri. Scharf, J. Thomas. History of Saint Louis City and County. 2 vols. Philadelphia: Louis H. Everts, 1883. photographs, maps.

Pages 390-555 cover the war in Missouri, relating to St. Louis as head-quarters for the Department of the West. It contains orders, reports and rosters. Some mention of Kansas.

Schmucker, Samuel M. The History of the Civil War, in the United States.

Philadelphia: Jones Brothers and Company, 1865. 1021 pp. photographs, maps.

Brief mention of the Civil War in the West.

Scott, William F. The Story of a Cavalry Regiment. The Career of the Fourth Iowa Veteran Volunteers from Kansas to Georgia, 1861-1865. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1893. 602 pp. illustrations, maps.

The story of the Fourth Iowa Veteran Volunteers and their service in Missouri, helping to repel the Price invasion. They served with Kansas regiments in this task.

. Roster of the Fourth Iowa Cavalry. Veteran Volunteers, 1861-1865. New York: J. J. Little and Company, 1902. 245 pp. photographs.

An appendix to his The Story of a Cavalry Regiment, containing a brief sketch of each officer and man attached to the Fourth Iowa Volunteers.

Scott, William W., S. Harmount and Eliza A. Slingluff. Reminiscences of Dover. Dover, Ohio: Iron Valley Reporter Newspaper Book and Job Office, 1897. 116 pp.

Pages 90-91 present a sketch of Quantrill in Kansas.

Sears, William H. "The Paul Reveres of the Lawrence Massacre," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 17: 838-841, 1926-1928.

Additional comments on an attempt by Henry Thompson to warn Lawrence of its impending danger. Adapted from William Connelley's Quantrill and the Border Wars.

Shannon, Fred A. The Organization and Administration of the Union Army, 1861-1865. 2 vols. Cleveland: The Arthur H. Clark Company, 1928. illustrations.

This work was prepared by a former professor of history at Kansas State University; in it he makes reference to the draft as it applied to Kansas

Shea, John C. Reminiscences of Quantrell's Raid Upon the City of Lawrence: Thrilling Narratives by Living Eye Witnesses. Kansas City: Isaac P. Moore, 1879. 27 pp.

Composed of interviews and letters written to the Chicago Times. The author claims it to be the only true version of the Lawrence massacre.

Shinn, Josiah H. The History of Arkansas. Richmond, Virginia: B. F. Johnson Publishing Company, 1900. 335 pp. illustrations, maps.

A survey of the war in Arkansas. Some mention of Kansas, as jayhawk regiments served there.

Sigel, Franz. "Battle of Wilson's Creek," Missouri Historical Review, 1: 147-148, January, 1907.

A letter dated New York City, July 30, 1865, from Sigel to Walter Howard, reflecting upon his retreat at Wilson's Creek.

"The Military Operations in Missouri in the Summer and Autumn of 1861," Missouri Historical Review, 26: 354-367, July, 1932.

Sigel was a German officer who commanded a regiment at the battle of Wilson's Creek. This article tells of his strategic maneuvering in Missouri to prevent Price from entering Kansas.

Contains a report from Benjamin McCulloch, Price's assistant, at the battle of Oak Hill [Wilson's Creek].

"Sketch of the Career of Gen. Robert B. Mitchell," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 16: 635-637, 1923-1925.

This sketch of General Mitchell first appeared in the LaCygne Weekly Journal, May 3, 1895. It contains a roster of Co. F., Second regiment, Kansas volunteers.

Smith, F. Coleman. "War-time Experiences in the West," Confederate Veteran, 19: 11-12, January, 1911.

Reveals a sketch of the Missouri State Guard and Smith's personal hatred for Senator James H. Lane.

Snead, Thomas L. The Fight for Missouri From the Election of Lincoln to the Death of Lyon. New York: Charles Scribner's Sons, 1888. 322 pp. maps.

Casualty and strength lists for regiments participating at the battle of Wilson's Creek.

"Soldiering in 1861," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 13: 474-475, August, 1945.

A reprint of an article first printed in the Leavenworth Daily Times, November 23, 1861; it chronicles the activities of the First Kansas regiment, as gathered by a correspondent for the St. Louis Democrat. It shows that humor was still to be found, even in those darkest of days.

"Some Ingalls Letters," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 94-122, 1915-1918.

Only one letter out of this collection deals with the Civil War. Writing to his father, John J. Ingalls made comments on the conflict as it appeared to him on May 11, 1861.

Speech of Governor Thomas Carney. Leavenworth: Daily Times Power Printing Establishment, 1864. 8 pp.

This pamphlet contains the speech delivered at Lawrence, October 30, 1864. Carney spoke on national politics and severely criticized the military practices of Senator James H. Lane.

Spring, Leverett W. "The Career of a Kansas Politician," American Historical Review, 4: 80-104, October, 1898.

A study of Senator Lane with some emphasis on his military career.

"Statement of Theodore Weichselbaum of Ogden, Riley County, July 17, 1908," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 561-571, 1909-1910.

A brief reminiscence of a sutler and his transactions with the Kansas State Militia. A description of corporal punishment administered by General Lyon is found on page 568.

"Statement of Capt. J. A. Pike Concerning the Quantrill Raid," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 311-318, 1915-1918. portrait.

A statement written in 1917 by Captain Pike explaining why he did not intercept Quantrill's guerrillas in August, 1863. Also a question and answer letter from Society secretary William Connelley pertaining to the subject.

Bitterly criticized for many years, Pike refused to make any comment on the matter. He finally consented to give a statement after Connelley agreed to publish it as written.

Stevenson, David. Indiana's Roll of Honor. Indianapolis: A. D. Streight, 1864. 654 pp. portraits.

A summary of the war in Missouri and the part which Indiana's regiments played, particularly at Wilson's Creek, can be found on pages 437-488.

Story of the Civil War by One Who Was There. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 8 pp.

A brief pamphlet telling of army life in the Indian Territory in 1863-1864. The unknown author was a member of Co. F., Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Straley, W. (comp.). Soldiers and Their Deeds. Hico, Texas: Hico Printing Company, 1913. 25 pp. portraits.

A brief resumé of Texas' activity in the war and mention of several battles in which Kansas troops participated.

Streeter, Floyd B. The Kaw; the Heart of a Nation. In The Rivers of America Series. Edited by Constance Lindsay Skinner. New York: Farrar and Rinehart, 1941. 371 pp. illustrations.

A sketch of Quantrill and the Lawrence raid.

Stringfellow, Jacob. [Verres Smith]. "Jim Lane," Lippincott's Magazine, 5: 266-278, March, 1870.

A critical look at Lane. Some mention of his war service.

Taft, Robert. "Kansas and the Beginning of the Civil War," Kansas Teacher, 64: 62-64, September, 1955. photographs.

A resumé of the year 1861 by the late past president of the Kansas State Historical Society. A letter from President Lincoln to Secretary of War Cameron regarding James H. Lane is of interest.

. "The Civil War in Kansas, The Battle of Mine Creek and The Quantrill Raid," Kansas Teacher, 64: 109-112, October, 1955. photographs.

Taft, a well-known Kansas historian, retells in a straight and interesting manner the two most important wartime events that transpired in Kansas.

Tenney, W. J. The Military and Naval History of the Rebellion in the United States. New York: D. Appleton and Company, 1867. 843 pp.

See index for entries concerning the war in the trans-Mississippi West.

Testimony of Capt. F. M. Gable, Hon. D. R. Anthony, Hon. James M. Miller et. al. before the Committee on Invalid Pensions, House of Representatives on the Kansas State Militia. Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1910. 17 pp.

Some data herein contained is of interest, including telegrams and proclamations.

Thayer, William M. A Youth's History of the Rebellion. Boston: Walker, Wise and Company, 1864. 347 pp.

A report of General Lyon in Missouri and at Wilson's Creek. Told as a story to a child.

Thayer, William R. The Life and Letters of John Hay. 2 vols. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Company, 1915. illustrations.

Mentions Senator Lane's turning the White House into a barracks for his Frontier Guards.

The Battle of Westport, October, 21-22-23, 1864; and the Movement of the Missouri Valley Historical Society of Kansas City to Make a Memorial Park Out of a Part of the Battlefield. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 50 pp. portraits, maps.

Known as the Gettysburg of the West, it ended, for the most part, the war in the Kansas-Missouri area.

Included are the following essays: Paul B. Jenkins' "The Battle of Westport," Stephan H. Regan's "The Battle of Westport" and "The Diary of General John F. Philips."

"The Frontier Guard at the White House," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 10: 418-420, 1907-1908. illustrations.

A short article containing a partial roster of the officers and men of General Lane's Frontier Guard. Included are excerpts from the Washington Evening Star and New York Herald pertaining to the Guard.

Thoburn, Joseph B. A Standard History of Oklahoma. 5 vols. Chicago: The American Historical Society, 1916. illustrations.

A presentation of the Civil War in Oklahoma, including the invasion by Kansans Colonel Weer and General Blunt.

Doub and Company, 1908. 266 pp. illustrations.

A History of Oklahoma. San Francisco:

Pages 75-103 give an outline of Kansas war activities in the Indian Territory.

Thomas, David Y. Arkansas in War and Reconstruction, 1861-1874. Little Rock: Arkansas Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, 1926. 446 pp. photographs.

Adequate coverage of Kansas military action in Arkansas.

Tracy, Frank M. "Capture of the Iatan Flag," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 1: 248-252, 1875-1880.

Twelve volunteers of the First Kansas regiment captured a rebel flag at Iatan, Missouri. Presented step by step by a member of the raiding party, this article tells of the boost in morale received by Kansas troops.

Trickett, Dean. "The Civil War in the Indian Territory," Chronicles of Oklahoma, 17: 315-327, September, 1939; 17: 401-412, December, 1939; 18: 142-153, June, 1940; 18: 266-280, September, 1940; 19: 55-69, March, 1941; 19: 381-396, December, 1941.

A detailed study of the Civil War in the Indian Territory, with relationship to Kansas. Gives statistics on the number of Negro slaves held by Indians.

Tucker, Samuel. Price Raid Through Linn County, Kansas, October 24, 25, 1864. [n.p.] [n.n.] 1958. 17 pp. maps.

Using secondary sources and twice-told tales, Tucker discusses the battle of Marais Des Cygne and the battle of Mine Creek.

U.S. President, 1861-1865 (Lincoln), 37th Congress, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Document no. 8. "Message of the President of the United States." (Serial 1112)

Contains correspondence relating to the appointment of Senator Lane as a brigadier general in the Kansas volunteer service.

United States Sanitary Commission. A Sketch of its Furposes and its Work. Boston: Little, Brown and Company, 1863. 299 pp.

Work of the U.S. Sanitary Commission during the first two years of the rebellion. Pages 151-156 concern its phase in the West.

Unrau, William E. "The Story of Fort Larned," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 23: 257-280, Autumn, 1957.

An article on one of the earliest outposts in Kansas. It was used to keep the Indians in tow, thus releasing troops for needed service elsewhere.

- Victor, Orville J. (ed.). The History, Civil, Political and Military, of the Southern Rebellion. 3 vols. New York: James D. Torry, [n.d] illustrations. See Vol. II, Division IV, Chapter IV, for the war in Missouri.
- ry, 1866. 495 pp.

See Chapters XIX and XX for a survey of Wilson's Creek and Lexington in Missouri; also Price's raid.

Walker, George M. "Eleventh Kansas Cavalry, 1865, and the Battle of Platte Bridge," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 14: 332-340, 1915-1918. photographs, maps.

Not directly connected with the Civil War, this was a campaign pitting the Indians against the Eleventh Kansas regiment under Colonel Preston B. Plumb.

"War Incidents at Kansas City," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 282-291, 1909-1910.

Daniel Geary, who was a dispatch carrier in and around Kansas City, wrote this paper in a letter form to Society secretary George Martin. It contains recollections that correct several articles which had appeared in the Society's publications.

Ware, Eugene F. The Indian War of 1864. . . . Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1911. 601 pp. illustrations, maps.

Minor mention of the progress of the Civil War prior to 1864, including Wilson's Creek.

Ware served with the Seventh Iowa cavalry in the Nebraska Territory.

The Lyon Campaign in Missouri. Being a History of the First Iowa Cavalry. . . . Topeka, Kansas: Crane and Company, 1907. 377 pp. illustrations, maps.

Of little interest to Kansas, but supplemental reading for the war in Missouri.

. "The Neutral Lands," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 6: 147-169, 1897-1900.

A brief article pertaining to the filibusters made into the neutral lands of Oklahoma during the Civil War.

Warner, William H. The Battle and Massacre at Baxter Springs, October 6, 1863. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] 8 pp.

A reminiscence by the post surgeon at Fort Scott concerning Quantrill's raid on General Blunt's wagon train near Baxter Springs. It contains a report written to Captain Tholen by General Blunt, October 7, 1863, concerning the massacre.

Reprinted in the Baxter Springs Daily News, October 10, 1884.

Washington County Historical Society. "Report of the Battle of Prairie Grove," Report No. 7, Fayetteville, Arkansas: Washington County Historical Society, September 15, 1958.

A review of the battle of Prairie Grove by C. T. Harris, Jr., whose father served the Confederacy.

Watson, John S. "The Guerilla Chief Quantrell," Confederate Veteran, 15: 238, May, 1907.

An enlightenment of the Lawrence massacre. Also a statement is contained that Quantrill joined with Lane prior to the outbreak of the war.

Webb, William L. Battles and Biographies of Missourians; or, the Civil War Period of our State. Kansas City: Hudson-Kimberly Publishing Company, 1900, 369 pp. photographs.

Chapters on Wilson's Creek, Lexington, Newtonia, Cane Hill, Westport, General Order No. 11, and Quantrill concern Kansas and Missouri.

Wellman, Paul I. "Why Quantrill Sacked Lawrence," Kansas Magazine, 1939. pp. 36-38.

A study of the conditions that fused together and exploded as the Lawrence massacre.

5

=

Westport, 1812-1912. Kansas City. Franklin Hudson Publishing Company, 1912. 76 pp. illustrations.

Commemorating the centennial of the founding of Westport, this booklet contains four separate and distinct items concerning the battle of Westport:

"Battle of Westport," pp. 50-63; "The Casualties of the Three Day Fight," pp. 64-67; "Personal Reminiscences of Maj. H. J. Vivan of the Last Day of the Battle of Westport," pp. 69-70; and "Recollections of the Second Day's Fight in the Battle of Westport," pp. 71-75.

Wherry, William M. "The Campaigns in Missouri and the Battles of Wilson's Creek, 1861," Missouri Historical Society Publications, 1: 1-18, 1880.

A paper read before the Missouri Historical Society of St. Louis, March, 1880, summarizing the war in Missouri and at Wilson's Creek, mentioning Kansas. By a participant.

White, Owen P. "Buckets of Blood," American Mercury, 16: 296-303, March, 1929.

A survey of border warfare and Quantrill's activities in Kansas.

Whitney, Carrie W. Kansas City, Missouri. Its History and Its People, 1808-1908. 3 vols. Chicago: S. J. Clarke Publishing Company, 1908. photographs.

Chapter VIII depicts the Civil War period, Price's raid and border warfare.

Wight, Willard. (ed.). "An Unofficial Account of the Battle of Wilson's Creek, August 10, 1861," Arkansas Historical Quarterly, 15: 360-364, Winter, 1956.

This article contains a letter written to Edward Clark, governor of Texas, dated August 16, 1861, giving particulars of the battle of Wilson's Creek. The letter has a decidedly southern flavor.

Williams, Walter (ed.). A History of Northeast Missouri. 3 vols. Chicago: Lewis Publishing Company, 1913. illustrations.

A brief mention of the Civil War in Missouri.

, and Floyd C. Shoemaker. Missouri, Mother of the West. 5 vols. Chicago: The American Historical Society, Inc., 1930. illustrations.

Chapters III and IV, Vol. II, present a survey of the war in Missouri: Wilson's Creek, General Order No. 11, border warfare and Price's raid.

Woodward, Ashbel. Life of General Nathaniel Lyon. Case, Lockwood and Company, 1862. 360 pp. maps, illustrations.

A chapter is devoted to the battle of Wilson's Creek, and part of Chapter IX deals with Lyon in Kansas. Information is taken from journals, letters and personal interviews of men who served under him.

Writers' Program, Kansas. Lamps on the Prairie: A History of Nursing in Kansas. Emporia: The Gazette Press, 1942. 292 pp. illustrations.

Pages 59-65 deal with the conditions and suffering found in Army hospitals by Kansas nurses who served in the Civil War.

Wyandotte County and Kansas City, Kansas. 2 vols. Chicago: Goodspeed Publishing Company, 1890.

A survey of wartime Kansas. Contains brief sketches of regiments, rosters of officers, etc., and lists men from Wyandotte county who served in the units.

Wynkoop, Edward W. "Edward Wanshear Wynkoop," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 13: 71-79, 1913-1914.

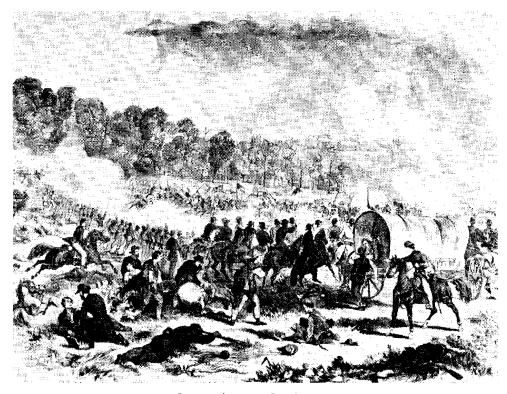

Wynkoop, former U.S. Land Office worker at Lecompton, was a member of the Colorado volunteer service and saw action in the New Mexico Territory. He also spent considerable time at Fort Riley.

Zorn, Roman J. (ed.). "Campaigning in Southern Arkansas: A Memoir by C. T. Anderson," Arkansas Historical Quarterly, 8: 240-244, Autumn, 1949.

Mentions the First Kansas Colored infantry regiment at Poison Springs, Indians versus Negro troops.

Edited portion of a reminiscence originally titled "Just a Little War with C. T. Anderson."

=

The Battle of Wilson's Creek

Detachments of the Second Kansas regiment, girding themselves to repulse an attack by Rebel cavalry. (Kansas State Historical Society.)

IV

MISCELLANEOUS SOURCES

The sources described in this chapter consist of fictionalized versions of wartime events, most notably the border struggles, in the form of historical novels, plays, poems and songs. Also there are found clippings, scrapbooks, addresses, broadsides, reunions, rosters and other miscellaneous memorabilia which offer some significant facts when pursued by the diligent researcher.

NOVELS, PLAYS, POEMS AND SONGS

Allsopp, Frederick W. Folklore of Romantic Arkansas. 2 vols. New York: The Grolier Society, 1931. illustrations.

Pages 309-312 present folklore and myths about Quantrill. Also contains a review of O. S. Barton's Three Years with Quantrell.

Appell, George C. The Man Who Shot Quantrill. Garden City, New York: Doubleday and Company, Inc., 1957. 189 pp.

Fictionalized account of the last years of Quantrill's reign of terror, with references to Kansas,

Barbe, Muriel C. A Union Forever; An Historical Story of the Turbulent Years, 1854-1865, in the Lincoln Country and the Kansas-Missouri Border of the Old Central West, Based on Contemporary Records, Documents and Letters of Lewis Hanback, Hitherto Unpublished. Clendale, California: The Barbe Associates, 1949. 470 pp.

A historical novel using real names for its characters. Except for the irrelevant dialogue, it seems to merit some consideration for research purposes.

Blake, Minnie. The Quantrill Raid with Introductory Poems. [n.p.] [n.n.] 1929. 42 pp. photographs.

Two poems of interest; the introductory poem is about Senator James Lane, while the main piece deals with Quantrill's raid on Lawrence.

Botkin, Benjamin A. "Quantrill the Guerrilla," A Treasury of Southern Folklore. New York: Crown Publishers, 1949. 776 pp.

Pages 233-239 feature a story of Quantrill, as taken from Kit Dalton's Under the Black Flag. The story is based on distorted facts, as it upholds Quantrill.

Bretherton, Vivien R. The Rock and the Wind. New York: E. P. Dutton and Company, 1942. 618 pp.

Pages 25-39 give a fictional account of Quantrill's raid on Lawrence.

Burnett, William R. The Dark Command; A Kansas Iliad. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1938. 396 pp.

Fictional account of border warfare in Kansas. Actual history is disguised, as persons, places and events have been changed.

Callahan, James P. "Kansas in the American Novel and Short Story," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 17: 139-188, 1926-1928.

The titles of several fictional works are found scattered throughout this thesis. They were written mostly by Kansas authors.

Crafton, Allen. "Quantrill's Raid: A Radio Play," Kansas Magazine, 1937. pp. 80-84.

The scenes center around Edward Fitch, the first schoolteacher in the Kansas Territory, the night preceding and the day of the raid.

Doneghy, Dagmar. The Border. A Missouri Saga. New York: William Morrow and Company, 1931. 343 pp.

A historical novel of Civil War days on the Kansas-Missouri border. Mention of Quantrill's raid.

Emerson, William A. Fireside Legends. Incidents, Anecdotes, Reminiscences, etc., Connected with the Early History of Fitchburg, Mass., and Vicinity. [n.p.] [n.n.] 1900. 338 pp. illustrations, photographs.

See pages 300-302 for a sketch of the Lawrence massacre.

"Gen. Sterling Price," Confederate Veteran, 13: 508-509, November, 1905.

A poem praising the ability of General Price after he defeated General Lyon at Wilson Creek. It was written January 20, 1862.

£

z

Gruber, Frank. "Under Quantrell's Black Flag," Liberty Magazine, 15: 7-11, December 10, 1938. illustrations.

Fictional version of the Lawrence raid, using real facts, in part.

The Bushwhackers. New York: Rinehart and Company, 1959.

A fictional account of the Baxter Springs massacre is found at the outset of this book.

Jenkins, Wilton A. Rubaiyat of the Fifth Kansas. Chicago: Staiger, 1898. 22 pp. portraits.

Poetic version of the services of the Fifth Kansas regiment in Missouri and Arkansas.

Keith, Harold. Rifles for Watie. New York: Thomas Y. Crowell, 1957. 332 pp. illustrations.

A work of fiction taken from recognized historical sources, this book deals with the war in the Indian Territory, with profiles of Linn County, Kansas, in 1861 and 1865; also a mention of Fort Leavenworth.

The author gathered most of the information while preparing his master's thesis.

Lewis, Sinclair, and Lloyd Lewis. Jayhawker. A Play in Three Acts. Garden City, New York: Doubleday, Doran and Company, Inc., 1935. 163 pp. illustrations.

A play depicting the time of strife in Kansas and Missouri, 1854-1865. The characters are patterned after actual personalities of the time, such as James Lane, Colonel C. R. Jennison and others.

This little-known play was written by the well-known novelist Sinclair Lewis and the prominent Civil War historian Lloyd Lewis.

Lomax, John A., and Alan Lomax. (comp.). Cowboy Songs and Other Frontier Ballads. New York: Macmillan Company, 1938. 431 pp.

This collection contains several ballads and songs about Quantrill and his activities in Kansas.

Peacock, Thomas B. The Rhyme of the Border War. A Historical Poem of the Kansas-Missouri Guerrilla War. . . . New York: G. W. Carleton and Company, 1880. 162 pp.

A blank verse poem dealing with Quantrill, C. R. Jennison and the battle of Westport. A different and fresh approach to Civil War events.

Stanley, Caroline A. Order No. 11. A Tale of the Border. New York: The Century Company, 1904. 420 pp. illustrations.

A fictional account of Quantrill's raid on Lawrence and the resulting General Order No. 11.

See Current Literature, 6: 615-618, June, 1904, for a review of this work by Thomas Ewing, Jr., the commanding general of the District of the Border, who issued this order depopulating much of the area of western Missouri.

Stevenson, Anna B. A Sunflower Sheaf; Stories and Anecdotes of the Early and Later Days of the Sunflower State. New York: The Exposition Press, 1946. 327 pp.

Personal stories of happenings and events during the war by people in Kansas.

Townsend, Clara V. "The Battle of Westport," Annals of Kansas, 1: 257, December, 1923.

A poem dedicated to Kansas City and those men who fell there.

CLIPPINGS, SCRAPBOOKS, ADDRESSES, BROADSIDES, REUNIONS, ROSTERS AND OTHER MISCELLANEOUS MEMORABILIA

An Alphabetical List of the Battles of the War of the Rebellion with Dates. Washington, D.C.: C. M. Van Buren, 1883. 330 pp.

Pages 126-128 contain a list of surgeons attached to Kansas regiments. Anthony, Daniel R. Broadside, Leavenworth Conservative, printer. [1863].

A resolution introduced August 27, 1863, by Senator James Lane at a meeting of Leavenworth county citizens ". . . that . . . loyal men . . . be requested to assemble at Paola on September 8, with such arms and ammunition as they can procure . . . and fifteen days subsistence. . . ." Signed D. R. Anthony.

"A Survey of Historic Sites and Structures in Kansas," Kansas Historical Quarterly, 23: 113-180, Summer, 1957.

History, location, description, status and recommendations for historical sites and structures in Kansas. The National Civil War Centennial Commission is interested in several of these places. See page 121 for the Baxter Springs massacre, page 149 for the battle of Mine Creek, and page 157 for the massacre of Confederate officers.

"Attainments of the G. A. R.," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 10: 149-151, 1907-1908.

Statistics on the number and age of enlistments in the Grand Army of the Republic.

Barry, Louise. (comp.). Comprehensive Index 1875-1930 to Collections, Biennial Reports, and Publications of the Kansas State Historical Society. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas State Historical Society, 1959. 515 pp.

As implied by the title, it is a comprehensive index to the forty-seven volumes of works published by the Kansas State Historical Society since 1875. However, it does not contain references to the Quarterly, which has been published since 1930.

See pages 85 and 86 for first entries on the Civil War.

Boynton, Henry V. The National Military Park. Chickamauga-Chattanooga. Cincinnati: The Robert Clarke Company, 1895. 307 pp. maps, photographs.

Chronological study of two important battles in which a Kansas regiment participated.

National Military Park, September 18-20, 1895. Washington, D. C.: Government Printing Office, 1896. 373 pp.

A report of the joint committee to represent the Congress at the dedication of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park.

It is made up of a series of addresses. The Eighth Kansas regiment saw action there. Pages 223-226 are a report addressed to Governor Morrill describing the Kansas monument at Missionary Ridge.

Bryan, S. A. Memorial Reminiscences. Sketches of Civil War Veterans of the Waterville Community. Waterville, Kansas: W. E. Turner, 1935. 60 pp. Biographical sketches of Civil War veterans.

Carney, Thomas. Broadside. [n.p.] [n.n.] [October 8, 1864.]

A broadside containing the proclamation of Governor Carney ordering out the militia to repel the advances of Confederate General Price, s

"Eulogy on the Death of Senator James H. Lane in the House by Representatives Sidney Clarke, J. H. Farquhar and W. E. Niblack and in the Senate by J. R. Doolittle, T. A. Hendricks and S. C. Pomeroy, July 18, 1866."

See Congressional Globe, 37th Congress, 1st session, 1865-1866, 3903, 3904, 3905, 3913, 3915.

Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly.

Not consulted. The Society has a complete file of this magazine for the war years, but lacks a suitable index, making it difficult to determine Kansas events. Microfilm copy.

(Clippings) "General Order No. 11."

Clippings from the Kansas City Star, August 25, 1913, and November 13, 1932, pertaining to General Order No. 11.

Harper's Weekly.

Not consulted. The Society has a complete file of this magazine for the war years, but lacks a suitable index, making it difficult to determine Kansas events.

Harrington, Grant W. (comp.). Annals of Brown County Kansas To January 1, 1900. Hiawatha, Kansas: Harrington Printing Company, 1903. 564 pp. illustrations, maps.

Contains a roster of officers and men of the Brown County militia who participated against Sterling Price.

Hawley, Lorene A. and Alan W. Farley (comps.). Kansas Imprints, 1854-1876. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas State Historical Society, 1958. 90 pp.

A supplement to the American Imprints Inventory No. 10. Check List of Kansas Imprints, 1854-1876.

Historical Records Survey, Kansas. A Check List of Kansas Imprints, 1854-1876. Topeka, Kansas: The WPA Historical Records Survey Project, 1939. 773 pp.

Using this check list it is possible to find the location of material printed in Kansas for that period of the war years, 1861-1865. Contains broadsides, minutes and records. (American Imprints Inventory No. 10.)

Hubbard, Harmon R. Sketches of Ex-Soldiers of the Kansas House of Representatives, Legislature of 1887. Topeka, Kansas: George W. Crane, 1887. 29 pp.

Brief resumés of the military careers of Kansas legislators. Very few of the members served in Kansas regiments, as most of them settled in Kansas after the war.

(Scrapbook) William Hutchinson.

A scrapbook containing reprints from the New York Times, Washington Republic, Boston Journal and other newspapers commenting on the progress of the war in Kansas.

Jennison, Charles R. Broadside. Mound City, Kansas: [n,n.] August 24, 1861.

"Independent Kansas Jay-Hawkers Volunteers are wanted for the 1st Regiment of Kansas Volunteer Cavalry to serve our country during the war. /s/ C. R. Jennison."

(Scrapbook)

A scrapbook containing clippings about Colonel C. R. Jennison dating from 1860-1866. Also two typed copies. Included are his correspondence, Confederate money, and many of his orders.

The clippings are undated and unplaced, but an immense treasury of information is collected, much of which cannot be found elsewhere.

Kansas. Adjutant General's Office.

Census.

A census established by the state legislature of 1863 which was to be continued every two years. It lists ex-soldiers, widows and orphans by counties of residence.

On microfilm; originals are in the archives department.

Kansas. Adjutant General's Office.

Roll.

Descriptive roll of Kansas volunteers of 1861-1865, giving name, marital status, occupation and nativity (county and state.)

Kansas. Adjutant and Quartermaster General Reports, 1861-1865. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.] unpaged.

Contains casualty lists for the war years and bills presented to the quartermaster general's department for payment. Reports are fragmentary and incomplete.

Individual copies of the adjutant general's reports to the governor, are bound together.

"Kansas at Chickamauga and Chattanooga," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 8: 271-275, 1903-1904. illustrations.

In 1895 the legislature passed an act to erect a memorial to the officers and men of the Eighth Kansas regiment at Chickamauga and Chattanooga. The inscription which was engraved on the marker and a brief summary of the action are found in this article. See H. V. Boynton for information. A photograph of the monument is included in the article.

(Pamphlets) "Kansas Biographical Pamphlets."

Fourteen volumes of pamphlets bound in alphabetical order. Several may be of interest, as they were not thoroughly consulted.

"Kansas Emancipation League."

The Society has an envelope containing material on this league whose object was to destroy slavery throughout the United States and to provide for the necessities of those who had escaped from bondage and who came to Kansas.

- (Clippings) "Kansas History." Twelve volumes of clippings that deal with every period and phase of Kansas history—from territorial times to the present. The volumes are arranged by date of the newspaper and not by subject. Card catalogue will sometimes offer a lead to their use.
- (Clippings) "Kansas in the Civil War." Four volumes of miscellaneous clippings. Vol. I, general course of the war. Vol. II, battle of Wilson's Creek. Vols. III and IV, battles and other campaigns. Clippings taken from Kansas newspapers and those of other states. Many of these are recollections; however, they are usable.
- "Kansas Quarter-Centennial. 1861-1886. Proceedings of the Celebration of the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of the Admission of Kansas into the Union, Held at Topeka, January 29, 1886," Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 3: 367-469, 1883-1885.

These addresses by former governor Charles Robinson and then Governor John Martin reflect the status of Kansas during a crucial period of her history.

(Clippings) "Kansas Regiments." Two volumes. Several lengthy studies of the Kansas regiments, namely the Second and the Eighth. Clippings are filed in numerical order.

(Clippings) "Kansas Scrapbook Biography." Approximately two hundred volumes of clippings in alphabetical order. Clippings pertinent to Kansas. The card catalogue gives references to these scrapbooks.

Kansas State Legislature. Journal of Proceedings of the Court of Impeachment Sitting for the Trial of Josiah E. Hayes, Treasurer, Together with the Testimony Taken in New York and a Detailed Statement of Price's Raid Script Paid. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas State Printing Office, 1874. 352 pp.

Contains a list of persons who received payment for claims presented for service against Price in 1864.

Limerick, A. H. Roll of Ex-Soldiers of the Kansas House of Representatives, 1889. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas Publishing House, 1889. 5 pp.

An enrollment of Civil War veterans who served in the 1889 session of the Kansas House of Representatives.

Only a few of the veterans served in Kansas regiments, most of them coming to Kansas after the war.

Logan, Robert R. (comp.). "Addresses at the Dedication of the Prairie Grove Battlefield Monument, December 7, 1956," Arkansas Historical Quarterly, 16: 257-280, Autumn, 1957, maps.

Brief summaries of the battle of Prairie Grove. Includes some statistics. Martin, George W. "Memorial Monuments and Tablets in Kansas," Collections of the Kansas State Historical Society, 11: 253-281, 1909-1910.

Enumerated throughout this article are the more important and historically significant markers that had been erected prior to 1910 concerning Civil War events, places and people.

Martin, John A. "Kansas in the War," A series of papers read before the Kansas Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Talks in Kansas. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson Publishing Company, 1906. 391 pp.

See pages 371-377 for a toast presented at a banquet at Leavenworth, June 24, 1887, on the first anniversary of the Commandery. Generalities and statistics on the war make up this toast.

See Vols, I and III for clippings pertaining to General Martin and the Eighth Kansas regiment. Of more than passing interest.

Meeting of the Pilot Knob Memorial Association on the Fortieth Anniversary of the Battle of Pilot Knob, September 27, 1904. St. Louis: A. R. Fleming Printing Company, 1904. 34 pp. illustrations.

Contains sketches of the battle of Pilot Knob by Colonel David Murphy, Thomas Ewing, Jr., William C. Ewing and Reverend William A. Meloan.

(Clippings and Pamphlets) "Memorial Day Addresses."

Three volumes of clippings and pamphlets containing Memorial Day addresses. Some recollections and references to the Civil War.

[Missouri Counties.]

In the library of the Kansas State Historical Society there are many one-volume and multi-volume histories of Missouri counties. To list them here would be impractical, as it would consume too much space and entail some duplication, for I have already entered the ones which present varied and new information on the Civil War in its relationship to Kansas.

Several of them have been published by the same company and use the same wording, with only the page numbers differing. Others are one or more counties in a single volume with approximately the same information.

For Kansas counties of the same general type, I have entered Anderson and Farley's "A Bibliography of Town and County Histories of Kansas." For Arkansas and Oklahoma counties, I reviewed what few works the library has available and entered them elsewhere.

Muster Out Roll of First Kansas Battery Volunteers. . . . Ottawa, Kansas: Newman Waring Book and Job Printers, 1896. 23 pp.

Contains a roster of officers and men who served in the First Kansas battery, July 24, 1861-July 17, 1865.

Neville, H. Clay. "Wilson's Creek Monument to be Erected to Heroes Who Fell There," Southern Historical Society Papers, 38: 363-372, 1910.

A general summary of the Wilson Creek engagement, with an appeal to support a movement in Congress to make it a national park.

(Clippings) "Personal Narratives of the Civil War."

One volume. Contains clippings from Kansas and other states' newspapers about Kansas soldiers; also veterans who moved here after the war.

Petherbridge, Jesse C. (comp.). Kansas State Militia, 1864. . . . Kansas City: Frank T. Riley Publishing Company, 1907. 33 pp.

This small booklet contains such things as Governor Carney's proclamation calling out the militia, General Curtis' order declaring martial law, correspondence, and bills presented in Congress to provide pensions for members of the militia.

(Clippings) "Quantrill, William C."

Four volumes of miscellaneous clippings referring to the Lawrence massacre and other activities of Quantrill. Taken mainly from papers printed after the date of the event in question.

(Scrapbooks) Samuel J. Reader. 3 vols.

A lengthy collection of miscellaneous clippings in which Reader gives recollections of the war; however, they are in no apparent order.

"Reminiscences of Kansas G.A.R. Vets," Progress in Kansas. March, 1937.

C. A. Griffin of Chanute claimed to be the man responsible for saving the Union Army at Gettysburg, and J. H. Getty reported conditions at Andersonville military prison.

Report of the Kansas Vicksburg National Park Memorial Commission. Topeka, Kansas: Kansas State Printing Plant, 1920. 24 pp.

Contains a brief summary of the battle of Vicksburg and the participation by Kansas troops. Biographical sketches of Governor Charles Robinson and General George Deitzler.

Although her action was limited to guard and picket duty on the periphery, Kansas was credited with service at the battle of Vicksburg. During the fiscal year 1959 there was agitation to erect a monument dedicated to Kansas at the memorial park. Five thousand dollars were appropriated for this purpose and the monument was completed in 1960.

(Clippings) "Reunions of Kansas Soldiers."

Seven volumes of clippings pertaining to reunions of Kansas soldiers, 1881-1914.

(Pamphlets) "Reunions of Kansas Soldiers and Sailors."

One volume and one envelope containing pamphlets and brochures referring to reunions in Topeka and elsewhere.

Reunion Proceedings of the Eighth Kansas Vol. Infantry at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, October 10th, 11th, and 12th, 1883. Atchison: Haskell & Sons, 1883. 8 pp.

A review of the Eighth's service by its colonel, John A. Martin. Also a roster of surviving members.

(Scrapbooks) Ralph Richards. 2 vols. "The Forts of Fort Scott and the Fate-ful Border Land."

A scrapbook of clippings containing a historical column that was printed in the Fort Scott Tribune, January 13, 1941-January 8, 1942. Volume II contains information on the military, political and social events during the Civil War era.

(Rosters) "Rosters of Soldiers Living in Kansas."

Two volumes of rosters, listing veterans living in Kansas, complete with home state.

"Second Regiment Kansas State Militia," Congregational Record, 6: 139-141, December 10, 1864.

An account of the burial of the men from Shawnee county who were killed at the battle of the Blue.

Transactions of the Kansas State Historical Society, 9: 411-412, 1905-1906.

A lengthy footnote concerning the establishment of the Price Raid Commission, its purpose and the amount of money paid on claims to 1872. "Union League of America."

The constitution, by-laws and minutes of the proceedings of the Grand Council of the Union League of America, Kansas chapter, whose purposes were: maintenance of the laws of the United States, suppression of the rebellion and perpetuation of the American liberties.

The Society's library has an envelope containing this material.

U.S. Adjutant General's Office. List of Synonyms of Organizations in the Volunteer Service of the United States During the Years, 1861, '62, '63, '64 and '65. Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1885, 301 pp.

A list of Kansas companies and regiments by their proper designations and a list of the most common names for the same companies.

U.S. Army. Department of Kansas. "General Orders, Headquarters, District of Kansas."

The Society's library has an envelope containing general orders, pertaining to the conduct of the war. They cover a multitude of subjects, such as recruiting, desertion, promotions, reliefs and act of treason. Most of the orders were issued at Fort Leavenworth and Fort Scott.

U.S. Congress, 39th, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Miscellaneous Document no. 63. "Resolution in Favor of an Appropriation to Reimburse the Citizens of Kansas for Money Expended by Them Under the Call for Volunteers of December 19, 1864, and the Draft Resulting Therefrom." (Serial 1239)

Through a miscomputation Kansas was not credited with all the enlistments due her; therefore, she was forced to use conscription to meet her quota for December, 1864.

U.S. Congress, 42nd, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Miscellaneous Document no. 39. "Resolution by the Kansas Legislature Requesting Pay for Certain Negro Officers Who Served in the War." (Serial 1467)

These Negroes were recruited by men with no authority to do so, other than verbal authorization from James Lane, commissioner.

U.S. Congress, 49th, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Bill no. 2146.

A bill introduced by Senator Preston B. Plumb, April 4, 1886, authorizing the Secretary of War to place on file in the War Department the names of the officers and men who served in the Frontier Guard.

U.S. Congress, 51st, 1st Sess. House. House Report no. 889. (Serial 2809)

A report accompanying House bill 8392 for the war claims of William D. Matthews as colonel of the First Kansas Colored regiment, with a statement of his service.

U.S. Congress, 51st, 1st Sess. Senate. Senate Miscellaneous Report no. 337. (Serial 2704)

A report from Senator Stewart, committee on Military Affairs, containing a memorial telling of the muster of the Frontier Guard. Also letters written in appreciation of the service of the Guard by Secretary of War Cameron.

U.S. Congress, 53rd, 3rd Sess. Senate. Senate Bill no. 2372.

A bill by Senator Martin to authorize the Secretary of War to place on file in the War Department the names of the officers and men who served in the Frontier Guard.

Weer, William. Broadside. [n.p.] [n.n.] [n.d.]

A broadside showing Weer's company relieving Colonel Jennison's First Kansas regiment in the protection of the citizens of Kansas City against rebels and marauders.

Official Report of the Battle of Prairie Grove. [n.p] [n.n.] [December 12, 1862] 2 pp.

A report made to Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Moonlight, Chief of Staff, by the commanding officer, Second brigade, First Division, Army of the Frontier, giving names of those who rendered meritorious service and casualty lists.

Woodhull, Alfred A. "Kansas in 1861," A paper read before the Kansas Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, War Talks in Kansas. Kansas City: Franklin Hudson Publishing Company, 1906. 391 pp.

Kansas on the eve of the Civil War. Mention of war scares is found on pages 10-23.

V

PRIMARY SOURCE MATERIAL---MANUSCRIPTS

The most important item for researchers to consult when seeking historical evidence is the primary source. It serves as the keystone or foundation upon which can be constructed the several floors of historical writings. This chapter lists correspondence, diaries, hand written reports, recorded interviews, personal recollections and reminiscences, papers presented to various organizations and the thousand and one pieces of paper that were necessary to keep the Kansas volunteer regiments functioning in a military manner.

The first part of this chapter containing correspondence in the form of letters, telegrams, etc., is arranged alphabetically by the originator or recipient. The small collections are listed individually, while the larger dossiers and those that have been or will be edited are presented collectively.

The primary source material in this chapter will be found in the manuscripts division of the archives department.

CORRESPONDENCE

- Andrews, John A. A letter dated Boston, September 9, 1861, from Governor Andrews of Massachusetts to Governor Charles Robinson, inquiring if Kansas would like to purchase infantry equipment at cost.
- Anthony, Daniel R. Several letters written from many places during the first two years of the war and containing much pertinent information. These letters can also be found in the Kansas Historical Quarterly, Vol. XXIV. See entry under Edgar Langsdorf and Robert Richmond in Chapter II for additional information.
- Ayres, Samuel R. A letter dated Moncka, Linn county, Kansas, November 15, 1861, to Lyman Langdon giving a description of Colonel D. R. Anthony and the Seventh Kansas cavalry. He tells of conditions along the Missouri-Kansas border. During his wartime service, Ayres was chaplain of Colonel Jennison's regiment.
- don, Ayres gives an account of the activities of the Seventh Kansas cavalry around Independence and Harrisonville, Missouri.
- Humboldt, Kansas] February 17, 1862. Ayres tells of Secessionist activities in Missouri and the movement of the Seventh Kansas cavalry in the area. He mentions the possible use of Indian troops in the war and a planned expedition to the Indian Territory.
 - A letter dated Lawrence, April 5, 1862, telling Langdon that the Twelfth and Thirteenth Wisconsin regiments and the First and Seventh Kansas regiments are encamped near Lawrence and the Second Kansas regiment is at Brooklin, eleven miles south. He speaks of the possibility of the regiments proceeding to Santa Fc or towards Tennessee.
- May 6, 1862, that the First, Second and Seventh Kansas regiments and the Twelfth and Thirteenth Wisconsin regiments have moved from Lawrence to Fort Riley. He relates the motives for the move and gives a description of the countryside through which the exodus was made.

Writing from camp at Fort Columbus, Kentucky, June 4, 1862, Ayres describes fortifications in the vicinity. Written from a camp near Union City, Tennessee, June 12, 1862, Ayres' letter mentions that Northern forces in the area are growing in strength. He reports on the treatment of Secessionists in a border state. A letter to Langdon dated Camp Trenton, Gibson county, Tennessee, June 24, 1862, telling of the activities of the Secessionists. He describes the condition of the country around Trenton. A letter to Lyman Langdon, February 18, 1863, delineating the effect of the war on the area. A letter to Langdon dated Moneka, June 1, 1863, describing bushwhacking and guerrilla forces from Missouri and the havoc created by them in southeastern Kansas. Ayres writes Lyman Langdon from Moneka, August 24, 1863, remarking on the critical position of General James G. Blunt in Arkansas and commenting on the Quantrill raid on Lawrence. He gives an account of other developments in the border war.

£

5

A letter to Langdon, July 6, 1864, from a camp near Lawrence.

He discloses that little protection is afforded Kansas from the enemy and also comments on the progress of the war.

Ayres was acting surgeon of the First Colorado battery at this time.

- Baker, Rinaldo. A letter dated Atchison, October 2, 1862, addressed to General John Halderman suggesting that he be appointed colonel of the Thirteenth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Beates, G. E. A letter to W. S. Blakely dated Cane Hill, Arkansas, December 3, 1862, praising Kansas officers at the battle of Cane Hill—particularly General James Blunt, William Cloud and Samuel J. Crawford.

Beates congratulates Blakely on the success of the Union ticket in Davis [Geary] county, Kansas.

Blunt, James G. A letter to J. M. Thayer, Department of Arkansas, dated Paola, December 8, 1864, stating that he has learned unofficially that Colonel C. R. Jennison and his men have committed acts of vandalism on their march through Burton and Washington counties, Arkansas. Blunt declares that he did not sanction these deeds and that they are being investigated.

Colonel Jennison was later cashicred from his regiment for his part in the jayhawking activities.

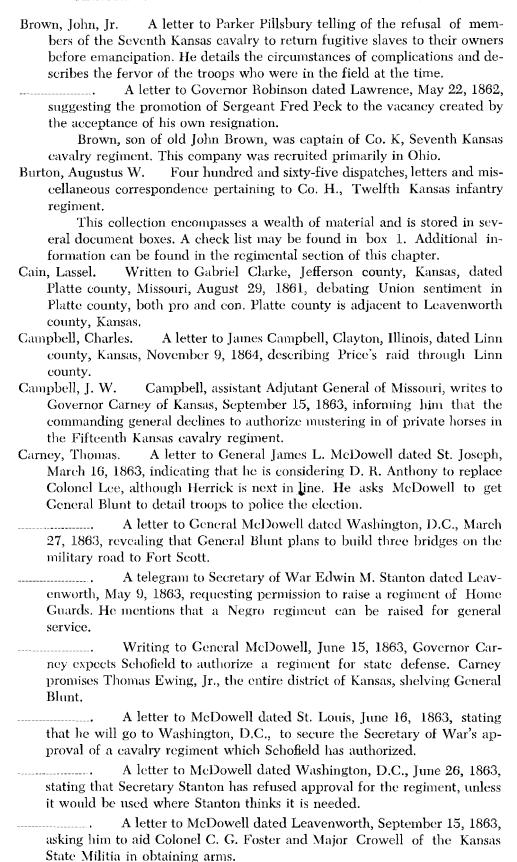

Bond, David P. Typed copies of seven letters written to Rolland S. H. Mantor, October 14, 1861-January 29, 1863, while serving as a member of Co. A, Fifth Kansas infantry regiment.

These letters have been edited by Raymond Settle and may appear later in the Kansas Historical Quarterly.

Brinsmaid, George B. Eleven letters written to his father and mother from May 17, 1862, to April 27, 1863. They were written from Alton, Illinois, Memphis, Tennessee, Young's Point, Louisiana and places in Mississippi.

It is not definite that Brinsmaid served in a Kansas unit.

Brown, George W. A letter to Mrs. Sara T. D. Robinson dated Rockford, Illinois, December 17, 1903, giving recollections of Quantrill and his guerrillas.

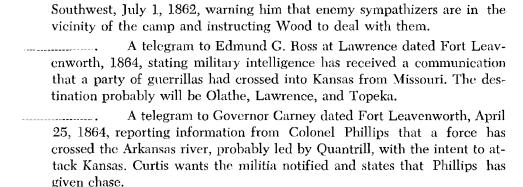

- A letter to McDowell dated St. Joseph, September 24, 1863, stating that he has talked to Bailey of the Leavenworth Times about giving Harvey Lowman part proprietorship and full editorial control; in return Bailey would become a major in the Fifteenth Kansas regiment.
- A letter to Secretary of War Stanton dated Leavenworth, November 16, 1863, denying charges made by General James Blunt concerning the election of officers of the Fourteenth Kansas regiment held November 4, 1863.

=

Ţ

- A letter to McDowell dated Leavenworth, March 14, 1864, stating that he is trying to secure the resignation of Colonel Price.
- Carney, Thomas, Jr. A telegram to Thomas Carney, Sr., dated Kansas City, November 12, 1863, concerning military matters of the Fourteenth Kansas regiment.
- Chadwick, Charles. A letter to General John A. Halderman dated September 22, 1862, stating that he does not think the militia will organize, as it failed signally in 1861; from over two hundred commissioned companies organized since 1861, he does not feel ten are in ready condition.
- 4, 1865, explaining that the courts were not in session the preceding autumn because of Price's activities, making comments on damage done to the railroads and the mustering of the Kansas Militia.
- Chase, Charles M. Typed copies of letters from Chase to the Sycamore [Illinois] True Republican and Sentinel dated August 7-29, 1863. These letters were written from Kansas and Missouri, as journalist Chase made a tour through those states with General Edward Russell. He writes of the muster of the militia, effects of the war, bushwhacking, jayhawking and Quantrill.
 - These letters were edited by Lela Barnes of the Society's staff and appeared in the Kansas Historical Quarterly, Summer, 1960.
- Clayton, Powell. A letter to General John Halderman dated Pine Bluff, Arkansas, October 21, 1864, stating that he thinks Magruder's forces at Monticello are there to distract attention from General Price's movements in Missouri. He maintains slavery must die, for it is too late for conciliation. He considers Sherman the greatest general in America.
- Collamore, George W. A letter to George L. Stearns dated July 21, 1862, relating to rumors about organizing colored troops.
- Cory, Charles E. Three letters written to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, dated Fort Scott, March 21, and April 4 and 13, 1910, giving information supplemental to his article on the Sixth Kansas cavalry, which appeared in the Kansas Historical Collections, Vol. XI, pp. 217-238.
- Crawford, Samuel J. A letter to S. A. Riggs dated Baxter Springs, Kansas, September 11, 1905, expressing his opinion that the reunion of Quantrill's gang should not be permitted.
- Curtis, Samuel R. A letter to Colonel S. N. Wood dated Headquarters of the

- A telegram to Governor Carney dated Fort Leavenworth, April 26, 1864, reporting that Colonel Phillips has started operations against Quantrill, and the rebels have retreated across the Arkansas river. Curtis urges the mounting of an Indian brigade.
- 7, 1864, stating that he has been authorized to issue arms and ammunition to the militia to forestall the danger of bushwhackers and Indians.
- Dawson, B. F. A letter written to the commanding officer of the Second Kansas Militia dated October 22, 1864, giving a brief report of the battle of the Blue.
- Deane, George W. A letter to the commanding officer of the Lawrence forces, dated Camp Briggs, New Lancaster, Miami county, Kansas, August 26, 1861, asking cooperation in clearing the border of "Rebel forces" and stating the need for artillery.
- Deitzler, George W. A letter to Governor Charles Robinson dated Lawrence, April 16, 1861, suggesting that the governor telegraph President Lincoln that Kansas will furnish one thousand or more troops and not to sue for peace until the "disease is cured."
- Covernor Charles Robinson dated September 6, 1861, recommending John A. Halderman for a position as colonel in one of the new regiments being raised for the war. It contains the names of other officers of the First Kansas infantry who signed the original document.
- Dodds, John F. A letter written to S. N. Wood dated Kiowa, Kansas, May 10, 1864, relative to a rumor of an invasion of southwest Kansas by Texans.
- Dodge, Mrs. Grenville M. A letter written to Mrs. S. N. Wood, dated St. Louis, March 3, 1862, relating an incident in which Mrs. Dodge's colored maid was seized and taken to a slave yard. Mrs. Dodge was the wife of General Grenville Dodge.
- Douglass, Lewis H. A letter written to R. J. Hinton, May 1, 1895, relative to pay received by Negro troops during the Civil War.
- Drenning, Frank H. A letter written to General Halderman dated Elwood, October 13, 1862, concerning the progress of the Doniphan county militia. He states that there will be ten or twelve companies of infantry and three or four companies of cavalry.
- Drought, E. S. W. A letter to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, September 8, 1911, pointing out errors in several articles in Vol. XI, Kansas Historical Collections, particularly in "War Incidents in Kansas City."

- Earl, George F. A letter written to Governor Robinson dated Lawrence, August 26, 1861, tendering the service of the Kansas Union Greys as part of a regiment of Home Guards summoned by General Order No. 9.
- Emmons, L. W. A letter to S. H. Fairchild dated Detroit, Michigan, March 19, 1904, recounting his experiences as a member of Co. L, Eleventh Kansas cavalry.
- Ewing, Thomas. A letter to Lieutenant Edmund Ross, recruiting officer, dated headquarters, Recruiting Commissioner, Leavenworth, August 12, 1862, authorizing him to open an office for recruits for the Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment and giving him an allowance for recruits.

Ţ

٤

=

- A letter from James Lane, Commissioner of Recruiting, U. S. Army, Department of Kansas, dated September 15, 1862, notifying him of his appointment as colonel of the Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment.
- A letter to Captain E. G. Ross dated Little Osage, Arkansas, November 13, 1862, ordering him to send regimental support and wagons then located at Brown's Mill, Arkansas, to the main camp. The command was to march southwest on the Talequeah Road.
- gust 26 and 27, 1863, pertaining to the issuing of arms and also requesting that he exert influence to prevent a raid into Missouri.
- . A telegram to Captain Ross dated Kansas City, Missouri, December 28, 1863, authorizing him to send sections of the post battery to Fort Scott via Paola.
- Fisher, Hugh D. An extensive collection of correspondence pertaining to Fisher's career as chaplain of the Fifth Kansas cavalry.
- Fisher, John W. A letter to J. K. Rankin dated Lawrence, July 28, 1913, relating his experiences during the Quantrill raid.
- Fox, Simeon M. Seven letters to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, December, 1908, regarding his paper "The Seventh Kansas" to be published in the Sixteenth Biennial Report of the Society. Therein is contained additional matter for his monograph.
- A letter to George Martin, January 11, 1910, replying to his inquiry about pay for the early Kansas regiments and the furnishing of necessities to soldiers' families by Governor Carney.
- A letter to William E. Connelley, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, dated Manhattan, March 5, 1926, concerning the overt act of Daniel R. Anthony, which resulted in his arrest June, 1862. Anthony, who was in Tennessee at the time, issued a general order by which he would punish any man who apprehended and returned fugitive slaves.
- Three letters to secretary Connelley dated March 8, April 9, 1926, and November 30, 1929, containing additional information on the Seventh cavalry.
- Francis, John. A letter dated December, 1905, containing statements concerning Colonel James Montgomery and the Third, Fourth and Fifth Kansas regiments and their wartime service.
- Gleed, Charles S. A letter to secretary George Martin, dated October 18, 1906, enclosing a roll containing the names of ninty-three of Quantrill's outlaws. The roll is dated Headquarters, Central Division, Jefferson City, Missouri, July 16, 1862.
- Greene, Albert R. A letter to secretary George Martin, May 21, 1906, enclosing a letter of J. K. Rankin, Flathead agency, Montana, May 16, 1906,

- pertaining to the service of the First and Second Kansas regiments at the battle of Wilson's Creek.
- . A letter to secretary George Martin dated Stevenson, Washington, September 11, 1911, relating to experiences of the Ninth Kansas cavalry in a blizzard, January 1, 1864, while marching from northwest Arkansas to Fort Scott.
- Grover, George S. A letter to Colonel R. J. Hinton dated St. Louis, April 5, 1897, stating his opinion that General Curtis and his command had not been given the credit due them for gallant and arduous service at the battle of Mine Creek.
- Hadley, J. M. A letter written to the commanding officers of stations along the Kansas border and in Missouri directing them to give escort to Brigadier General Guilford Dudley, Adjutant General of Kansas. This letter was dated Kansas City, December 7, 1863.
- A letter dated headquarters, District of the Border, Kansas City, September 7, 1863, to Colonel Francis B. Swift of the Douglas County Militia, stating that a company of infantry and a section of artillery will be sent to reinforce Lawrence.
- Hadley, Z. M. A telegram to Edmund G. Ross at Lawrence from Kansas City, 1864, stating that guerrillas had crossed the border and were moving toward Olathe.
- Halderman, John A. A letter written to General B. M. Prentiss dated Camp Prentiss, Chillicothe, Missouri, October 13, 1861, stating that he has conferred with Kansas military authorities on the defense of the state and the city of St. Joseph. Halderman writes that he thinks there is no danger of an invasion at that time, but, if needed, 2,000 troops could be raised, in addition to a well-armed militia.
- Department of Missouri, dated St. Louis, November 6, 1862, forwarding a request from Governor Robinson asking authority to arm the militia to protect the eastern border. Halderman adds his own appeal.
- Headquarters, November 17, 1862, Northern Division, Kansas State Militia, requisitioning five hundred men from the Northern Division for the defense of northern Kansas. This request was ordered by the governor.
- Hardie, James A. A telegram to Governor Carney dated Washington, D. C., August 29, 1863, stating that arms and ammunition have been ordered to Fort Leavenworth and will be delivered on the governor's petition for armed troops.
- Harvey, James M. Collection of 163 manuscripts containing letters, reports and twenty-eight muster rolls dealing with Captain Harvey's unit, Co. G, Tenth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Haywood, Fred L. A letter written to his sister Loesa, April 6, 1863, stating that there was a woman sergeant in the First Kansas infantry regiment. There is also correspondence concerning this myth from Lucy M. Clark, department of English at Nebraska State Teachers College, Chadron.
- Hetner, James. A letter dated June 25, 1861, to Major J. A. Halderman at Camp Lincoln advising him to submit corrected morning reports of the regiment, the First Kansas infantry.
- Hoyt, George H. A letter written to Governor Robinson dated Leavenworth, August 12, 1862, disclosing that James Lane has given Colonel Jennison

- authority to raise a colored regiment with no conditions attached.
- Huddleston, E., Captain. In a letter written in 1862 Captain Huddleston gives reminiscences on the battle of Great Mound, Missouri, fought October 26, 1862.
- Huntoon, Andrew J. Thirty letters written to his wife while he was serving as a surgeon in the Fifth Kansas infantry regiment. He was mustered out in 1863 due to ill health.
- Ingalls, John J. A letter written January 2, 1862, dated Atchison, addressed to his brother, expressing his personal view on Colonel Jennison's regiment. Ingalls anticipated peace for Missouri.

Ç

- Isley, Christian H. A letter to his brother Henry, dated Fort Lincoln, May 4, 1863, giving a description of the fortifications and movements of Co. F, Second Kansas Volunteer regiment.
- Jennison, Charles R. A letter to G. L. Stearns dated April 21, 1862, relating that he has been incarcerated at St. Louis for no apparent reason by General Sturgis.
- 1862, stating that the pro-Lane sentiment in southern Kansas is a great humbug. Jennison reiterates that he prefers Kansas officers for Kansas troops.
- Judson, William R. A telegram to Governor Carney dated Fort Smith, Arkansas, April 6, 1864, urging appointment of Captain Harvey as a major in the Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment.
- Lane, James H. A letter written to George Weed dated Camp Mitchell, October 5, 1861, notifying him of his appointment as ordnance sergeant; therefore, he is to take all ordnance stores into his custody and protect them from theft and damage.
- A circular letter written to the commanding officers of batteries and companies in his command, November 2, 1861, telling them to make sure their units are properly prepared for war and to be ready to fight, to the last man.
- E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, April 6, 1862, protesting against payments of money due Kansas for expenses in organizing volunteer troops.
- Leland, Cyrus, Jr. Fifty-two manuscripts written from points in Kansas and Missouri while Leland was serving as an officer in Co. F, Tenth Kansas infantry regiment. Forty-eight letters addressed to his mother and four to his brother, Howard.
- Leonard, Henry B. A letter written to Alex Case dated Kansas City, February 4, 1915, refuting Case's theory that Sallie Young had any previous knowledge of Quantrill's raid.
- Love, James E. Five letters to his wife Molly giving details of the movement of troops from Camp Hunter, Linn county, to Aubrey, Johnson county, 1862. Microfilm copies.
 - Love was a member of Co. K, Eighth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Lowman, E. S. A letter to Governor Robinson dated Paola, August 13, 1861, telling that by the time of his arrival in Olathe the confusion and alarm had been quieted. He states that jayhawking activities had been carried on on both sides of the border.
- McCartney, Robert K. A letter written to Edward dated March 16, 1897, giving information about Quantrill's massacre.

Mantor, Rowland S. H. Fifty-four pages of copies of letters from Mantor to his parents, September 21, 1862-December 30, 1863. Mantor was a member of Co. I, Second Kansas cavalry regiment. Written without bitterness, Mantor reflects on the progress of the war in Kansas, Missouri, and Arkansas in a manner not unlike a war correspondent.

These letters have been edited by Raymond Settle and may appear later in the Kansas Historical Quarterly.

- Martin, John A. A letter to T. W. Morrison dated Chattanooga, Tennessee, September 28, 1863, reporting on the action of the Third Brigade crossing the Tennessee river and the engagements of the 19th and 20th of September. Included is a report of the killed, wounded and missing, along with the pre-battle strength of the brigade. Martin served as colonel of the Eighth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Three letters written to John J. Ingalls dated October 8, 1863, and November 6, 1863, telling of his war experiences.
- Mills, Theodore B. A letter written to G. G. Gage dated June 14, 1895, giving an account of his participation in the battle of the Blue. Longfellow's poem, "Sleep Comrades" appears as a salute to departed friends.
- Montgomery, James. A letter written to George Stearns dated Mound City, May 8, 1861, asking for two breech loading guns for Lawrence. Montgomery had accepted a position on Governor Robinson's staff and approved the policy of protecting southern Kansas.
- A letter to George Stearns dated Lawrence, June 21, 1861, informing him that he was going to Missouri to protect Union men.
- A letter to George Stearns dated Mound City, June 27, 1861, giving plans for organizing a Union regiment in Missouri and Kansas.
- A letter to George Stearns dated Balls Mill, Missouri, July 5, 1861, telling of the capture of prisoners.
- A letter to Governor Robinson dated Mound City, August 3, 1862, wanting a commission as colonel of a Negro regiment being formed in Kansas City. Montgomery felt that Jennison would not be a good leader.
- A letter to George Stearns dated Beaufort, South Carolina, April 25, 1863, telling of the drafting of Negroes in his regiment for an expedition to Florida.
- Carolina, January 22, 1864, concerning the use of colored men as soldiers.
- A letter to George Stearns dated Mound City, December 10, 1864, reporting that he was home on sick leave. Montgomery tells of his service under General Curtis in the Price raid and the battle of Westport, Missouri. He also suggests the young men of Kansas City should enlist en masse.
- Morrill, John. A group of fifty-one letters written March 10, 1865, to December 10, 1865, to his wife and children at Hixton, Wisconsin. These letters were written by Morrill while he was in Kansas as a part of the Forty-Eighth Wisconsin Volunteers near Olathe and Fort Larned.
- Nelson, William. A letter to Kate Newland dated Fort Riley, June 1, 1862, telling her that he was at Fort Riley, but desired to serve the Union elsewhere. Nelson was a member of Co. I, Second Kansas cavalry regiment.
- Peterson, C. A. A letter written to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, dated June 27, 1904, concerning an incident dur-

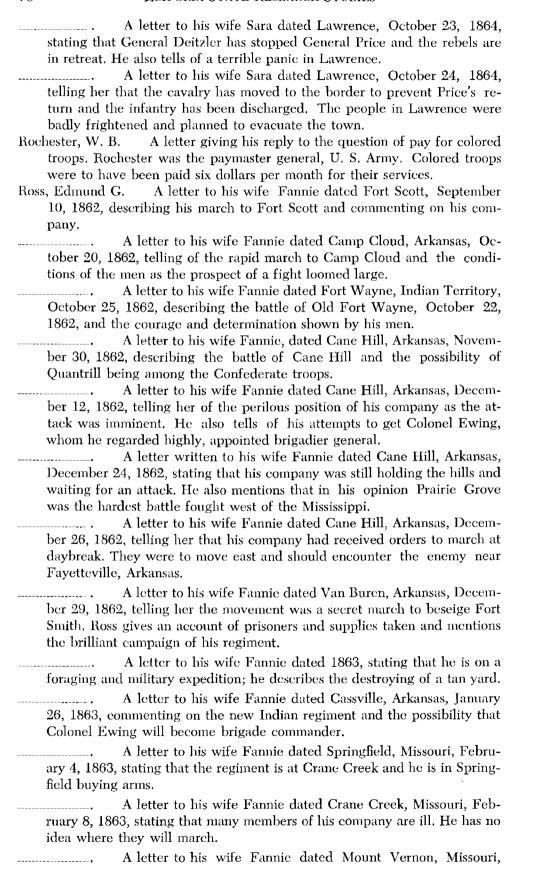

- ing the Price raid in which an unidentified man helped a detachment of Confederate troops enter Fort Scott; he was later hanged for treason.
- Phillips, William A. A letter dated Fort Gibson, Cherokee Territory, January 30, 1864, pointing out that destroying the rebels is paramount.
- A letter to Brig. Gen. Cyrus Bussey dated Fort Gibson, Cherokee Territory, April 25, 1865, telling of the theft of Indian cattle by Texans. He requests a cavalry detachment to apprehend the poachers.

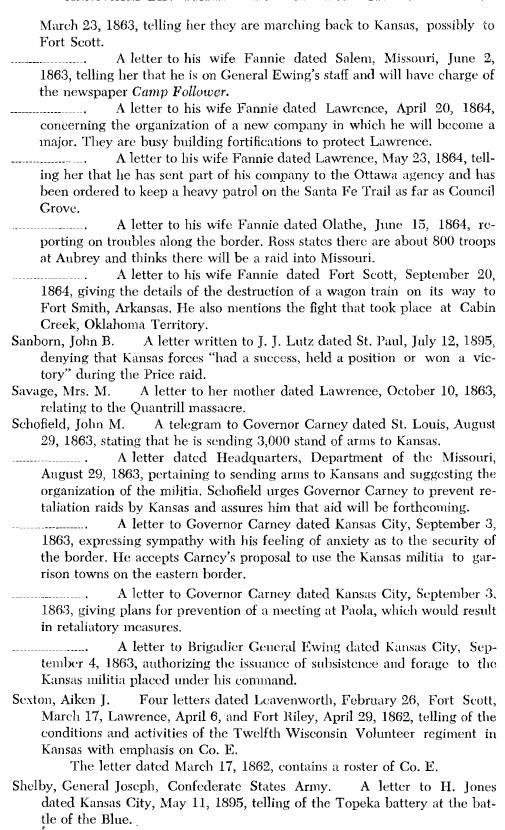

=

- Phillips was one of the early founders of Salina.
- Pierce, A.C. A letter written to William Blakely dated Cane Hill, Arkansas, December 10, 1862, reporting on the battle of Prairie Grove.
- Pike, Joshua A. A letter to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society dated Lansing, November 14, 1904, telling of tendering his service as a bodyguard to Governor Robinson; later Pike joined the Eighth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Historical Society, dated Florence, July 26, 1917, stating that there were no troops stationed at Aubrey, Johnson county, until after the Quantrill massacre.
- Pomeroy, Samuel. A letter to Governor Carney dated Washington, D.C., January 4, 1864, stating that James Lane, Dole, Smith and himself had received the order for two Indian regiments and officers for the brigade.
- Prentiss, Benjamin M. A letter to Major John Halderman dated October 2, 1861, directing him to proceed to Topeka and interview Governor Robinson relative to obtaining additional troops for the defense of Leavenworth and St. Joseph. This letter was sent from Brigade Headquarters, Chillicothe, Missouri.
- Prentiss, Louisa. A letter to "Dear Friend" dated August 26, 1863, concerning her experiences during the Quantrill raid.
- Rankin, John K. A letter to A. R. Greene dated May 16, 1906, concerning the battle of Wilson's Creek. Rankin wanted Greene to change certain statements in his article on the Wilson Creek campaign.
- Reader, Samuel J. Extracts of letters written to his family during the war years are found in his diaries and in the Kansas Historical Quarterly, Vol. IX. The whereabouts of the original letters is unknown.
- Reynolds, Charles. A letter written to his mother dated August 27, 1863, describing the experiences of his wife and neighbors in the Quantrill raid.
- Riggs, Joseph. A letter written to Samuel and Kate dated Portsmouth, September 7, 1863, anxiously awaiting word of their welfare and stating his desire that Quantrill's gang be captured.
- Ripley, James W. A telegram to Major John Halderman dated Washington, D.C., June 5, 1861, informing him that Captain Reno had furnished the government of Kansas with enough arms for two full regiments. Ripley was a lieutenant colonel in the ordnance department, United States Army.
- Ritchie, John. A letter written to Colonel James Montgomery dated November 24, 1861, describing the war in Missouri.
- A letter to W. H. Lawrence dated Fort Scott, August 24, 1863, relative to a rebel flag being taken by the Second Indian regiment at the battle of Shirley's Ford on the Spring river in Missouri, September 20, 1862.
- A letter to John Foreman, commander of the Third Indian regiment, dated Headquarters, First Brigade, Army of the Frontier, Camp

Dale, October 30, 1863, requesting a prisoner that Foreman held in custody. Ritchie, the colonel of the Second Indian regiment, describes the escape of the soldier from General Stand Watie's forces.

Rob	inson, Charles. A letter writen to his wife Sara dated June 17, 1861, telling that he is engaged in getting troops ready for service. Robinson states that Missouri needs to be taught a lesson.
	A letter written to General James Blood dated August 24, 1861, suggesting that Blood apply to Colonel Montgomery, the ranking Kansas officer, to find out if the defense of Kansas requires the dislodging of forces in Missouri.
	. A letter written to Major General John C. Fremont dated September 1, 1861, stating that Kansas is in no danger of invasion from Missouri until Governor Jackson is reinstated in Missouri. This is also contingent on the removal of the government stores from Fort Scott to Fort Leavenworth and the withdrawal of Lane's brigade from the border.
	A letter to General James Blood dated Lawrence, September 2, 1861, stating that the Home Guard is adequate protection from invasion, and he does not feel authorized to keep the state militia in the field unless at some time the two regiments prove insufficient to protect Kansas.
	A letter to his wife Sara dated Washington, D.C., April 14, 1862, commenting on the appointment of General Blunt. He felt it was an insult to George Deitzler and the Kansas troops.
	A letter to Major General John Halderman dated Headquarters, Kansas State Militia, Lawrence, December 5, 1862, stating that he could give no order to Halderman and General Blood opposing General Curtiss' authority to subsist 1000 men until officially notified that the Secretary of War disapproved.
	A letter to Amos Lawrence dated October 5, 1863, stating that he lost $1,500.00 in the Quantrill raid. He also relates that Lawrence is rising from the ashes. Governor Robinson saw this destruction while hiding in a barn.
	A letter to Amos Lawrence dated Lawrence, October 6, 1863, telling of requisitions for Kansas troops during his administration as governor. Robinson also thought that General Lane and Quantrill were in collusion on the raid through a third party.
	A letter to his wife Sara dated Lawrence, April 3, 1864, stating the amount of supplies he furnished the Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment during the two weeks it camped at Lawrence.
	A letter to his wife Sara dated Lawrence, October 9, 1864, stating, " the Rebels are in Missouri and they are headed for Kansas." General Deitzler, who will probably command the state militia which has been ordered to duty, wanted Robinson as Assistant Adjutant General on his staff.
	A letter to his wife Sara dated Shawnee, October 16, 1864, telling her he is on General Deitzler's staff, which is defending the border. He mentions that all business has ceased and everybody is forced into the army. Robinson also states that Price's forces have not been encountered, and many people suspect that the calling of the militia is a political trick of Senator Lane and General Curtis.

A statement made to William E. Connelley, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, September 19, 1908, expressing a poor

- opinion of General Price's military ability, but admiring his private character.
- Simpson Brothers. A letter to Hiram Hill dated Lawrence, August 31, 1863, describing the raid on the Simpson home in Lawrence.
- Simpson, H. M. A letter to Hiram Hill dated Lawrence, September 7, 1863, giving names of some of the citizens who died during the Quantrill raid and listing the businesses that were destroyed.
- Stafford, Lewis. Sixty-seven letters written to Kate Newland between March 26, 1861, and January 24, 1863, dated Grasshopper Falls, Leavenworth, and other points, dealing with his wartime service.
 - Stafford, a lieutenant and later a captain in the First Kansas infantry regiment, was accidentally killed January 31, 1863, at Youngs Point, Louisiana.
- Stanton, Edwin M. A dispatch to Senator James Lane dated August 23, 1862, relative to the commissioning of certain officers for a regiment now being raised by the recruiting service.
- . A letter to Thomas Ewing, Jr., dated Washington, D.C., November 5, 1862, notifying him of his appointment as colonel of the Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment.
- Stearns, Mrs. Mary E. A letter to R. J. Hinton, February 18, 1895, stating that she wishes to give him information relative to the recruiting of Negro soldiers by her husband.
- A letter to R. J. Hinton dated April 12, 1895, concerning the payment of Negro troops during the rebellion.
- Stover, Elias S. A letter to William Blakely dated Camp Blair, Kansas, March 25, 1862, relating his participation in a fight between troops of the Second Kansas cavalry and Quantrill with twenty of his men at David Tate's farm, March 22, 1862.
- Talbott, Joseph H. A letter to S. J. Reader dated Atchison, December 12, 1901, giving personal recollections of William C. Quantrill and his family.
- Trego, Joseph H. Thirty-one letters written during 1861-1865, telling of his Civil War experiences. Trego was a lieutenant in the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment.
 - These letters have been edited by Edgar Langsdorf and appear in Vol. XIX, Kansas Historical Quarterly. See Langsdorf, listed in Chapter II.
- Vincent, T. M. A telegram to Governor Carney dated Washington, D.C., May 11, 1863, stating that authority to raise Home Guards is not granted, and no more Negro regiments are desired at present.
- A letter to the commanding officer of the Second Kansas cavalry regiment dated Washington, D.C., June 22, 1863, telling him that the court martial of Captain Bryan P. Ayers has been approved by the Secretary of War. Vincent was Assistant Adjutant General.
- Walcutt, Charles C. A letter to Society secretary George Martin from Washington, D.C., enclosing a list of scouts who served under Captain William S. Tough in Arkansas.
- Ward, Allen T. A letter written to his sister Mrs. S. T. Roberts dated Paola, October 21, 1861, telling of the war and current circumstances such as the plight of the citizens of the border counties and jayhawking.
- Weed, T. J. A letter written to Governor Robinson, dated Leavenworth, October 4, 1862, enclosing a roster of field, staff and company officers of the - Eleventh and Thirteenth Kansas Volunteers with the request that they be commissioned.

- Weer, Colonel William. A letter to Major O. D. Greene, Assistant Adjutant General, Department of the Missouri, dated Alton, Illinois, March 5, 1864, reporting on the high incidence of absenteeism in his regiment and seeking permission to order certain men back to their commands. Weer also comments on the Indian regiments.
- Department of the Missouri, dated Alton, Illinois, March 5, 1864, relating to the state of the Tenth Kansas infantry regiment.
- Wessells, Henry W. A letter to Governor Robinson dated Fort Riley, August 29, 1861, proffering his services as an officer in the Home Guards. He maintains that the New Mexico expedition should commence at once.
- Whitaker, James B. A letter to Jennie dated Shawnee Town, October 14, 1864, telling that he arrived that morning and Governor Carney is present with 5,000 troops. News is that General Price has gone southwest and General Shelby is coming this way, but General Blunt has gone to meet him. Whitaker was a member of Co. A, Second regiment, Kansas State Militia.
- October 21, 1864, reporting the message that General Blunt has been whipped and the cavalry has been ordered to Hickman's Mill, Missouri, but the infantry will remain. There is much dissatisfaction and many men are leaving the camp.
- Williams, James M. A report made in letter form to Colonel William A. Phillips, dated Fort Blunt, Cherokee Nation, July, 1863, giving an account of the incidents that prevailed during the march of his command from Baxter Springs, Kansas. These events formulated the battle of Cabin Creek.
- Williams, Johnson S. A letter to George Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, dated November 28, 1908, stating that he met Charles Hart in Arkansas about 1865. Hart, alias Quantrill, commanded Marmaduke's rear guard at Cane Hill.
- Wilson, Robert. A letter to Governor Robinson dated April 22, 1861, forwarding a petition from a Leavenworth delegation for the appointment of J. C. Stone of Leavenworth as major general of the Northern Division, Kansas State Militia, and John D. Crafton of Leavenworth as quartermaster general on the staff of the commander in chief.
- Wood, Samuel N. An extensive collection of correspondence and miscellaneous papers, pertaining to Wood's military career 1861-1864.

3

- Wood was a captain in Co. I, Second Kansas cavalry regiment and later transferred to the Sixth Missouri cavalry regiment.
- Worthington, Samuel. A letter to his family, dated October 10, 1862, telling them that he is at Camp Scott near Fort Scott. Worthington was a private in Co. A, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment, and served as a dispatch bearer and clerk at headquarters.
- A letter to his sister Sarah dated October 20, 1862, telling that his regiment is camped on the battlefield of Pea Ridge.

- A letter to Enos dated Pea Ridge battlefield, October 20, 1862, mentioning that Union strength is set at 35,000 to 45,000 men, and Rebel strength is unknown. Generals Blunt and Cloud are on hand, and Lane is expected.
- A letter to his family dated Benton county, Arkansas, November 7, 1862, telling of the strong Union sentiment that was found there.
 - A letter to his sister Sarah dated Fayetteville, December 16, 1862, telling of the battle of Prairie Grove; he was not a participant, but did help to nurse the wounded.
- A letter to his father dated October 12, 1864, Fort Riley, telling that the troops are being prepared to make a forced march east to meet General Price's advance.
- A letter written to his father dated Paola, October 27, 1864, telling him that he has returned from the front and was in five cavalry charges in one day—once with the Wisconsin Volunteers and also with the Seventh Kansas cavalry when General Marmaduke was captured.
- Young, Mrs. Della. A letter to William Connelley, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, concerning two soldiers of the Fifteenth Kansas regiment who were scalped near Fort Zarah, Kansas.

DIARIES

- Bodwell, Sherman. Diaries and memoranda kept by Bodwell while he was serving with Co. H, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment. Six volumes: one notebook containing poetry and muster information and five diaries containing autobiographical information dated 1861; September, 1862-April, 1863; April, 1863-November, 1863; November, 1863-November, 1864; and December, 1864-September, 1865. 6 vols.
- Bondi, August. Typed copies of his diaries 1861-1864 which record his war activities in southeast Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas. Bondi served in the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment. 2 vols.
- Braden, David R. One hundred-four typed pages covering these periods: January 1-May 30, 1864; June 1-April 15, 1865; and May 1, 1865-December 30, 1866. The 1864-1865 entries concern Braden's service as a private and sergeant in the Ninth Kansas cavalry. 3 vols.
- Crietz, William F. Diary and roster of Co. A, Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment, covering the period from July 16, 1861-July 16, 1864. 1 vol.
- Keller, S. B. Four diaries covering the years 1861-1864. Keller served with the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment. 4 vols.
- Parks, R. C. A diary covering the period from November 10, 1862-March 28, 1863, during which time the author served with the First Cherokee regiment in the Indian Territory. It contains copies of general and local orders, 1 vol.
- Pennoek, Isaac B. Original and typed copy of a diary covering the period May 8-September 28, 1865. Pennock was a member of Co. I, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment which fought against the Indians in Nebraska and Wyoming Territories. 1 vol.
- Pomeroy, Fletcher. Three hundred-eighteen page diary of the quartermaster sergeant, Seventh Kansas cavalry, 1861-1865. 1 vol.
- Reader, Samuel J. Diaries covering the war years in Kansas. Of particular interest is volume VI, which includes the time of the Price raid. Original colored illustrations and sketches add to usefulness of the diaries. Two volumes, numbered V and VI, deal with the war.

Williams, John S. Williams was a member of Co. B, Thirteenth Kansas infantry regiment; this diary is a record of his war experiences. 1 vol.

MISCELLANEOUS MANUSCRIPTS

Bennett, Lyman G. "Plat Book on the Route of the Army of the Southwest Commanded by Major General Samuel R. Curtis from Fayetteville to Helena, 1862."

Contains plates and portraits.

- Blunt, James G. A report written to Captains Tholen and Lorring giving a vivid description of the Baxter Springs massacre and alluding to his loathing for Quantrill. This report was written shortly after the massacre, which occurred October 7, 1863. 6 pp.
- Bonebrake, Parkinson I. "Reminiscences of the Battle of the Blue."

 Personal recollections of the battle of the Blue by a member of the First Kansas infantry regiment. 3 pp.
- Campbell, A. H. A copy of an interview by C. E. Cory, January 15, 1908, dealing with such diverse topics as the formation of the Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment, the threatened burning of Fort Scott in September, 1861, the battle of Cane Hill, Arkansas, and the death of Colonel L. R. Jewell. 6 pp.
- Childers, Archer S. "Recitals and Reminiscences."

 Typed copy of an account of the activities of the Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment during the Price raid. It was later published in the National Tribune, Washington, D. C. The author served in Co. C, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment. 8 pp.
- Cloud, William F. "History of the Second Kansas Infantry."

A sketch written in longhand of the Second Kansas infantry regiment. Probably written before the end of the war by the commanding officer. 10 pp.

- Connelley, William E. A statement made at Kansas City, September 19, 1908, regarding his interview with Jo Shelby, Confederate States Army. Shelby told of pre-Civil War raids into Kansas and discoursed on Quantrill, Sterling Price, John Brown, et al. 4 pp.
- tanglements on the border. These narratives were collected by Connelley and written by the following persons: Mrs. Laura M. Anderson, William Brown, C. W. Cheney, William Crutchfield, James Donnelly, James Faron, Charles Hoyt, George Leis, H. B. Leonard, O. D. Rickens, Jesse Pearson and Oscar Richards.
- Cory, Charles E. A portion of a speech delivered at Pleasanton, Kansas, May 30, 1904. A segment of it deals with a meeting between Cory and General Jo Shelby, Confederate States Army. 2 pp.
- Cracklin, Joseph. "A War Reminiscence. 'By Old Cap.'"

 A personal narrative of Springfield, Missouri, and the battle of Wilson's Creek. Cracklin was the commanding officer of Co. D, Second Kansas infantry regiment.
- Crane, David O. A pen and ink drawing of the Wilson Creek battleground, as it appeared August 10, 1861. Crane was a member of the Second Kansas regiment.

Creitz, William F. History and roster of Co. A, Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment. Gives information on several minor battles, along with the major campaigns in Arkansas. 28 pp.

Cripe, Mrs. D. H. "Incidents of the Civil War."

Sidelights of the battle of Drywood, which took place on the road between Fort Scott and Nevada, Missouri. The conflict occurred in front of Mrs. Cripe's father's home. 7 pp.

Curtis, Samuel R. "Campaign Book, Army of the Border, October and November, 1864."

Written in longhand, this book describes primarily the checking of the Kansas invasion by General Sterling Price. A bound volume written in January, 1865. 107 pp. maps.

Dugdale, B. I. "Recollections of the Baxter Springs Massacre by a Member of Co. H, Third Wisconsin Volunteers."

Dugdale acted as headquarters clork for the regiment that served General James Blunt as bodyguard. This paper presents a distinctive approach to the massacre and makes manifest both the courage and cowardice displayed by the participants. 7 pp.

Gage, George G. "The Battle of the Blue of the Second Regiment, Kansas State Militia."

Written many years after the battle, it contains many facts, is readable and well written. Gage was a member of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. 7 pp.

Goodman, Thomas M. "A True Narrative."

Edited by Captain Harry A. Houston in 1868, this typescript delineates the Centralia, Missouri massacre of 1864. Of particular interest to students of guerrilla warfare.

Gorman, Patrick. Typed copy of an interview taken at Fort Scott by C. E. Cory, January 20, 1908. Gorman tells of the organization of the Sixth Kansas cavalry and Bourbon county during the war. 7 pp.

Greene, Henry M. "My Big Blue Experience."

An interesting and well-written account of the battle of the Big Blue by a lieutenant colonel of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. This narrative was written several years after the engagement, October 22, 1864, and contains much dialogue. 7 pp.

Hamilton, Clad. "A Colonel of Kansas: A Sketch of Colonel H. C. Lindsey." Typed copy not seen. Card offers no further information. 18 pp. Reprinted in Kansas Historical Collections, 10: 282-292.

Haynes, Mrs. Jane D. Interviewed by C. E. Cory, January 17, 1908, Mrs. Haynes told of the organization of three companies of the Home Guards at Fort Scott in July, 1861. Mention is made of the organization of the Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment. 2 pp.

Horne, Dan. "The Great Southern Expedition."

A sketch of the southern expedition into the Indian Territory. Some engaging political maneuvering appears in this brief. Copied from the Topeka Daily State Record, August 2, 1871. 5 pp.

Jenkins, Wilton A. A short autobiographical sketch, including his services as a lieutenant colonel in the Fifth Kansas cavalry. 4 pp.

Kemp, John. "What I Remember of the Battle of the Blue and Incidents Connected With It."

Personal recollections of the battle of the Big Blue by the duty sergeant, Co. D, Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. This monograph written in January, 1897, is comprised of dialogue. 4 pp.

Lyman, William A. "Reminiscences of his Civil War Experiences by a member of the Seventh Kansas Cavalry Regiment."

As the title implies, this is a reflection of Lyman's war experiences. A lengthy historical review of his personal military career in Co. G, Seventh Kansas cavalry. While written with a historic approach, there are evidences of analytical reflection, particularly in his criticism of Colonel D. R. Anthony. 34 pp.

McGonigle, James A. A paper read before a meeting of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Atchison, October 11, 1913. Primarily writing from the Missouri viewpoint, McGonigle tells of the political conditions and boundary lines of Missouri and Kansas at the start of the Civil War. 4 pp.

Loyal Legion, Leavenworth, May 11, 1912, giving a general review of the activities of the First Kansas infantry regiment at the battle of Wilson's Creek, Missouri. It contains a roster of officers.

McVicar, Dr. Peter. Sermon preached at the funeral of those who fell at the battle of the Big Blue, October 22, 1864; interred at Wyandotte and reinterred at a Topeka cemetery, December 10, 1864. Funeral services were held at the Congregational Church in Topeka, December 10, 1864. unpaged.

Miles, Sterling. "Reminiscences of the Battle of the Big Blue."

Written on December 12, 1896, this paper is another reminiscence of the battle of the Big Blue. Miles was a captain in Co. D, Second Kansas regiment, Kansas State Militia. 3 pp.

Morrill, Edmund N. A report made to Governor Morrill by the Chattanooga and Chickamauga Battlefield Memorial Commission. It tells of the Eighth Kansas infantry's participation in these campaigns.

Palmer, Henry E. "The Border War-When, Where."

A lengthy narration of his war experiences from the time of his enlistment in 1861 through November, 1865. A wordy description of the precipitating events, the raid itself and the aftermath of the raid. 18 pp.

"Price's Raid: My Recollections of Stirring Events Which Happened Forty Years Ago."

Personal recollections of Price's raid by one who helped defend Kansas from the attackers. A stirring dramatization of a crucial fifteen-day period in the history of Kansas. Palmer was commanding officer of Co. A, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment. 23 pp.

Porter, Dr. David. "Personal Reminiscences of the Civil War."

A paper read before the Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Kansas City, September, 1916, concerning personal reminiscences of the Civil War. A coverage of several battles in Missouri and Arkansas by a member of the Kansas Volunteers. 7 pp.

Reader, Samuel J. "The Battle of the Blue."

Lengthy discourse on the battle of the Blue; mostly in dialogue form. 153 pp.

"Autobiography from the Diary of 1864."

This autobiography concerns the battle of the Blue and other campaigns of the Price raid. It contains many original sketches and illustrations created by the author. 124 pp.

Reader was a member of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. Rice, Harvey D. "Reminiscences of the Battle of the Blue...."

An interesting tale of happenings to the people of Kansas during the threat of Price's invasion in October, 1864, by a member of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. 10 pp.

- Rieff, Colonel A. V. A map and sketch of the battle of Cane Hill and Cove Creek, Arkansas. Report dated March 8, 1908. 1 p.
- Robinson, Charles. A record of military officers commissioned by Governor Robinson between February 19 and October 29, 1862.

'n

- Utt, John. A military history of the Seventh Kansas cavalry regiment written by an officer of the regiment. 20 pp.
- Copied from an unidentified newspaper, a brief sketch of the formation of the Sixth Kansas infantry regiment and the death of Colonel Jewell. 2 pp.
- Typewritten copy of the history and roster of Co. K, Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment, 1862-1865.
- Van de Mark, John V. "James Montgomery."

A thesis submitted to the department of history of Washburn College for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, June 6, 1906. Sections of this thesis deal with Montgomery's Civil War service. unpaged.

- Williams, Levi. "My Recollections of the Battle of the Blue,"
 - Personal recollections of the battle of the Big Blue by one who was present. 8 pp.
- Winans, H. K. A description of the burial of the dead of the Second regiment, Kansas State Militia, who fell at the battle of the Blue, October 22, 1864. 5 pp.
- Big Blue, by a member of Co. H, Second regiment, Kansas State Militia. 8 pp.

Quantrill's Raid on Lawrence, August 21, 1862
A penciled sketch of the havoc at Lawrence by Sherman Enderton, Co. E, Eleventh Kansas cavalry, who reached the scene of destruction several hours later. (Kansas State Historical Society.)

QUANTRILL'S RAID

During the four years in which the Civil War engulfed the United States, few events transpired that overshadow the "Quantrill Massacre" for grimness, destruction and death of noncombatants. While bushwhacking and jayhawking were common during the war in the West, they showed a severity at Lawrence which was not thought possible in those then modern times.

The following manuscripts pertain directly or indirectly to Quantrill's raid on Lawrence, Kansas, August 21, 1863. Some of them were written the very day of the incident, while others were penned several to many years later and were therefore tempered with hearsay or intentional untruths. The majority of the entries condemn the raid and support the historians' views that it was ruthlessly bloody, thoroughly devastating and unprovoked. However, several documents uphold the attack by pointing out that it was what Kansas in general, and Lawrence in particular, deserved.

Calvert, Mrs. J. E. Personal recollections of Quantrill's raid. Undated, but written many years later. She personally observed some of the events; others were told her by her father.

Campbell, A. H. Interview with Quantrill while both men were entertained in the home of John Ward at Fort Smith, Arkansas. Quantrill told Campbell of murdering Herrington and eighteen other men from a Missouri regiment. Campbell was later taken as a prisoner of war at Cane Hill, Arkansas. 4 pp. Case, Alexander E. A paper discussing the possibility of Sallie Young's piloting Quantrill into Lawrence at the time of his raid. Written January 1, 1915. 3 pp.

- Chase, C. M. An account of Chase's journey from the south towards Lawrence, August 21, 1863, mentioning evidences of devastation. See Chase's letters dated August 22 and 29, 1863.
- Collamore, Mrs. G. W. Writing in October, 1863, Mrs. Collamore journalized the Quantrill raid. She alleges that there were traitors in Lawrence. 4 pp.
- Dean, John M. Written to W. W. Scott, an account of Quantrill and other Kansas affairs. 11 pp. See letters of J. M. Dean. January 7-September 7, 1879.
- Fairfield, S. H. Recollections of the Quantrill raid on Lawrence by the military postmaster of the District of the Border. Fairfield was a staunch vindicator of Colonel Thomas Ewing's General Order No. 11, which displaced the population from Missouri counties bordering Kansas and destroyed the forage. It was written August 16, 1913. 3 pp.

٦,

Fisher, Charles E. "Personal Recollections of the Quantrell Massacre."

The ravage of Lawrence as seen through the eyes of a ten year old boy.

Fisher, Hugh D. "The Heroine of Lawrence Ks."

The story of Mrs. E. M. Fisher, wife of H. D. Fisher. Mrs. Fisher saved her husband from Quantrill. 5 pp.

- An account of the destruction and pillage of the "Athens of the West." The Reverend Fisher was a widely sought quarry by Quantrill's men. 6 pp.
- Geary, Daniel. A letter written to George W. Martin, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, dated Kansas City, January 16, 1913, enclosing a typed copy of the clipping "Guerrilla Chief Quantrell," by John S. Watson, from the Confederate Veteran. Geary comments on numerous misstatements printed in the article. 1 p.
- Gregg, William H. A monograph on the Quantrill massacre revealing the bias that Kansas received what it deserved for the burning of Osceola, Missouri, in 1862, the destruction of other Missouri towns and the capture of a guard house in which some of the Quantrill raiders' wives and sisters were imprisoned. 5 pp.
- Griffith, George W. E. "The Quantrel Raid. A Heroic Woman."

An article written by a California real-estate broker in 1924, concerning heroic women in the Quantrill raid. Griffith refers especially to Mrs. Hugh Fisher, wife of the Methodist-Episcopal chaplain, who out-foxed Quantrill by hiding her husband in a "potato hole" and later smuggling him out of the house wrapped in a carpet. 3 pp.

Harrington, Grant W. "Did Lane Swim?"

A version of General James Lane's escape from Lawrence, by swimming the Kansas river. Written June 3, 1938. 3 pp.

- Holbrook, William, and Mary Holbrook. An account of the Quantrill raid written April 14, 1865. 2 pp.
- Leonard, Henry B. Leonard's personal experiences at the time of the raid. 3 pp. Written January 1, 1902.
- Marcell, F. A. Personal reminiscences of the Quantrill massacre. 2 pp.
- Rhodes, Mrs. A brief description of the Lawrence massacre, 4 pp.
- Robinson, Mrs. Sara T. D. "Personal Recollections of the Quantrill Raid."

 A paper presented to the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs, Topeka, May 18, 1905. 19 pp.
- Shea, John C. Reminiscences of the Quantrill raid on Lawrence, which the author asserts is the only valid account published. An exciting and vivid compilation of narratives of eyewitnesses. 27 pp.

Speer, William. Personal recollections of the Quantrill massacre. 6 pp.

Names of the survivors of the Quantrill raid. 1 vol. Compiled August 21, 1891.

MILITARY RECORDS

There is a perplexing amount of paper work necessary to the operation and mobility of any army, and the armed forces of the Civil War were no exception; men had to be fed and clothed, and they had to be paid. Officers had to be commissioned, men enlisted and mustered, and orders and reports submitted. There is included in this section a partial collection of those essential implements of war that entangled company clerks and mess sergeants.

Wherever possible these collections are presented by regiments and companies.

First Kansas infantry regiment:

Vouchers for payment of purchased items.

First Kansas Colored infantry regiment:

One routine manuscript concerning overpayment of an account for forage. It orders the payment stopped.

Third Kansas regiment:

Muster roll of Co. C.

Roll call of Co. E. The names of fifty men written on a strip of leather. Several manuscripts relating to courts-martial involving troops of the Third Kansas regiment.

Fourth Kansas regiment:

Muster roll of the Fourth Kansas regiment.

Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Manuscripts relating to courts-martial involving troops of the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Muster roll of the Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment.

Miscellaneous Civil War papers and commissions belonging to James Williams, Co. F. Williams served as captain of Co. F, later as commanding officer of the First Kansas Colored infantry, 1863-1865, and was promoted to brigadier general on February 13, 1865.

Morning reports, Co. B, 1863-1864.

Invoices of ordnance stores turned over to H. Johnston, Commanding Officer, Fifth Kansas cavalry regiment, by Captain J. L. Reno, Commanding Officer of the arsenal at Fort Leavenworth.

Three commissions and three muster rolls belonging to Thomas Scudder.

Sixth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Vouchers for payments of purchases.

Description book, Co. A, containing names of the officers and men of Co. A and other statistics; e.g., height, age, complexion, birth place, enlistment data and remarks.

Seventh Kansas cavalry regiment:

Rolls of noncommissioned officers and privates employed in the subsistence department on extra duty. Receipt roll of extra duty men.

Returns of commissary property.

Muster out roll of Co. G, September, 1865.

Returns of commissary property and provisions, abstracts of issues, receipt rolls of extra duty men and payrolls of extra duty men.

~

7

Ninth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Muster roll, Co. I.

Vouchers.

Tenth Kansas infantry regiment:

Miscellaneous orders and reports of Colonel James Montgomery in South Carolina and Florida, December, 1863.

Lists of casualties and members of Companies C, D and I.

Muster rolls of Companies A, D, H and K.

Vouchers

Manuscripts, letters, reports and muster rolls of Co. G.

Eleventh Kansas cavalry regiment:

Muster roll of the field staff and band.

Vouchers.

Muster and descriptive roll.

Muster out roll.

Manuscript items collected by Preston B. Plumb, 1862-1865, including muster rolls, reports and returns, general and special orders, letters and miscellaneous documents. Also a book of maps of western military stations. Twelfth Kansas infantry regiment:

Muster rolls of Companies C, G, H and K.

Vouchers

Approximately five hundred manuscript items collected by Augustus W. Burton, 1862-1865, who was mustered into federal service as a first lieutenant in Co. H on September 30, 1862. Included are:

Invoices of ordnance and ordnance stores.

Invoices of clothing, camp and garrison equipage.

Receipts for military goods.

Receipt rolls for military clothing.

Quarterly returns of ordnance and ordnance stores.

Monthly returns of ordnance and ordnance stores.

Monthly returns of clothing, camp and garrison equipage.

Special requisitions for ammunition.

Abstracts of expenditures.

Lists of transferred items.

Certificates.

Receipts for subsistence issues.

Requisitions for recruits.

Special orders from the Department of Missouri.

Special orders from the District of the Upper Arkansas.

General orders from post headquarters.

Special orders from post headquarters.

Circulars from the Department of Missouri,

Thirteenth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Vouchers.

Fourteenth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Vouchers.

Fifteenth Kansas cavalry regiment:

Muster roll of Companies B, C, E, I, K and M.

Vouchers.

Muster roll of Co. M, December 31, 1864-February 28, 1865.

First regiment, Indian Home Guard:

An order stopping monthly payments to Lieutenant O. S. Coffin until certain subsistence reports were submitted to headquarters.

Second regiment, Indian Home Guard:

Register of commissioned officers.

Routine correspondence and special orders, 1862-1863.

Third regiment, Indian Home Guard:

Register of commissioned officers.

Clothing receipt rolls, Co. E.

Quarterly returns of clothing, camp and garrison equipage for Co. E.

Miscellaneous correspondence and general orders.

Invoices of quartermaster stores.

Invoices of clothing, camp and garrison equipage.

Clothing receipt rolls.

Blank forms.

Seventh regiment, Kansas State Militia:

Orders.

Ordnance records.

Permits.

Correspondence.

Ninth regiment, Kansas State Militia:

Muster roll, Co. I.

Tenth regiment, Kansas State Militia:

Payroll, Co. K.

Muster roll, Co. A.

Twelfth regiment, Kansas State Militia:

Payroll, Co. B.

Nineteenth regiment, Kansas State Militia:

Muster roll, Co. E.

Payroll, Co. E.

Roster, Co. E.

Adjutant General, Kansas:

Eleven boxes of correspondence, reports, orders, etc., pertaining to Kansas volunteer regiments, 1861-1865. Cataloged by regiments and dates. Miscellaneous commands and departments:

Blunt, General James G. Monthly report of commissioned officers in the department of Southern Kansas for December, 1864.

Morse, C. B. Vouchers for expense of his transportation while employed as a recruiting agent for colored troops, August-September, 1863.

Scott Guards, Muster roll of a Douglas county organization, W. I. Blackman, captain.

Shawnee County Home Guards, Military District of. Order book of Major Andrew Stork, recording orders and events of the Home Guards of the Military District of Shawnee County during the period of October 11-October 26, 1864.

Topeka Cadets. Commission to William Hamilton as a first lieutenant in the Topeka cadets.

Topeka Volunteer Artillery Company. Muster roll of this company for the city of Topeka.

Paymaster's Department, Fort Leavenworth:

Muster rolls.

Abstracts.

Accounts.

Returns.

Vouchers.

Paymaster Department, Kansas:

A list of officers not on duty.

List of quartemaster's stores.

List of appointments in the invalid corps.

Monthly and quarterly returns of office furniture accounts.

Paymaster General, Kansas:

Receipt to Charles Chadwick for payrolls of the Kansas State Militia for services in 1861-1863; statements of sums paid and unpaid and monies received.

Scouts:

A list of men who served as scouts in the Indian Territory and near Kansas, November, 1863, including pay received and locality of service. Also two items of correspondence written to secretary George Martin, June 4 and April 10, 1909, concerning those scouts known as the "Red Legs."

VΙ

CIVIL WAR NEWSPAPERS

The purpose of this chapter is to include every newspaper published in Kansas during the Civil War era, April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865, whose files are found in the newspaper section of the Kansas State Historical Society. Some of these files are complete, some partially complete, while other files have only a few issues. There were numerous other papers published in Kansas during that crucial period which, for one reason or another, the Society has never been able to obtain. Although these papers were published during the Civil War, there is no guarantee that a given journal contains pertinent information on specific wartime activities of the Sunflower State.

The majority of these newspapers are listed in William E. Connelley's History of Kansas Newspapers or Winifred Gregory's American Newspapers, 1821-1936. Most of these journals will have terminal dates, both beginning and ending; however, in some instances neither the published listings of the newspapers or scrutiny of the files revealed these dates. When the files begin and end outside the established dates of the Civil War, they are listed as April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Also deemed noteworthy and included here are the newspapers published by Kansas regiments in other states and out-of-state regimental newspapers printed in Kansas.

Atchison Bulletin. Weekly. June 27, July 4, 11, 18, August 2, 8, 15, 1861.

Atchison Bulletin. Tri-weekly. June 20, 1861.

Atchison Champion and Press. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Atchison Champion and Press. Daily. March 22, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Atchison Union. Weekly. September 7, 1861.

Auburn Docket. Weekly. July 6, 1861.

Burlingame Chronicle. Weekly. October 24, 1863 to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Commercial Gazette, Kansas City. Weekly, October 15, 1861.

Congregational Record, Lawrence. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Doniphan County Patriot, Troy. Weekly. May 2, 1862, April 11, 1863.

Elwood Free Press. Weekly, April 12, 1861, to September 14, 1861.

Emporia News. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to December 31, 1864. microfilm.

Fort Scott Bulletin. Weekly. September 6, October 4, 1861, May 10, to October 18, 1862.

Fort Scott Democrat. Weekly. September 21, 1861.

Fort Scott Western Volunteer. Weekly. March 31, April 5, 26, May 3, 1862.

Freedom's Champion, Atchison. Weekly. June 29, August 3, 17, December 28, 1861, February 14, 1862, to April 9, 1865.

Hamden Expositor, Burlington. Weekly. October 24, 1861, July 9, 1864.

Hiawatha Union-Sentinel. Weekly. August 20, 1864, to April 9, 1865.

Humboldt Herald. Weekly. February 3, 10, March 24, 1865.

Junction City Union. Weekly. February 3, 10, March 12, 1861, to November 19, 1864. This paper was first called the Smoky Hill and Republican Union.

Kansas Chief, Troy. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Kansas Educational Journal, Leavenworth. Monthly. January, 1864, to April, 1865.

Kansas Farmer, Topeka. Weekly. May 1, 1863, to April 9, 1865.

Kansas Frontier, Junction City. Weekly. May 25, June 15, 1861.

Kansas Patriot, Burlington. Weekly. September 3, 1864, to April 9, 1865.

Kansas Press, Council Grove and Cottonwood Falls. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Kansas State Journal, Lawrence. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865. The files for 1864 and 1865 contain scattered issues.

"}

Kansas Tribune, Topeka. Weekly. April 12, to December 28, 1861.

Kansas Tribune, Lawrence. Daily. January 1, 1863, to April 9, 1865. microfilm. This paper was also known as the Lawrence Tribune.

Kansas Weekly Tribune, Lawrence. Weekly. January 1, 1863, to April 9, 1865.

Lawrence Republican. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to November 13, 1862, microfilm.

Leavenworth Conservative. Daily. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Leavenworth Conservative. Weekly. May 24, June 29, July 2, 1861, January 2, to December 25, 1862.

Leavenworth Evening Bulletin. Weekly. September 18, 1862, October, 1864.

Leavenworth Herald. Weekly. April 12, to August 3, 1861. microfilm.

Leavenworth Inquirer. Daily. October 24, 29, 1862.

Leavenworth Inquirer. Weekly. May 29, April 17, May 15, June 5, October 30, 1862, January 1, February 5, 1863.

Leavenworth Times. Daily. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Manhattan Express. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to October 11, 1862.

Manhattan Independent. Weekly. August 10, 1863, to February 24, 1865.

Minneola Journal. Weekly. March 19, to September 3, 1864.

Neosho Valley Register, Iola. Weekly. October 17, 1861.

Olathe Mirror. Weekly. May 16, 1861, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Oskaloosa Independent. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Richmond Daily Inquirer. Weekly. December 12, 1864.

Seneca and Nemaha Courier. Weekly. November 14, 1863, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Southern Kansas Herald, Paola. Weekly, September, 1864, April 7, 1865.

Topeka State Journal. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to November 25, 1863. February 22, April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Topeka Tribune. Daily. August 22, 1863, January 12, to March 1, 1864.

Topeka Truth Teller. Weekly, February 17, to March 4, 1862.

Wabaunsee Patriot. Weekly. September 7, October 19, 1861.

Western Argus, Wyandotte. Weekly. 1861.

White Cloud Kansas Chief. Weekly. April 12, 1861, to April 9, 1865. microfilm.

Wyandotte Gazette. Weekly. September 21, 1861, to April 9, 1865.

Young America, Baldwin. Weekly. 1864, to April 9, 1865.

The following are regimental newspapers:

Arkansas Traveler, Cane Hill, Arkansas. January 1, 1863. Published by Kansas Jayhawkers.

Buck and Ball, Cane Hill, Arkansas. December 6, 1862. Published by the Eleventh Kansas Volunteer regiment.

Clinton Journal, Clinton, Missouri. July 4, 1861. Published by U.S. forces under command of Major Sturgis, First Kansas Volunteer regiment.

Soldier's Letter, Kansas City and Fort Riley. August, 1864, November 28, 1865. Published for the Second Colorado cavalry.

The First Kansas, Chillicothe, Missouri. October 16, 1861, and January 18, 1862.

The Wisconsin Volunteer, Leavenworth. February 6, 1862. Published by the Thirteenth Wisconsin Volunteer regiment.

The Emporia State Research Studies

- Vol. I, No. 1, 1952: Willis Ratzlaff, The Limnology of Some Roadside Ditches in Chase and Lyon Counties, Kansas. No. 2, 9 1952: C. Stewart Boertman, Apportionment in the Kansas House of Representatives. No. 3, 9 1953: John Breukelman and Ted F. Andrews, Offerings and Enrollments in Secondary School Sciences in Kansas in 1951-52. No. 4, 1953: George S. Blair, The Office of County Coroner in Kansas.
- Vol. II, No. 1, 1953: Green D. Wyrick, The World of Ernest Hemingway. No. 2,* 1953: Ira Everett Welch, The Comparison of Column Method Versus the Context Method in the Teaching of Spelling. No. 3, 1954: Jerry P. Leibman, Press Freedom and Libel as Defined by Kansas Case Law. No. 4, 1954: Harold Crimmins, A History of The Kansas Central Railway, 1871-1935.
- Vol. III, No. 1, 1954: Fred W. Grabhorn, Status of Teachers of Business Subjects in the Secondary Schools of Kansas, 1953-1954; Billy Lee Fowler, Turnover of Business Teachers in the Secondary Schools in Kansas, 1952-1953; Eleanor Patrick Evans, List of Free Teaching Aids for Typewriting, Bookkeeping, and Shorthand. No. 2, 1954: Garrett R. Carpenter, Silkville: A Kansas Attempt in the History of Fourierist Utopias, 1869-1892. No. 3, 1955: John C. Scafe, Foreign Language Teaching in Kansas High Schools, 1953-1954. No. 4, 1955: Richard A. Valyer, A Proposed Course of Study for Driver Education.
- Vol. IV, No. 1, 1955: Jessie Louise Losey, A Selected, Annotated List of One-Act Plays for Festival Use. No. 2, 1955: George E. Thornton, The Social and Moral Philosophy of Thomas Dekker. No. 3, 1956: John Breukelman and Ted F. Andrews, Offerings and Enrollments in Secondary School Sciences in Kansas in 1954-1955. No. 4, 1956: S. Hull Sisson and Harry Walthall, An Annotated Bibliography of Theses Accepted for the Master of Science Degree, Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, 1945 Through 1954.
- Vol. V, No. 1,6 1956: Walt Butcher, Presidential Election Returns for Kansas, 1864-1952. No. 2,6 1956: Alex A. Daughtry, A Report on the Post-Graduation Activities of the 1955 Kansas High School Graduates. No. 3, 1957: Carl W. Prophet, Seasonal Variations and Abundance of Cladocera and Copepoda and Some Physical-Chemical Conditions of the Fall and Verdigris Rivers in Wilson and Montgomery Counties, Kansas: Claire L. Schelske, An Ecological Study of the Fishes of the Fall and Verdigris Rivers in Wilson and Montgomery Counties, Kansas. No. 4, 1957: William C. Tremmel, The Social Concepts of George Herbert Mead.
- Vol. VI, No. 1,* 1957: John M. Matthews, Sang De Boeuf: Its Chinese Historical References and Local Reduction Experiments in Electric Firing Kilns. No. 2, 1957: Weldon N. Baker and Merle E. Brooks, Background and Academic Preparation of the Teachers of Science in the High Schools of Kansas 1955-1956. No. 3,* 1958: Harold V. Sare, Nehru and the Rise of the Modern State of India. No. 4, 1958: Robert M. Taylor, Acoustics for the Singer.
- Vol. VII, No. 1, 1958: Robert F. Clarke, An Ecological Study of Reptiles and Amphibians in Osage County, Kansas. No. 2, 1958: Harold V. Sare and Wallace Browning, Background and Academic Preparation of the Social Science Teachers in the High Schools of Kansas 1956-1957. No. 3, 1959: John M. Burger, Background and Academic Preparation of the Mathematics Teachers in the Public High Schools of Kansas 1957-1958. No. 4, 1959: Johnny L. Kloefkorn, A Critical Study of the Work of H. L. Mencken as Literary Editor and Critic on the American Mercury.
- Vol. VIII, No.1, 1959: Herman H. Harris, Jr., The History and Calculation of Pi. No. 2, 1959: Willard O. Stibal, The Historical Development of Student Personnel Records in Colleges and Universities. No. 3, 1960: Donald E. Zimmerman, The Nature of Man: John Donne's Songs and Holy Sonnets. No. 4, 1960: Emily L. Hartman, The F. B. and Rena G. Ross Natural History Reservation.
- Vol. IX, No. 1, 1960: Charles E. Walton, To Maske in Myrthe: Spenser's Theatrical Practices in The Faerie Queene. No. 2, 1960: Paul G. Jantzen, The Ecology of a Boggy Marsh in Stafford County, Kansas. No. 3, 1961: R. Alton Lee, Pasquale Paoli: Fighter for Freedom. No. 4, 1961: Eugene Donald Decker, A Selected Annotated Bibliography of Sources in the Kansas State Historical Society Pertaining to Kansas in the Civil War.

This issue is no longer available.